

AN ELECTION FOR ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY DELEGATES TO A CONVENTION TO REVISIT THE CONSTITUTION WILL BE HELD ON THE FIRST THURSDAY OF AUGUST NEXT. THE CONVENTION WILL MEET AT BALDWIN ON THE 6TH OF THE FOLLOWING SEPTEMBER.

GRANT'S CABINET.

The President is about to reconstruct his Cabinet. His former pet, the partisan schemer Williams, resigns the Attorney Generalship quite precipitately. Delano is also about to withdraw, it would seem somewhat under a cloud, if the statements elsewhere printed are corroborated.

What these movements betoken perhaps no man not in the confidence of Grant can now say. If Bristow and Jewell were going out and these men were going to stay and run the machine it might be reasonably presumed that the policy of bitterness and folly was to be continued. But the moderates stay and the extremes go out. We would not be surprised at any sudden surrenders of "His Excellency." He took two positions and made two contrary suggestions to Congress in the case of the Arkansas Governorship. He is by no means as mule-headed as he is commonly thought to be. With him the first consideration is the third term. He would change his policy to make sure of the nomination. If he finds that the Republicans of the North will not stand his ultraism he will roar them as gently as any sucking dove. Bottom-the Weaver was nothing to what he would be to carry that third term idea through successfully.

If Grant is cleaning out the Augean stables, the country will be benefited, however fares the third term. There are few worse men in the ranks of the Republican party than Otho Williams. Nearly all the rascality committed upon the South during the lamentable administration of Grant can be traced directly to his restless little brain and malicious heart. Louisiana and other Southern States can never forget this miniature combination of Marat and Fouche, and they rejoice that he retires to the shades of private life. The wave that buries his party will bury him. He can no more replace Judge Kelley in the United States Senate than he can fly, unless all calculations and every sign of sky and air fail. Delano is a partisan, no great things in point of ability, a mere place-man, using his office for selfish, and it is charged, dishonest purposes. Nobody except his circle of personal friends will miss him.

As wags the lovely Cabinet so will wag its master in 1876.

DEVELOPMENT OF ART CULTURE.

We find a very interesting summary in the Philadelphia Ledger of a curious paper by Prof. Allen, of the Pennsylvania University. It treats of the Life-Form in Art, and is devoted to the study of the gradual development of art culture, and it shows by numerous illustrations that the art history of a people is of great service in tracing back their general culture to its sources. From the signs which make the language of a primitive, to the art which expresses its highest culture, there is a regular gradation, which may be traced in the archaeological collections of various races. Beginning with the more or less successful reproduction of the living objects before the unconscious artist, there is a circle around which art travels, until in its last development it returns to its earliest purpose, and is measured by its fidelity to truth as the test of its excellence. Dr. Allen traces with much thoroughness the originals to which we owe our conventional types, such as dragons, griffins, sphinxes and other puzzling forms in which art enlarges upon and sometimes caricatures nature. Mr. Darwin has devoted a volume to the record of his researches upon the human expression, and Dr. Allen has gathered together illustrations to show how important the study is, both in the art and the ethnology of various nationalities. The Ledger makes this suggestive remark: "In our art collections of other objects than conventional pictures or statuary we are making ourselves acquainted with the more or less successful attempts of man to record his thoughts in carvings, in painted images, or in such other form or material as will best perpetuate his ideas or actions. Apart from their value as mere rarities, there is a higher and more important interest in the greater or less degree to which they reproduce for us the times of generations long gone by, many of them with little or no written or other literary history."

MECKLENBURG CENTENNIAL.

Recently our Mecklenburg has put to rout most of the doubting Thomases, and satisfied all reasonable misgivings as to the fact of her Declaration of Independence having been the earliest. Men from all parts of the Union have yielded our claim to celebrate the 20th of May. But here comes a whisper of dissent, the claim of a prior patriotic impulse carried into execution. A Pennsylvania paper says:

Mecklenburg will now please douse its centennial gim before Westmoreland county, Pa., a century plant that blossoms five days earlier than the North Carolina flower. The Westmorelanders, according to their traditions, threw off the yoke of tyranny and put forth a declaration of independence on the 15th of May, 1775, whereas Mecklenburg absolved its allegiance on the 20th. We do not care to enter into a discussion of the respective claims of these localities. Let them both celebrate and get all the glory they can out of it. Anything with the century marks about is all right.

Pennsylvania that has the big National Centennial seeks to wrest our smaller State laurels from our modest brow. A big boy teasing, bullying and stealing the biscuit from his little brother! It is outrageously small in Pennsylvania. Who ever heard of this alleged Westmoreland Declaration? And why did they make it only five days before ours? The thing is palpably a big Quaker joke of our Philadelphia friends who may be jealous of our little affair.

GRANT'S HOPES.

The Washington correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal says, "The discussion whether Gen. Grant intends to be a candidate for a third term is reviving in political circles. The belief here is very general that he will be. A prominent Republican Congressman, who some time since discarded the report of Gen. Grant running again, since then has had a fair talk on the political future with the President, and has changed his opinion. He now says that while the President did not in this interview make any explicit declaration on the subject, at the same time the impression was very decidedly made on his own mind that the President expected to be a candidate again."

We have always been of those who believe Grant wishes a third term and means to have it if his party nomination will give it to him.

AN EX-TREASURER IN DURANCE.

Niles G. Parker locked up in jail at Columbia is certainly not quite so formidable a person as Niles G. Parker in the Treasurer's office embezzling the funds of the State. But he is just as useful in pointing a moral and adorning the sad liad of South Carolina's woes. He was arrested Wednesday on the complaint of D. H. Chamberlain, T. C. Dunn, S. W. Melton, W. B. Nash and Paris Simkins, as commissioners of the sinking fund, for embezzling money of that fund while State Treasurer to the amount of $28,100, and put in jail, not having been able to give the bail required.

Gov. Chamberlain's administration so far certainly seems to the observant bystander all that could have been expected of his late competitor, Judge Green, had he been elected and had he lived to carry out the reform platform.

The Richmond Dispatch pays a merited tribute, apropos of the eulogies last Monday at Lexington, to Samuel Adams. He was undoubtedly the most warm-hearted and simple-minded of all his house, and probably "the greatest man Massachusetts ever produced."

Ohio Republicans are getting sick already over their prospects in Ohio. They'll be sicker when Blallen gets down Holler'n' at 'em next fall.

The Author of Lynch Law.

The Lynchburg, (Va.) News lately recorded the death of Charles Henry Lynch, who, it is stated, was the grandson of Charles Lynch, the originator of the famous "Lynch law." The old tree is still standing in the yard of the family homestead from which Judge Lynch's victims were suspended. This statement is confirmed by the authority of Webster, who says "the term is derived from a Virginia farmer named Lynch, who took the law into his own hands."

He "Wrote it in a Hurry"

When a man hands an editor an article for publication, and asks him to "fix it up" because he "wrote it in a hurry, and hadn't time to revise it," you may know that he commenced the article directly after supper, and wrestled with it until after midnight, rewriting it fourteen times, destroying a quire of foolscap, and "blessed" his pen every two minutes. That's the way they generally write an article when they are "in a hurry," and have "no time to revise it."

The Corn King of Illinois.

Sullivant, the big farmer of Ford county, Ill., or the corn king, as they call him, intends to plant 10,000 acres in corn and has rented 9,000 acres more to be planted in corn. He will put 2,500 acres in flax, 1,000 acres in oats, and expects to cut 8,000 tons of hay.

STAR-DUST.

—The steamers and sailing vessels in the British marine are about as 1 to 7. —There's the capture of Ticonderago to be celebrated on the 10th of May.

—Arrangements for removing the troublesome Kickapoo tribe from Texas have been completed.

—Mr. Charles Francis Adams will address the Literary Societies of Amherst College during commencement week.

—The Chicago Advance says in spelling words where i and e come together, as perceive, relief, &c., the little word "lice" carries the key—i always follows l and e follows c.

—The Librarian of Princeton College has addressed a circular to Southern alumni of the institution, asking them to send any literature of the late war which they may possess.

—A bill will be introduced into the Connecticut Legislature early in the approaching session, providing that no member shall be qualified to hold any office of trust or emolument in the gift of that body.

—Mr. James Russell Lowell's poem, which was read at the Concord Centennial exercises on Monday, has been withheld from immediate publication, and will appear, it is said, in the Atlantic Monthly for June.

—A tramp, weighing 200 pounds, who lodged at the Wareham, Mass. Poor-house, the other night, says that he weighed but 95 pounds when he started out last winter, and recommends his business to all invalids.

—A lady, in selecting her toilette should always bear in mind that she must adorn herself in such a manner that when people look at her they think she is resting for a moment on her dress, will be concentrated on her person. So says a critical contemporary.

—A portrait of George Eliot is thus described: "It is of life size, and represents an intellectually strong woman, almost masculine in strength; a strangely sad expression on the countenance, as if she were weighed down with some great sorrow. The picture is in the possession of her Scotch publishers, and occupies a place in their private office with portraits of Sir Walter Scott, Professor John Wilson, the Ettrick Shepherd and John Gibson Lockhart."

MECKLENBURG CENTENNIAL.

NOTES.

—Charlotte says the late big fire shan't matter. —Secretary Campbell of the U. S. Centennial Commission at Philadelphia says in response to an invitation that a representation of the Commission may be expected at our Celebration.

—Hon. Charles Francis Adams is unable to attend, but writes a very courteous letter of regrets and good wishes.

—The Raleigh Sentinel remarks: Who knows but a pipe that some good old Mecklenburg farmer will smoke at the Charlotte Centennial shall be carried back there a hundred years from now and shown to "the boys" as a relic of 1875, and it will be carried about under the wing (if people will fly in those days) as a great curiosity.

—Ex-Treasurer Spinner sends a friendly letter and contribution of ten dollars.
