OUTLINES.

No truth in the rumor of yellow fever at Norfolk. - Von Arnim's health precarious. - Planing mill burned and two persons killed in storm at Belleville, Canada. __ In encounters with Indians 10 whites have lately been killed. -- The Baltimore Board of Public Works have sued the American for libel. - New York mar kets: Gold, 1141@1141; cotton, 151@151. OTHER NEW NOMINATIONS.

Our news columns this morning will show other excellent Conservative nominations for Convention. We are cheered by the action in David-The ticket-F. C. Robbins and B. B. Roberts-is a strong one. The Lexington Central claims the county by three hundred and fifty majority. Camden nominates Col. D. D. Ferebee. The Granville ticket is likewise good. We hope it may be elected. Judge Gilliam came within 260 votes of carrying it when Radicalism was more popular in the State than it is now.

How a Theatre was Named.

In a French journal's sketch of the late Sir Michael Balfe occurs an amusing story of the way the theatre Malibran, in Venice, was christened. Balfe was then a baritone singer, and was supporting Malibran in "La Sonnambula," being a crowded audience. At the end of the "Ah! non giunge," Malibran's foot slipped as she trod on a leaf of one of the boquets that had been flung on the stage. She would have fallen, but that Balfe, who was the Rodolfo, caught her up. Even as it was, her slipper came off and fell into the pit, Immediately there was a skirmish for its possession, and, to create some diversion from that part of the house, Malibran deliberately threw the other shoe in an opposite the R. & D. R. R., near Thomasville, was direction. The curtain fell, and amid deafening cheers the manager led out the prima donna, and announced that his theatre should be called, from the event of the evening, the Theatre Malibran, a name which it still re-

A Pious and Prudent Lady. A foreign correspondent says:

The English Admiral W-is a man of advanced age, and the fourth husband of a lady known for eccentric piety. I had been told that she was in the habit of speaking in the presence of her husband of his approaching and inevitable end, and once I attributed much of this to my informant's imagination. But the other day I had in my own hands and read with my own eyes, the following note written by the lady in question to her wine merchant: "Please send up six bottles of sherry, six bottles of magou and six bottles of old Scotch whiskey, but if anything should occur in the meantime will you change the whiskey for magon? for when the admiral is in heaven what should I do with the whiskey?" Signed by her lady-ship in full, and she richly deserves that I, should give her name to the

The steamer upon which Ristori had engaged to sail from San Francisco for Australia on the 21st., left port without her, but with all her company on board. When the captain discovered that she was lacking he put back to port. She had paid for her ticket $7,000-including suite.

Fatal Blindman's Buff.

A few days sinces some little girls were playing blindman's buff on a high platform over the river near the covered bridge at Saco, Maine. Matilda Currier, six year's old, daughter of Jesse Currier, fell 20 feet into the water and was drowned. The body was recovered.

EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

[Condensed from the Raleigh Sentinel.] The closing session of this body was held in the Senate Chamber last night, The appointed speakers were absent, but Prof. Kerr, State Geologist, delivered a racy, suggestive and forcible speech. Endorsing the address of Major Bingham and also o Dr. Satchwell, he inculcated the theory of teaching in harmony with nature, interspersing interesting illustrations. At the conclusion of Prof. Kerr's address, Mr. Mangum addressed the association briefly on the subject of the Uni-versity of North Carolina. His thoughts and statements are commended to all interested in the noble old institution. lle frankly stated that the University was an ally and not an adversary of the denominational colleges—would work with them and not against them. He referred with emphasis to the moral feature of the old University-vindicated the name of the former Faculties and affirmed that they used to suffer over the evils they could not prevent, more than any one out of the University; not always excepting even the parents of wayward sons.

The residence of Capt. R. S. Radcliffe, who lives on Chesnut, between Fourth and Fifth streets, was entered early yesterday morning about daybreak, and robbed of money to the amount of $60. The thief entered by a window which he prized open, went into the room occupied by Capt. R. and took the money from his pantaloons. A gold watch valued at about $100, which was lying on a table in the room, and which must necessarily have been seen by the thief, was left unmolested. . Capt. R. awoke in time to catch a glimpse of the scoundrel as he made his exit from the room, but not in time to pay his respects in the manner which he desired. A party passing at the

The alarm of fire was sounded last night at shortly before 9 o'clock, and on investigation it was found to proceed from the premises of Capt. H. D. From every indication there is much sufand Orange streets: Prayer meeting at 10 | fering and destitution in this city, especially among the colored people. A few hours spent around the Court House will convince any one of this fact, if he is at all observant of passing events. Yesterday morning. during a brief stay there, several poor creatures made application to Deputy Sheriff Morris and Justice VanAmringe for assistance and we are told that they are almost constantly beset by these unfortunates. One of these applicants yesterday was a woman, whose sharp features and wasted form told of much suffering, who wanted a coffin in which to bury her deceased husband, who had been lying dead in the house for two or three days in this warm weather. She said that she spent much of the time on Friday trying to collect small amounts due her, in which she failed, and she had no money. An order was given for coffining and burying the body. Another woman, who had a thin, consumptive look and said she had been suffering from sickness, wanted bread for her little ones, who she said were actually perishing for the want of it. A man, bent and tottering with age, who said that he was unable to work and that his wife had been sick for the past six months, wished an order for a few of the common necessaries of life, for which he evidently stood much in need. These parties were known to Commissioner Morris, but generally the Committee of the Board of County Commissioners who have to attend to the matter of issuing orders have to be exceedingly careful to prevent imposition by parties who do not actually require the assistance which they crave. This aid has to be dealt out spairingly, too, as only a limited amount ($20,000) is set apart by the county for the maintenance of its indigent poor. The way the sympathies of these officials are worked upon is another feature, and their pleadings are sometimes difficult to withstand even where it is abso-
