THE POLLY OF THE RADICAL ADBRESS.

The other day we pointed out the weakness of the recent address issued by the Executive Committee of the Radical party in North Carolina. The Raleigh News appears to see the matter in the same light, for it proceeds to show how the Radical chieftains themselves are discordant on the proposed policy of binding their candidates, if elected, to vote for an immediate adjournment. The News says these men will not join with the Radical element of the party to postpone indefinitely what reason and what conscience tells them is necessary to be done. To them, it observes, the calling of a Convention is not a farce to be concluded with a crime. If they meet the Democrats in Convention, it is with the sincere purpose of doing something for the good of the State. If, under the dictation of these Radical leaders, such men are repudiated as fit candidates to represent the party, their influence may nevertheless be expected to be exerted to counteract some of the bad effects of Radical teach-

Ex-Judge Thomas is mentioned as one of these recalcitrant leaders of the Republicans. Recently nominated in Craven county he positively refused to be bound by the obligation attempted to be imposed upon the candidates. He admitted the necessity of constitutional reform and recognized this as the time to effect

The News also mentions Candler, of Buncombe, and Cantwell, of this city, as men who oppose the policy of the address and whom the party cannot afford to repudiate, and concludes:

The revolutionary principles of the Radicil address are therefore condemned by some of the most intelligent and trusted men of the Republican party. How can the propagators of the address and the originators of this conspiracy against popular right dare present their scheme to the consideration of the Democrats of the State?

Washington and Lee University Commencement. The commencement exercises Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., were continued on Wednesday with the Cincinnati oration, W. H. Tayloe, M. A., of Alabama, and the valedictory address by Lawrence Rust, of Virginia, after which the annual address before the literary societies was delivered by Rev. Henry C. Alexander, D. D., of Virginia, his aubject being "The obligation of the world to men of letters." The degree of bachelor of arts was Tennessee; W. R. Bowie and B. B. Ford of Virginia, and that of master of arts on C. G. Deshon, Alabama; C. Edmundson, Tennessee R. D. Haislip, Arkansas; L. Rust, H. St. G. Tucker, and J. J. P. Bocock, Virginia. The honorary degree of L.L. D. was conferred on Col. Wm. Preston Johnston, of Kentucky, and Hon. Charles O'Conor, of New York; and that of D. D. on Rev. Wm. G. Coe, West Virginia; C. H. Vaughn, . Kentucky; M. P. Wharton, Georgia, and Kensey J. Stewart, Delaware.

[Lynchburg News.] The Chicago Inter-Ocean having mentioned that Senator Morton's life "practically trembles in the balance, and that his physical prostration "a bar to all thoughts of bringing him forward" (i. e., as a Presidential candidate), the Senator's home paper says it is no such thing. "In the matter of walking he appears at some disadvantage, but in all other respects he is in perfect health and full order if he expects to travel over the next Presidential course. However, if it were only in walking that he appeared to disadvantage, and if, bad as his legs are, his heart were not a good deal worse, he might have as good prospects as any of his party.

VOL. XVI.--NO. 85.

WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 30, 1875.

Position of Senator Christiancy. Hon. Isanc P. Christiancy, success sor to Chandler in the United States Senate from Michigan, in a speech at Gloversville, New York, recently, gave expression to the following conservative sentiments:

"Though we have gone through a bloody war, we must remember the Southern people are our own flesh and blood. Let us remember the war is over and take them by the hand. as we must be aware that one portion of our country cannot flourish at the expense of the other, but we must favor all alike. We must remember there should be an equality of States as well as of individuals. We must bear in mind that the people of the South were brought up under different habits and circumstances from ourselves, and you cannot change a people in a day, but time is a necessary part of such a change. Had we been in their circumstances, would we have accommodated ourselves to circumstances any more readily?"

The res-ignation was accepted, and handsome compliments were exchanged between the Pro-fessor and the Board. Dr. Phillips ex-pressed regrets at leaving Davidson, but said that Chapel Hill was his first love, that he was bound to it by the tenderest ties, and that he felt constrained to accept the position which had just been offered him

- News: Some fifteen . hundred citizens of Wake county stand indicted before the present term of Wake Superior Court, for the offence of falling to register their poll in 1873-74. The Legislature at its last session passed a bill relieving all parties so indicted upon the payment of the poll tax and $1 50 costs, but Judge Watts at the last term of the court decided that the jurisdiction in these cases was in the Superior Court, and that the act of the Leg-Superior Court, and that the act of the Legislature was unconstitutional in that it was an evasion of one of the co-ordinate departments of the government. Whereupon the Solicitor agreed to let off all parties so indicted upon the payment of one half of the costs, and quite a number availed themselves of the privilege, but some 1,500 cases remain still unsettled and the parties are now before the present term of the court awaiting the action of the court.

mmus — The Train Breaks Through a Bridge on the Carolina Central Railroad -Two Persons Killed and Seven Others Injured-Full Details of the Pleaster Tine

From the Charlotte Observer of Satur-

We have the story of a sad accident to lay before our readers this morning—an accident involving the loss of two lives and the injury, greater or less, of seven persons. The scene of the disaster was the trestle over Long Creek, nine miles from Charlotte, on the Western Division of the Carolina Central Railroad. Central Railroad. The manner of it was as

Yesterday morning an engine and train of ten cars left Charlotte for a point a short distance beyond Long Creek, for a load of wood. The train had on it an engineer and conductor, and twelve colored train hands. After all the cars had been loaded the train started on its return and, arriving at the bridge, which has long been considered un-safe, slackened speed to about two and a half miles an hour. The train was running backward at the time, or rather the engine was pushing the cars before it. When about half way across, the rails parted under the fifth car from the engine, and the five the firth car from the engine, and the five cars and the engine passed through the opening thus made; to the ground—a distance of about fifty feet. Three negroes were sitting on the engine's pilot, and went down headforemost, the engine on top of them. Two of these, John McGenee and Prince Woods, must have been killed in. stantly, at least they were dead when extricated from the place where they were tricated from the place where they were wedged in. The third of this crowd—Lawrence Martin—was not found for half an hour, and at the end of this time was taken from under the great load above him with a severe gash in the right side of his face, just und r the eye, and with bruises on dif-terent parts of his body. He was able to walk about, ho vever, but could give no coherent account of his situation, further than that he had been lying there all that time, with the hot steam blowing in his face. Both of his shoes had been torn from his feet, but they were only slightly

Of the two who were killed, McGehed had his chest crushed, his head hurt, and received other injuries; he is from Lumberton, Robeson county. Woods had his right leg mangled fearfully and broken in near where the accident happened. In addition to the injury mentioned, he was otherwise bruised and mashed,

The others who went down in the wreck were: Mr. Robert Gadd, the conductor, and Bill McKinney, Frank Barnes, Sidney Gray and Albert Carter. Mr. Gadd was running the engine at the time; he had a gash cut near the corner of his eye, and had his right leg cut just above the ankle; his injuries, however, are not severe. The negroes, McKinney, Barnes, Gray and Car-ter, though falling with the wood, and some of them with ears above them, were not badly hurt, except Barnes, whose right shoulder was mashed.

One of the most singular things of the accident, was that, just as the engine went through, the coupling pin holding it and the tender together, broke, and the latter stood still upon the abutment of the bridge. As the engine was falling, Mr. Thomas Smith the engineer, had the presence of mind to crawl back on the tender and save himself. In doing so he received a slight cut in the temple.

The engine, No. 14, the "II. G. Onder-donk," is a perfect wreck. It remains standing, in an upright position, on its head. A dump car was sent immediately to Charlotte, for the train which left in the evening for Wilmington, and it went up to the scene, and had transferred to it the passengers and baggage on the Charlotte bound mail train. The transfer was made with little difficulty, and the train arrived here at 7 o'clock, with the passengers and with the dead and wounded. The wants of the latter had been ministered to by Drs. Gibbon and Pharr, who went up on the train for that purpose. The dead men were placed in the depot over night, or until they can be cared for by their friends.

Short Statement of Col. Fremont, |Special to the Star.]

CHARLOTTE, June 29. The accident on Western Division of this Railway, was caused by the train being thrown from the track, and in that condition running entirely across the bridge. The bridge was strong enough to carry three times the weight of this train and was safe, so far as the management believed. Same accident might have happened to any S. L. FREMONT, Gen'l. Supt.

The 5th of July at Smithville.

Quite an interesting time is expected at Smithville on the 5th of July. Several excursion parties will be there, and we are informed that the pilots, with their swift moving crafts, will offer an entertainment in the way of general boat racing. There will be sailing races of much interest, but the mat ter of greatest importance will be the trial of speed among the row boats. As we are informed, there will be several races as fol-

The closing exercises of the school Misses Burr & James took place at the school-room of that institution on Monday evening. A large audience were present. who reaped an ample entertainment from the very interesting exercises that took place. The pupils exhibited considerable proficiency on this occasion, and entered with an earnestness and real into the readition of the several parts of the entertainment that exhibited the excellent training they had undergone.

The exercises began by a salutatory Miss Ambler, a pupil of the institution. "Waves of the Ocean," an instrumental duett, was skillfully rendered by Misses Ambler and Johnson. A piano solo, "Chanson des Alpes," by Miss Ella Weil, was highly appreciated, which was followed by the recitation, "Love Lightens Labor," by Miss Carrie Lippitt. "Echoes of Many Years Ago" was very prettily rendered by Miss Mary J. Lippitt, a little six-year-old. "Papa's Waltz," by Miss Hettie Barlow, and "Sonambula," by Misses Grafflin and Barlow, elicited much applause. Miss Hanna Bolles recited in fine style "Auld Robin Gray." The singing of "Kathleen Mayourneen" by Miss Maggie Mc Ilhenny met with much applause. "Greeting to Spring," by Misses Mary J. Lippitt, Burr, Meares and Davis, was one of the most pleasurable incidents of the evening. Miss Lyda Schenck recited, "Beautiful Grandmama." The "Chorus of Nightingales" was a charming vocal performance. Misses Johnson and Grafflin executed very prettily an instrumental duett. Miss Ella Wiell, sang with great effect a humorous solo, "Miss Jones' Musical Party." "Shells of Ocean" by Miss Kate Barlow, closed the exercises of the pupils. The prizes were distributed by Rev. Geo. Patterson in a few happy remarks. Miss Lyda Schenck was the fortunate recipient of the "Excelsior Medal" of the school. There were numerous other prizes. After the distribution of which the pupils rendered a chorus which closed the
