— Capt. James E. Shepherd is the Conservative nominee for Convention in Beaufort.
— Mrs. Polly Tarleton died at Princeton, Johnson county, on Monday last, said to be 111 years old.
— The Wilson Conservatives have nominated Col. R. W. Singletary, editor of the Plainsdealer, for Convention.
— A colored magistrate of Newbern, H. B. Hickman, was arrested for misappropriating moneys collected as fines and costs by him.
— The commencement exercises of the Charlotte Institute for young ladies, including Gen. Prince's address, passed off handsomely.
— Dr. Craven said he had not heard so good a literary address for ten years as Judge Kerr's before Thomasville Female College.
— Wake county Radicals have nominated as delegates to the Convention R. C. Badger, J. J. Nowell, A. L. Davis and Matt Hodge, all Whites.
— With this week the present editor and publisher completes the second year of his connection with the Observer. We wish him many returning anniversaries.
— Duplin Record: Mr. David Carr, of Island Creek township, died at the house of his son, Thomas J. Carr, Esq., on the 28th ult., in the 86th year of his age. Mr. Carr was a soldier of the war of 1812, and always exhibited the patriotism which distinguished his country. He was public spirited, yet quiet and inoffensive.
— The committee on the part of the Trustees of the State University, together with the Faculty elect, met in Raleigh Wednesday, and transacted much business looking towards the opening of the University on the first of September. The following members of the Faculty were present: Messrs. Charles Phillips, DeB. Hooper, G. T. Winston, A. F. Redd and A. W. Mangum.
— We learn from the Greenville Register that on the 23d ult., as Mr. Robert Carney, of Pitt county, was returning from a visit to one of his neighbors, with his wife and little boy, the horse he was driving became frightened as Mr. C. was getting in the cart and ran away, throwing Mrs. C. and the little boy out, injuring the lady by a fracture of the skull, from which she died the next day. The little boy was severely though not fatally injured.

[Oblivious Observer.]

The breaking of Long Creek Bridge. CHARLOTTE, June 28, 1875.
Editors Observer:—It is due to the public, as well as to the management, after the recent accident on the Western Division of the Carolina Central Railway, that the facts should be given.
The bridge over "Long Creek" did not "break down" but the train running over it was thrown from the track near the Western end, and in that condition ran nearly the entire length of the bridge on the "track stringers," and when the Eastern end fell upon the floor beams, dragged them from their places and broke through the flooring.
The sides of the bridge or "trip" still standing!
As to the safety of this bridge I can only say, I considered it entirely safe.

and I trust there is no officer in the Company's service that would allow a train to run over any bridge that he did not consider safe.

It is true the bridge was an old one and was soon to be rebuilt, and because of its condition had been strengthened by "benches" or supports every thirty feet, making it abundantly able to carry any load that it would be submitted to; new floor beams were put in at the same time, and the track, so far as I knew, was in good order.

This bridge is of the kind known as a "lattice" bridge, and in a railroad experience of more than twenty years, I have never known one to break down.

They always give warning by settling and by means of additional supports can be made safe much longer than any other form of bridge known to me.

It was intended to place a new bridge at this place as soon as the road could be completed through to Shelby, as will be the case now, I hope.

The above facts I ask you to make public. Respectfully,
S. L. FREMONT,
Chief Eng. and Gen'l Supt.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT.

Closing Exercises at the Academy of the Incarnation—Order of Exercises and Partial Premium List.

The annual commencement of the Academy of the Incarnation, took place as we stated in yesterday's issue in the new and spacious hall of the institution Wednesday night. The hall was thronged with an admiring audience. The walls were hung with crayon drawings and paintings in water color and oil, the work of the young lady pupils while handsome festoons of evergreens here and there, made the scene very attractive. On one side of the stage was seated Right Reverend Bishop Gibbons who presided on the occasion and Reverend Fathers Gross and White. During the evening the young lady pupils occupied the other side of the stage, presenting a charming picture and seeming the very embodiment of grace, beauty and happiness. The exercises were of a high order, the musical performances, English and French recitation being especially excellent. The entrance march was performed by Miss Josie Deans, a charming young miss, who gave evidence of much musical ability. The Hymn, "Sweet Mother Pray for Us," was rendered in fine style, by Misses Conigland, Callahan and Bradshaw. The musical accompaniment, by Miss Anna Monk, added much to the excellent rendition of the beautiful hymn. An instrumental solo, "Dawn Waltz," by Miss Leus Monks, was much appreciated. One of the attractive features of the entertainment was "A Talk on the Play Ground."

A recitation, by Misses Maggie Darby, Kate Sweeney, J. Deans, Kate Collins, Kate Bauman, Annie Conigland, Lena Monks and Kate Fitzgerald. The young ladies entered into their several parts with a modest confidence and earnestness that gave evidence of excellent training. The recitation was one calculated to present in an entertaining light the joys and little vexations experienced during the happy school days. Most faithfully was the pains and pleasures of the school girl, represented, and one would almost imagine that he was viewing the young Misses engaged in an earnest conversation beneath the shade on the pleasant play ground, so lifelike, was the picture. "The Harp that Once Thru Tara's Halls," an instrumental solo, was rendered in all its most soothing pathos, by Miss Lizzie Monks. The young lady was loudly applauded. "The Birth Day Party," a recitation, by Misses F. Conigland, Louisa Turner, Mary Divine, Cecilia Callahan, Anna Monk, H. Bradshaw, S. Divine, Susan Reilly and Mary Anna Furlong, was highly entertaining, and listened to with interest. The young ladies acquitted themselves with much credit. Miss Fanny Conigland took the principal character in this pleasing little drama. She evidenced much vivacity and genuine ability in the rendition of her part. "Singing of the Birds," a sweet instrumental solo was charmingly performed by Miss Anna Monk. This young lady gives evidence of much musical talent. "Silvery Waves," an instrumental solo, justly appreciated as a rare musical gem, was rendered by Miss Fanny Conigland in fine style. A French recitation by Misses Fanny Conigland, Mary Darby, Mary and Sallie Divine, endured much thorough training on the part of the young ladies in that language. After the rendition of several other instrumental solos Miss Mary C. Darby delivered the valedictory in a very creditable manner. The "Greeting Glee," as sung by all the pupils, closed the exercises; after which Rev. Bishop Gibbons in his peculiarly eloquent and happy vein entertained the pupils and the audience with an instructive and interesting address. The Rev. Bishop, in fitting terms, complimented the young ladies for the proficiency they had manifested, and paid a high tribute to their efficient teachers, the good sisters. The annual commencement was then brought to a close, after having occupied nearly three hours, and the audience reluctantly took their departure.

During the above exercises the premium list was called out and the premiums awarded. We have only time to mention those in the English course, which were as follows: Senior class, a gold medal was awarded to Miss Mary C. Darby, a graduate of the institution; 1st premium, Miss Fannie Conigland; 2d, Miss Mary Divine. Second division: 1st premium, Miss Louise Turner; 2d, Miss Anna Monk.

Intermediate class—Graduate from intermediate to senior class, Miss Sallie Divine; 2d premium, Miss Kate Sweeney; 3d, Miss Maggie Darby; caveau, Miss C. Callahan; 4th premium, Miss K. Bauman. Second division: 1st premium, Miss M. A. Furlong; caveau, Miss M. L. Monks; 2d, Miss Kate Collins.

Junior class—Miss Josephine Deans, graduate from junior to intermediate; 2d premium, Miss Lizzie Darby; caveau, Miss Annie Bate, Miss Mary Sweeney; 3d, Miss Mary Madden.

Primary class—Miss Mary Monks, graduate from primary to junior; 2d premium, Miss Maggie Conigland. Second division: 1st premium, Miss Mary A. Doulan; 2d premium, Miss Mary Horan.

Besides the above there were many premiums and honors awarded in the Music, Painting and Drawing departments and in the French course and the Christian Doctrine classes and also for politeness and exemplary conduct. These our space will not permit us to enumerate.

— In the challenge yesterday noticed in these columns, for an Amateur race between the rowing boats, all the boats were included except the Katie.

The Ashpole Celebration.

We copy from the Robesonian the following account of the celebration of St. John's Day, Bannockburn and the commencement of Ashpole Academy, Robeson county:

"An immense crowd of persons, variously estimated at from 2500 to 4000 in number, assembled at Ashpole on Thursday last to witness the literary and Masonic ceremonies appointed for that day.

"The exercises commenced by declamations on the part of the students of Ashpole Academy and were followed by the literary address by Hon. A. M. Waddell, of Wilmington. We will attempt no eulogy of that address. 'The Great Deep' was treated in a masterly manner, was exhaustive in scientific detail and showed a most thorough acquaintance with all the latest scientific discoveries. The vast audience listened with attention throughout the entire address and were evidently satisfied that the speaker was no ordinary man. At the conclusion of the address Col. Waddell complimented the South Carolinians who had flocked to hear him. He was compelled, owing to the vastness of the audience, to speak in the open air to a crowd of people who had come expecting to hear a great speech, and they were not disappointed. He reminded his audience that the occasion was the anniversary of the battle of Bannockburn, fought June 24th, 1314; paid a glowing tribute to Masonry, and concluded by alluding to the happy effect produced by the centennial celebration throughout the republic."

Col. Mullins, who was selected to deliver the Masonic address, was prevented by severe illness. This was a sore disappointment to his North Carolina friends. His selection was signally appropriate, as the spot where he was to speak was the first settlement of his ancestors in this State and his friends were eager to greet his return as an honored son to the ancient family seat after years of absence.

Although the celebration was an important event in the history of the Ashpole country. Not the slightest thing occurred to mar the pleasures of the occasion. The dinner was spread on a table three hundred feet long, and was ample to supply the vast multitude in attendance. The music was excellent and everybody pleased."

OPERA HOUSE.

Concert in Behalf of the Memorial Association.

The musical entertainment, given by Prof. Tamburello with several of his most proficient pupils, was one of the most enjoyable we have ever attended. The programme was made up of a pleasing variety of vocal and instrumental pieces, all of which reflected great credit on teacher and students. The rendition of the "Ave Maria," composed by Prof. Tamburello, was infinitely. The pianissimo passages and delicate trills with which the composition abounds were worthy of some of the masters of the divine art of music, who, like Prof. Tamburello, first drew their inspiration from the storied land of Italy. "Sappho," (Pacini) sung by Miss Calais, was heartily encored by the audience. The next piece on the programme, composed by Tamburello, was a vocal sextette. It was also encored. At intervals during the performance of this piece Miss Savage's high, pure, sweet, soprano voice held her listeners spell-bound as she sang the short solos which had been appropriated to her.

In part second it is more difficult to discriminate between the different pieces than in the first part. From the beginning of the "Sergaradi" until the close of the final "Concortato" we wondered, as each piece was almost perfectly executed, whether Prof. Tamburello and his accomplished assistants could offer a more delightful morocan to a warmly appreciative audience.

Mrs. Taylor's touch is peculiar for its silvery eloquence and her unembarrassed and not to frequent use of the pedal, a fault so often found, was particularly noticeable. Her time is also very good. We regret that Mrs. Lippitt did not favor us with a solo, but we were charmed with her full, rich notes in the vocal duet with Miss Savage.

Seven of the pieces on the programme were composed by Prof. Tamburello. He gives promise to occupy no moderate position in the profession which he has chosen. We are indebted to him for a delightful evening, and the noble cause to which the proceeds of the concert will be given readers our indebtedness doubly great.

THE LAST OF THE LOWERY GANG.

George Applewhite a Prisoner—He is Identified by a Photograph.
We learn from a special telegram sent us last night, that George Applewhite, a negro, and the last of the Lowery Gang, is now a prisoner and in the custody of the Sheriff of Wayne county. From what we can learn, Applewhite was arrested on suspicion and identified by means of a photograph. The prisoner was some time ago, sentenced to death in one of the interior counties of our State and broke jail while awaiting the day of execution. This is the last of the gang of thieves and murderers, that once infested a portion of the State. It is to be hoped that the bird will be securely caged this time, in order that the majesty of the law may be vindicated.
