CHANGE OF GAUGE MAINTAINED. The recent outrage committed under the shadow of the Supreme Court's decision has received other judicial support, as the following telegram in vesterday's Richmond dispatch shows:

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 29. The case of Cyrus P. Mendanball against A. S. Buford, President, and W. H. Green, Superintendend of the Richmond & Danville Rrailroad, for violating a statute of the State Legislature in altering the gauge of the North Carolina Railroad, came before Judge Schenck, at chambers, in this city, yesterday afternoon. The Judge discharged the prisoners on the ground that the statute under which they were arrested is unconstitutional and void, and because the prisoner were not embraced in the language of the

THE ERRATIC COPELAND ALPAS WARREN.

Who is He?-Probable Answer.

[New Orleans Bulletin.] " It never rains" but it pours" is an adage being constantly exemplified. Especially is the saving true applied to a man detected in one crime, when no sooner does his guilt appear than other and more serious charges are brought against him, and the criminal once caught is soon enveloped in a complete net-work of crimination. One of our latest local sensations is that created by the so-called Rev. W. E. Copeland.

Suspected of being an impostor and being gradually circumvented by adverse evidence, he seizes the first opportunity offering, and makes good his escape. No soone does he thus practically admit his guilt than surmise and-conjecture are busy with his name and identity. We have just been reliably informed that while he was performlog a marriage ceremony in the city, a short time ago, one of the groomsmen, who had formerly lived in Canton, Miss., remarked to a friend, "Well, if that is not Horton, it must be his brother."

This Horton was a man who, in 1878, turned up in Canton, Miss., and represented himself to be a Methodist minister. He produced many excellent credentials, and among others one from the Bishop of Mississippi, bearing testimony as to his character and ability. He soon became very popular in Canton, and especially so with the ladies of the congregation.

After the lapse of some months, some strange actions of his began to arouse suspicions as to his character and identity, and these suspicions becoming somewhat strong he concluded to leave, and did so, promis-ing to return soon and adduce satisfactory evidence to prove his innocence. Just be-fore leaving he remarked to a supposed friend, "these people think they are smart, but they are mistaken; as for good creden-tials, here is a box of the best," saying this he exhibited a bundle of documents which he kept in a box in his trunk. Whilst in Canton he represented himself to be a wid-ower, and indeed had with him a large Saratoga trunk filled with elegant female ap-

Of course he took his trunk with him and Conton has never been since honore by a visit from him. The next we hear of him is as William Wesley Warren, and he is located in an adjoining State, where, after praticing upon the credulity of many good natured souls for some time, he is at last detected in a forgery. He is promptly arrested, but escapes by knocking down his guard and jumping from the train which was bearing him to prison. Since that time he has never been heard of, and many have wondered in what new field he was indulging his favorite passime of playing ministe for a moderate consideration.

The gentleman who made use of the re mark mentioned in the early part of this article, was in Canton at the same time that Horton was, and, in fact, knew him quite well. He states that the resemblance between his old acquaintance and this Cope-land is remarkable, and that he is beyond a doubt the same person, the only difference being that Horton wore a beard, but even the removal of this did not fully deceive our informant, who was on the point several times of taking measures for his arrest, but was deterred from so doing by persuasions of friends, who were convinced of his error, and of Copeland's innocence.

tographs was sent to Gen. Badger, and probably even now adorns our rogues' gallery. At any rate we have been promised a copy of one within the next few days, and then an opportunity will be offered to judge of the identity of the two men. If they be the same, it is another evidence of the ease which shrewd and polished villains £as, in the name of religion, practice upon the credulity of Christian communities, and reaping rich harvests from the Christian Charity of the communities. charity of honest men, make a mockery of true goodness and purity. We trust this clue as to Copeland's identity will be closely followed by our detectives, and this scheming villain be prevented from imposing appearance communities with his specious wiles and dissembling villainy.

Closing Up. The usual summer custom of closing the stores in the evening will be inaugerated to-day being the first of June. The stores will be closed at 74 o'clock every evening until the 1st of September in order to allow the clerks to have some recreation during the summer. The public generally are therefore reminded of the change so that they may complete their purchasers before the hour assigned.

Wilmington and the C. C. R. Our city is the cynosure of the Western people it would seem from the numerous and generous notices it receives from the papers of that section. We reprint from the Hickory Press the whole of an editorial article, as follows:

"In the account of our trip to and from Wilmington, last week, we omitted any notice of the recently completed connection between Wilmington and Charlotte and the West, with a view of making special mention thereof at another time. With the improvements of the river and bar now being made by the government below Wilming ton, that city will soon become, if it is not already, the great port for our foreign, as well as coastwise shipping. Besides railroads through other sections of this State and South Carolina which terminates there, the completion of the C. C. R. R. to Charlotte, the great inland commercial emporium of our State, and key to nearly all the Western trade, brings Wilmington nearer to us than any seaport along the Atlantic coast. As railroads now measure, Charlotte is 240 miles from Charleston, 283 miles from Richmond, 352 miles from Norfolk, 328 miles from Beaufort and from Wilmington only 188 miles by one unbroken line of road. This difference in distance with sufficient shipping facilities must give to Wilmington an advantage over her sister cities on the coast, warranting a rapid growth in commercial importance. Every citizen of the State should rejoice at this prospect for building up at home, and add whatever he can towards the consummation of the work. It was our good fortune, during our recent visit to Wilmington to be introduced to Dr. Roberts, President of the C. C. R. R., and to learn what efforts were being made by himself and others in this direction. " Col. S. L. Fremont, the prince of railroad men, a native of Wilmington and deeply interested in whatever concerns her, or any part of the State, gave the Press Convention his views, or rather, as we understand it, the purposes of the C. C. R'y Co. to reach by some route the Cranberry Iron Works, so as to bring that isolated wealth on Friday last, in Brunswick county, is be- The route indicated is via Lincolnton, Valley. We learned from both these officers that they desired a connection at this point, and were only waiting the grading and perhaps the tieing of the route by our people to effect it. This connection and the completion of the Western N. C. R. R. through to Tennessee, makes Wilmington the great shipping point and pride of North Carolina. The Central Road has already done much towards this much desired object, and as its branches penetrate our western country it becomes more and more able to make sure our ardent wish. "What are our people doing to help this grand project, and at the same time help themselves? We have natural advantages not enjoyed by other localities. Let not lose the benefit of them by maction."

FEBRUAL DECORATION DAY.

Yesterday was observed as Federal Dec oration Day. It falls properly upon May 80th but the observance of it was post poned until yesterday on account of the 30th falling on Sunday. The day was unusually bright and sunny without being excessively warm. Nearly all the Federal and many of the county and municipal offices of the city were closed in honor of the day, and flags were thrown to the breeze from many of the respective buildings. We observed several flags at half mast upon vessels in the harbor, ATRIX 16 ,00

At 3 o'clock the ceremonies began by the marching of quite a lengthy and very creditable procession, under the command of Mr. James Heaton Chief Marshal, aided by a number of Assistant Marshal, all monated well of the Flienback Circuit.

At 11 A. M., preaching at the Methodist Church by Rev. J. E. Mann, of Front St., Wilmington. Preaching at the Baptist church at the same hour by Rev. J. T. Baga number of Assistant Marshals, all mounted and wearing appropriate scarfs.

Conspicuous in the procession was the number of carriages in which were borne the orator, chaplain and invited guests The Sumner Light Infantry, a new organization of colored men, neatly uniformed appeared in the procession; also Companies A and B of the Wilmington Rifle Guards. The military on the occasion made a very good appearance. The Cape Fear S. F. Engine Company, the Brooklyn Fire Engine Company and the Wilmington Bucket Company, the latter being a new colored organization also, participated in the ceremonies. The balance of the procession consisted of a great many children and the members of several colored religious, benevolent and other societies.

The procession was particularly notice able on account of its length, it being, we understand, the longest procession even known here on Federal Decuration Day Throughout it presented a good and orderly appearance, and the display was highly creditable to the occasion. Two bands discoursed melancholy dirges as the procession moved slowly along, the military with reversed arms, from the City Hall through the principal streets and thence out

Market street to the National Cemetery. The order of exercises, according to the programme, was taken up upon the arri of the procession at the Cemetery.

A reverent and appropriate prayer was feelingly delivered by Rev. D. J. Sanders, pastor of the colored Presbyterian church. Gen. J. C. Abbott, orator of the day, made an address which we understand to have been quite long and much appreciated. It was much of a concillatory character and was listened to attentively. It was generally admired by all those who heard it and was very handsomely spoken of. As a portion of the exercises an original poem was read by R. B. Lyan, a colored man of this city, but until lately of the

(Communicated.) CONFEDERATE DEMCHEAGE ASSO

CLATION. The heaviest debt is that of gratitude When this not in our power to repay it."
Gratitude is a painful pleasure felt none but the truly noble. Nothing so oftens the heart and causes the fountains of generous love to flow more freely than the indulgence of this passion. Like April showers and May's sweet sunshine upon the earth, it opens the pores of the human heart, wrapped by nature in the "cacoon of selfishness," and causes flowers to spring forth from soil where no seed seemed to be-flowers born of benevolence and love, and watered by tears of grateful memories. On this plea, then, daughters of Wilmington, we ask your lively interest in behalf of our Memorial Association. We ask your zeal, your ever-ready sympathy, and a small portion of your means.

The regular annual meeting of this Association will be called by order of its President in the early part of the present month, upon which occasion we earnestly request a full and hearty response to this appeal. Let all who have not formed come forward and do so; and those who were members, but have of late years failed to continue their subscriptions, repair the error, ere regrets be unavailing. Last year the number of persons present at the meeting was too, including the President and several officers. This is poor encouragement indeed. Should the Association die out now it will never repoor encouragement indeed. Should the W-Thomas Williams, Allen Williams, Association die out now it will never re- Thos E Walker, Geo B Wilson, John Werkindled into life-there will remain of its former beauty naught but ashes, "the ashes of our hopes." It is a common cause, why should not all be interested? Our noble braves died not alone for a few, earnest, loving men and women, but for all; for you, too, ye indifferent ones, who stand apart and gaze at our commemorations and critizize our acts having neither zeal enough to endure the having neither zeal enough to endure the heat and dust of a memorial march once a year nor gratitude sufficient to pay the annual subscription for the support of the Association. Twas not so in the Pagan world. The Syrian Kings had built and consecrated to Apollo an elegant temple in honor of the god of light. The temple was some four or five miles distant from the city of Antioch, and was adorned with gold and costly gems by the most skillful of Grecian artists. The deity, says the historian, was represented in deity, says the historian, was represented in a bending attitude, with a golden cup in his hand pouring out a libation upon the earth, as if in entreaty to the venerable mother to give to his arms the beautiful Daphne, of ideal fancy. To this spot pilgrims and spectators annually assembled with devo-tion raised to the highest pitch of eagerness, while youths and maidens clothed in white robes as symbols of their innocence, with a tumultuous concourse of innumerable people, all bearing garlands, oblations, and in cense, made up a grand and mighty procession. Would that a small portion of such enthusiasm might be felt among us. The annual subscription, formerly one dollar, has been, or will be at the next meeting, reduced to fifty cents-a sum surely within reach of all who possess one drop of grateful love in memory of good deeds past.

One of the objects for desiring a long list of membership is the purchasing of small memorial tablets, of which mention was made upon a former occasion. It is desirable that this desirable that the same of the same sirable that this object be attained ere another Spring brings to us our solemn festival, remembering that "perseverance keeps honor bright," and the honor award-ed to the generous soul is sure and unalloy-ed. Let the flowers of the heart, then, be nourished by principle and watered by the dews of Christian love, that when their blossoms shall ripen and be scattered upon the world the lowly pansy, and the sweet herb Rosemary, not last nor least, may lift

[From a Star Correspondent.]

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., May 29, 1875. According to notice given by the Execuive Committee of Cumberland County her Conservative citizens assembled in Convention at the Fayettevile Hall this day at 12 o'olock, for the purpose of selecting two delegates to represent her in the State Convention in September next. Maj. Jonathan Evans was called to the Chair, and Geo. W. Lawrence and W. F. Campbell requested to act as Secretaries. Maj. Evans upon taking the Chair explained the object of the meeting in a speech of some length—digni-fied, patriotic and ful of good reasons why the people of old Cumberland should exert themselves to secure the election of the nominees of the Convention, whoever they might be. At the conclusion of his speech he declared the Convention ready for business, when the names of Joseph A. Worth, Neill R. Blue, Col. T. W. Devane and others were placed in nomination. Mr. Worth was nominated on the first ballot and Neill R. Blue on the second, Col. Devane receiving a yery complimentary vote each time. Messrs Worth & Blue being present came forward and accepted their nomina-tion in a few patriotic and well timed utterances, each receiving three rousing cheers, after which, an Executive Commit tee was appointed and the convention adjourned.

We mean business now. The people old Cumberland never do things half we and if we don't make the Radicals loo Blue when the votes are counted out in August, it will be worth knowing why.

After the convention adjourned a meet ng of the citizens were called to make the necessary arrangements to celebrate the one hundreth anniversary of the Liberty Point resolutions. Col. John McRae was called to the chair and an Executive Committee appointed to take the matter in hand and nothing definate has been decided as yet, except that we intend to celebrate our Cenennial on the 21st of June. hadt tend lim titl LaCLARENDON
