QUEER HABEAS CORPUS.

A Bride Demanding Her Husband.

[Baltimore Sun of Friday.] A somewhat singular habeas corpus case was heard before Judge Brown, in the City Court yesterday, a bride having petitioned for the discharge of her husband by virtue of the personal liberty writ, alleging that he was confined to his own house by his mother and other relatives, the proceeding resulting in uniting the hus-band and wife. The petition for the writ of habeas corpus to issue was in the name of Mrs. Mary A. Bowers, nee Beckley, on behalf of her husband, Thomas Martin Bowers, who, the petition alleged, was concealed in the house No. 263 North Caroline street, by Mrs. Margaret Bowers, his mother, Mrs. Sophia Glass, his sister, Robert Glass, his brother-in-law Wm. Glass and Robert S. Glass, his nephews. The petitioner alleged that her husband, Mr. Bowers, left her at the house where she resided on Tuesday, 15th instant, the day they were married, and on Wednesday she heard he was detained at the house named, on North Caroline street, which, it is understood, was his own dwelling, where he had been hving with his relatives, that she had been denied access to him, and that he had not been permitted to see her. The answer to the petition stated that the respondents, Mrs. Bowers, the mother, and the others named, resided at the house mentioned with Thomas Martin Bowers, and that within the past week or more he had shown a deranged mind. Mr. James L. McLane, who appeared for the respondents, stated that Mr. Bowers was a respectable gentleman of means, was known as a reputable business man, and that all the parties to the case were estimable people, that there was no objection in the world to the lady Mr. Bowers has chosen for his wife; indeed, under ordinary circumstances the family would have been pleased at the marriage, but they had observed his condition, and Professor Smith had recommended that Mr. Bowers should be removed to Spring Grove Asylum. A surgical operation had recently been performed on bim for a painful ailment, and Professor Smith had attended him. The famly had acted as they thought was for the best, and had only taken proper care of him, allast farming

Mr. John H. Handy, who appeared for the petitioner, said there did not seem to be any occasion to go into the inquiry further. Mr. Bowers was present and at liberty, and there did not appear to be any disposition to roof to traverse all the allegations as to the condition of Mr. Bowers.

Judge Brown said there did not seem to be anything for him to do. No question was presented for the court to investigate. Mr. Bowers was not restrained then in any way of his liberty, and he should therefore dismiss the proceeding.

Mr. McLane acquiesced, saying he did not see what else the court could

Mr. Bowers and his wife, who had been seated together in court, then withdrew with some friends. He about forty-two years old and his wife considerably younger. It is stated they have been engaged to marry some fifteen years.

> Painful Accident. We are sorry to learn that Dr. McGougan, one of the most enterprising and skillful physicians of Cumberland county, met with a serious accident on the 18th by falling from his horse. After Dr. McGougan had fallen, the horse fell upon him, literally crushing his leg from his ankle to his thigh, He is not only dangerously ill from the effect of the injury, but is also suffering intense pain.

The sufferer is much respected in his neighborhood for his skill as a physician. and it is hoped that his speedy recovery from his injuries will soon be effected. P. M., 79; 9 P. M., 72 on Heavy Duty.

Our townsman, Col. A. M. Waddell. seems to have had his hands full during his late visit to Murfreesboro. He delivered the annual address before the Wesleyan Female College on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. We are informed by the Norfolk Virginian that "a large and brilliant audience listened attentively to the eloquent speaker. He commenced by alluding to the magnetic needle, that living iron, under the guidance of whose unerring instinct men had for centuries threaded the wayward seas in safety. There was another influence, equally magnetic and imperious, which led the grand old gardener of Eden a compliant slave to his beauteous queen. In obedience to this same influence the speaker had come at the call of the ladies to address them." Col. Waddell then congratulated his auditors on the prospect of a restored nationality. All this was introductory. The report in the Virginian continues:

The subject of the address was "America before Columbus." The topic was suggested by a remarkable passage in Humboldt's "Cosmos;" and in pursuing the investigation thus induced the speaker had lain under contribution every source of information, and now gave, condensed in brief, the re-sult of long, patient and exhaustive study. Columbus was, comparatively, a modern navigator. Before him, by 500 years, and even anterior to the discoveries of Eri the Red on the northern coast of the Continent, the southern coast between Virginia and Florida had been not only visited but settled by the intelligent and intrepid Irish race. This settlement was in the Carolinas. The Icelandic annals, whose historical value has never been properly recognized, furnish full proof of this. The outlying islands, which Christopher Columbus found by accident, were the threshold of a great Continent which had been found and settled ages before, and that, too, by Europeans, Hence it was that Sir Walter Raleigh, when he ground his keels in the shallow waters about Roanoke Island, found the Tuscaroras talking Gaelic, and with blue eyes, fair faces and auburn hair. A strong argument, furnished by many proofs, was made in sup-port of the theory that the "Great Ireland," mentioned not only by Icelandic chronicles, but even by an Arabian geographer, was no other than the country south of the Chesapeake bay, and that it was, in fact, peopled by Irishmen a thousand years ago. The lecture was too voluminous and full of detail to transfer bodily to your columns, while densed that I am conscious I do Mr. Waddell a great injustice by attempting, as I set out to do, to give anything like a synopsis of it. The learned gentleman will doubt-less repeat this instructive and interesting production at various points in the different States. I advise all to hear it if they have

Col. Waddell spoke also at night in the place of Mr. Armistead, who failed to appear. He delivered his Wake Forest address, "The Great Deep," a report of which we published last week. Besides this, on the next day he read several of the young with Intent to Kill G. W. Harper. The case of the State vs. John Fisher Wm. Fisher and Peter Lee, all colored, charged with a deadly assault upon G. W. Harper some time since came up for a hearing yesterday before Justices Van Amringe and Gardner.

The investigation was held in the Superior Court room, in order to give the throng of spectators an opportunity of istening to the trial. Mr. G. W. Harper, the victim of the murderous assault, had sufficiently recovered and was one of the principal witness-for the State. John L. Holmes, Esq., appeared for the State, John London, Esq., for the defendants John and Wm. Fisher and E. B. Sanders, Esq., for the defendant Peter Lee. Mr. G. W. Harper, the victim of the as. sault, was the first witness called. After being sworn he testified in substance as fol-

On the last Friday in May I was going to a cart: I saw some men in the pines; I saw two men come out in the road with guns. (In answer to question by counsel.) These two men, John Fisher and Wm. Fisher look like the men; I do not remember seeing Peter Lee the other prisoner; I was shot about two miles from town; the guns taken from John Fisher and Wm. Fisher were here shown to witness and he said they looked like the guns those men had the night he was shot.

H. Bonum being sworn, said: I live three miles from the Market House; I have a horse and cart, and coat and hat like Harper's; I see the Fishers out near my place gunning very often; the evening before Mr. Harper was shot; I killed a dog that had a short tail, with a gun; I have seen a dog like it with the Fisher's; I saw Lee out one day with the same dog and I told Lee if he did not keep his dogs from my stock I would kill them; I don't think that I saw Peter Lee with the Fisher's more than twice; I heard both the guns that night when Harper was shot; Harper came to my house and called out that he had been shot and I went out and helped him in the

Dr. W. J. H. Bellamy was called and testified to the number and extent of the wounds of Mr. Harper, when he was called upon to attend him on the night in question. The case was continued until Monday at 10 o'clock. This case has attracted some attention and there are about forty witnesses to be examined, which will occupy a considerable length of time. Over twenty of these witnesses are summoned for the defence. WAR DEFAULTANT MATERIAL

The Hocking Chair. That rocking chair lost from the front porch so long ago, is supposed to be found. By searching a certain "Art Gallery" not more than 30 miles from here, it is thought that a picture of the same can be seen, prominent in front of a large group in a shady grove. Strange to say tho' the occupant, as the picture shows, a stout, robust, fine looking, preacher-like person, is one above suspicion-but the lively thought oclooking friend was passing off a practical

Van Bokkelen vs. Canaday. By special telegram received from Raleigh last night, we learn that Hon. W. N. H. Smith concluded his argument for the plaintiffs yesterday, and was followed by Mr. R. C. Badger, who closed the case for the defendants. The case is now in the hands of the Supreme Court.

Our correspondent says: "There is great diversity of opinion as regards the probable decision of the Court."

Two Men Hung at Barlington; S. C. ville, S. C., that on Friday Oliver Spencer and Kelley McDonald, two colored men, suffered the extreme penalty of the law, for the crime of murder, at Darlington Court House, South Carolina. They were executed near the jail and the rope to the trap was cut at 124 o'clock. The former's neck was broken almost immediately and he died in a short time. The rope not being properly adjusted around the neck of Kelly McDonald death was produced by strangulation, with, no doubt, great suffering to the criminal. Thousands of colored people were present at the scene of the hanging, our correspondent says, with as much anticipation of its interest, as if Robinson's "big show" was giving an exhibition. The two men were convicted of having murdered two of their own race, but what morbid curiosity prompts so many to witness these now frequent tragedies, it is hard to tell, says our correspondent, yet not only did the colored people flock to the "hanging," but many of the whites having been taken with the strange infatatuion to witness the scene were also
