NOTES OF OUR BRETHREN.

Some Gleanings from the Notices in Our North Carolina Exchanges on the Late Press Convention. -

We have made extracts previously from the Raleigh News. Since then other notices of the Press Convention recently held in this city have come to hand.

The Wadesboro Argus declares its editor couldn't take notes, so busy was he in partaking the hospitalities of the city, extended by both Jew and Gentile. Dr. Harllee, who writes the account, is enthusiastic over the visit. We regret that we cannot copy portions of his report. Our space will render it necessary for us to condense all of the comments very much.

The Wadesboro Herald says: The State of North Carolina has cause to be proud of her metropolis in more ways than one. Nestled in and among the beautiful trees that line every street in the city, with the majestic Cape Fear, dotted with the ships of almost every nation, flowing that the ships of almost every nation, flowing the ships of almost every nation. past its doors, with the ocean so near that the roar of the surf may sometimes be heard, and above all with a hospitable, energetic, go-ahead people it forms one of the most delightful places of residence to be found anywhere in this broad land. In the winter season there is a salubrity in its climate, and in summer the delightful ocean breezes which fan the city day and night bring with them the healthful aroma of the pine, gath-ered from the forests through which they pass from the sea to the city. The Hillsboro Recorder, edited by Major John W. Cameron, remarks that "Wilmington still retains its reputation for beauty. and the daughters of old sweethearts in my eyes did no discredit to their mothers. As a matter of obligation incumbent upon my new position as President of the Association I did what I have not done these many years-I engaged in the dance, and, with the pleasantest of partners, it was not hard

"Three cheers for our little city near the sea," cries reverend brother Wilson of the Kinston Gazette. Why "little?"

The Warrenton Gazette has a half column editorial brief from which we copy: "On Wednesday morning, the editors, in company with many invited guests, boarded from Baltimore for their special use, and proceeded down the historic Cape Fear to the Ocean. On the way, Forts Fisher, Caswell, Smithville and other places of interest were visited. About 3 o'clock the prow of the noble steamer was turned homeward, and soon after the company was, invited to a splendid champagne dinner. Gov. Vance. Congressman Waddell, Capt. Maffitt, of the Confederate Navy, and many of the editors delivered handsome and appropriate speeches. Dinner lasted from 3 o'clock until sunset, and the best of good fellowship prevailed. Thursday morning the Association met in the U. S. Court Room, and after transacting its unfinished business, electing officers and listening to the address of James Baron Hope, Esq., editor of the Norfolk Landmark, adjourned, and accepted an invitation to visit the Produce Exchange, where we were heartily welcomed with speeches, champagne and other delicacies. In the afternoon a special train was placed at the disposal of the editors, and they visited the Navassa Guano Works, situated about two miles from the city. After inspecting the works and seeing the process of guano making, Col. Fremont, the President, invited his guests to partake of champagne, wine and cake. Thursday night the festivities and business of the occasion were closed by one of the grandest balls perhaps ever given in the State. * "The fraternity left Wilmington highly pleased with the elegant hospitality of its

"In another issue we will give a state ment of the exports and imports of our chief seaport city. The Oxford Leader concludes its account

Our leave of absence having expired, we got aboard of the train bound for Weldon and arrived in Oxford safe and sound Friday evening, well pleased with the trip and with a strong determination to meet those "boys" again in Newbern.

The Oxford Torchlight, whose editor is probably the youngest in the Association. says he was "treated to the very best the Wilmington market afforded."

Military Reception. The Independent and LaFayette Light Infantry Companies of Fayetteville, which had been in attendance upon the Mecklenburg Centennial, arrived here from Charlotte yesterday morning and were received by the Wilmington Light Infantry at the depot of the Carolina Central Railroad. The battalion then formed under command of Capt. M. P. Taylor, of the Wilmington Light Infantry, in the following order:

> Wilmington Light Infantry. Independent Light Infantry.

LaFayette Light Infantry. The procession, headed by the LaFayette Silver Cornet Band and the drum corps, narched down to the armory of the Wilmington Light Infantry, where an excellent breakfast had been prepared On the arrival of the battalion at the armory Capt. M. P. Taylor made a short speech welcoming the Fayetteville companies to the hospitalities of their Wilmington friends. The remarks of Capt. Taylor were fittingly responded to by Mr. J. H. Myrover on the part of the Fayetteville companies. A general charge was then made upon the breakfast, which had been provided for the occasion, and after the eatables had succumbed to the charge the companies were disbanded until 12 o'clock for a stroll around the city.

Reforming again in the same order as before, at 12 o'clock they visited by invitation the house of Mr. F. W. Kerchner, where a general good time was had. Namerous toasts were proposed and appropriately responded to, after which the battalion again formed in front of the residence.

A salute of three guns was fired by the Independent Light Infantry, under command of Major Chas, Haigh, and also by the La Fayette Light Infantry, under command of Captein A. B. Williams, after which three cheers were given and the battalion faced about and marched down to the Fayettville steamers where they embarked and departed for home.

Centennial Notes. The Fayetteville battalion, composed of the Independent Light Infantry and La-Fayette Light Infantry companies, which attended the Mecklenburg Centennial, were the recipients of many encomiums at Charlotte and elsewhere where they drilled, for their orderly bearing and the precision and uniformity of their drilling.

Master Harry Smith, aged 7 years, son of Jas. B. Smith, First Lieutenant of the La-Fayette Light Infantry, acted as marker for the Fayetteville Battalion and also led the procession of the Caledonian Club, dressed in a full Scotch costume of Highland plaid, on the occasion of the Mecklenburg Centennial. The Scotch suit was sent to master Smith from Scotland by his grandmother especially for that occasion.

Mr. John J. King last night left a cassi mere coat hanging at his stall in the Market House and walked a few steps away on his right foot badly crushed beneath a piece some business. When he returned to his of scantling on one is stall he discovered that somebody had had the audacity to steal his coat, which contained only a memorandum book, during his short absence. A reward of five dollars has been offered for the coat, or ten dollars for the coat and evidence sufficient to convict the thief.

- The grand family excursion under the auspices of the Young Catholic Friends Society, which was to have taken place on next Tuesday, has been necessariday of excursion will hereafter be announced.
