

WILMINGTON, N. C. THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 29, 1875.

AN ELECTION FOR ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY DELEGATES TO A CONVENTION TO AMEND THE STATE CONSTITUTION WILL BE HELD ON THE FIRST THURSDAY OF AUGUST, 1875. THE CONVENTION WILL MEET AT RALPHIGH, ON THE 4TH OF THE FOLLOWING SEPTEMBER.

CONSERVATIVE NOMINEES. NEW HAROVER: HON. GEORGE DAVIS, COL. ROBERT STRANGE, PENDER: ROBERT K. BRYAN.

Watch the polls closely on Election Day.

THE DANGER. The Conservatives have an undoubted majority in this State. It is not every time, however, that the people can be got to vote.

This is all wrong and harmful and perilous. In the remaining days of the campaign let all errors be atoned for as far as possible.

We appeal to all Conservatives to rally around the banners of the Conservative party. It is a great crisis in the battle.

The danger is apathy. The only salvation is persistent work.

We appeal to all Conservatives to rally around the banners of the Conservative party. It is a great crisis in the battle.

Rouse up, men. There is danger. Rouse up. Action can save you from a great calamity.

All that you have been, all that you are, all that you hope to be impels you to renewed action.

A few days only in which to work remain. Will you shirk duty like dastards and sink North Carolina again into the filthy pool of Radicalism?

Every consideration of patriotism and personal comfort and rest safely forbids such a course. Self-respect urges prompt action to avert the catastrophe of a Radical triumph.

Does a sane man sit still and see the props and boards of a falling building crash around and upon him, when his legs can take him to a place of safety?

We would not create an unnecessary alarm. The prospects are favorable for a Conservative majority in the Convention.

But it is simply because our people are working a little harder than they did. They must labor unceasingly from now until the last moment to assure success.

Conservatives of Brunswick, Robeson, Cumberland, Wayne, Wake, Pitt and Martin—Conservatives everywhere—you must be more active, more active, more active.

To stay at home on the 5th is almost as bad as to vote for the Radical nominees.

MR. DAVIS. Now that Mr. Jefferson Davis has declined the Presidency of the Bryan Agricultural College in Texas, with its small salary of $4,000 a year, the University of North Carolina should tender him its Presidency with a salary of at least double that sum and large liberty of suggestion and control in the institution.

Perhaps he would accept the position. It would not at all interfere with the prosecution of the historical work on which, it is said, he is at present engaged, but on the contrary would by location and association materially assist him in his patriotic purpose.

Gov. Graham and Mr. George Davis, of North Carolina, will not accept the position for satisfactory reasons. Ex-President Davis is the one man out of the State who could infuse new life into the sluggish veins of Old Chapel Hill; indeed, he is perhaps the one man who can give the University of North Carolina the start a guaranteed career of brilliant success on a promising permanency.

THE PENDER NOMINEE.

The Charlotte Democrat pays the Democratic Conservative nominee for Convention in Pender county the following lofty compliment:

"We know Mr. Bryan well, and we know him to be one of the purest and best men in the State. If the Democrats have the ascendancy in the Convention we hope he will be made President of that body."

We hope Mr. Bryan will be elected. If he is, and the above programme should be carried out, we are satisfied our ex-journalistic friend (who is really a modest gentleman of great merit) would fill the position with dignity and ability.

Be sure, Conservatives, to vote. J. H. HARRIS.

As every body and his grand father is broaching his views on the Presidential question, we might as well rehearse those of ex-Senator Fenton, of New York.

Reuben told a reporter the other day that five men were now prominent for the Presidency, the Republicans being Washburne and Brewster, and the Democrats Tilden, Bayard and Gaston.

He does not appear to think that the other persons named in this connection are worth consideration. He is inclined to believe that the Republican sentiment is gradually centering upon Washburne.

As for the Democratic nomination, Bayard seemed to him to have the best chance for the Eastern vote.

He would not be surprised though if Gaston came strongly to the front. Tilden is very popular in New York State, but it is premature to say he is strong outside of it.

Gaston's age and temperament would make him a better President than Mr. Tilden.

The ex-Senator with true Wall street bias can't see that William Allen with 20,000 majority in Ohio may snuff the candle of any of these prom- gents, or that Indiana and the South with the truly liberal elements of other sections may set up Gov. Hendricks over all others as the one man needful in the crisis.

Let every Conservative vote.

MATT CARPENTER AMONG THE REPUBLICANS. In a conversation with a reporter of the Fond du Lac News, ex-Senator Carpenter, of Wisconsin, said: "In my opinion General Grant will be the candidate of the Republican party for a third term. I can see no possible way of avoiding it. He will undoubtedly be the candidate of the Republicans next year on a hard money platform. This situation affords him the exact pretext he wanted, and to which he referred when he wrote his third-term letter as 'circumstances not likely to occur.' I think Judge David Davis, of the United States Supreme Court, will be the Democratic candidate on a green-back platform, and that greenbacks will win."

BRITISH PERSONALITIES. Colonel George W. Bolling died this evening after a brief illness of bilious dysentery. It was not until 2 o'clock that any serious apprehensions were felt as to his recovery. The deceased graduated at Princeton in 1827, for many years practiced law with success; before the war he was a member of the Common Council of this city; was a warm supporter of Douglas in 1860, and in 1867 represented this district in the Senate of Virginia. His death was so sudden and unexpected as to shock the community, and very general sorrow is felt in the city. Colonel Bolling was sixty nine years of age.

The Reason Why. [Constitutionalist.] Hon. Jefferson Davis has declined the offer of the Presidency of Bryan's Texas Agricultural College, with a salary of $4,000 a year and a furnished house. It is not so expressed, but the difficulty in the way was the meagre salary. Suppose the Georgia University offer twice the amount! Is the Board of Trustees ever got a first class man at the head of their institution they will have to pay him a decent salary.

Request to the Widow of Mosswell. The Washington Statesman thinks that a donation was made at his decease, by will, by a certain citizen of Memphis, of $10,000 to the widow of Mosswell, of which she is much in need. The donation was made some three years ago, and the estate is simply unable to pay its cash and have a reasonable amount left over.

THE CAMPAIGN.

NOTES AND VIEWS. The proprietors of the proposed factory really means business wouldn't it be well for them to secure the services of "Greasy Sam," "Judge" Watts, to furnish "fat" and "grease" that's what's fit for—Charlotte Southern Home.

We are informed by the chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Charlotte township that the voters registered in the township is between thirteen and fourteen hundred. Of this number about twenty are white Republicans. The colored vote is about six hundred strong. Out of these six hundred less than one hundred pay any poll tax.—Charlotte Observer.

In Granville bids fair to be short, sharp and decisive. The people of the county seem to have determined upon the United States revenue and county officers shall not make a constitution for them. They are awaking to a full realization of the importance of the struggle and that they will do their full duty none will deny. They know that the convention will meet and that the question is who shall compose that body. They know that after the convention makes a constitution the instrument will be submitted to them for ratification or rejection. Our people are posted and will turn out en masse.

A Glance around the different counties of the State show that Halifax, Edgecombe, Warren, Franklin and Granville are controlled by Radicals, and run the risk of that party, are deeply in debt, and that the money collected from the people by taxation instead of being used for paying off the debt are entirely used for the sake of those who hold office.

Baker, of the Courier, has exposed them in Franklin, Macon, of the Roanoke News, in Halifax, and the Leader is doing the same in Granville.

Most of the counties in the State which have been under Conservative rule are nearly if not entirely out of debt, and the officials and their rulers will stand the closest scrutiny.

The man who tends rented lands has to help pay up the taxes on that piece. If it not therefore to his interest to use his influence at the polls to have that taxation as low as possible? The merchant adds to the selling price of his goods the amount of taxation he has to pay, and who would like to know, foots the bill? Why the poor man who buys.

A Handsome Birthday Gift. United States Senator Robertson, of South Carolina, is at the Warm Springs with his family, including a son who has been at Georgetown College, Monday was the young man's twenty-first birthday, and on raising his plate at breakfast he found a check from his father for $10,000.—Stanton (Va.) Vindicator.

Brags on Sherman's Charges Against Ex-President Davis. The Austin (Texas) Statesman of July 11th says: "General Bragg was in the city several days during the past week. He referred, in the course of conversation, to the recent assertion of General Sherman that he had suspected Mr. Jefferson Davis of complicity with the assassins of Mr. Abraham Lincoln. General Bragg said that he had seen Mr. Davis tested in cases of this sort, and while two efforts were made by hired assassins in 1864 to destroy Mr. Davis' life he never manifested the least signs of resentful feeling. It was in June, 1864, that Mr. Davis, when riding along the defenses of Richmond, was fired at, the bullets passing very near his person. 'Once afterwards he was shot at when in the outskirts of Richmond. But we propose to settle this question finally. Dahlgren's raid was a military operation forgotten. Colonel Dahlgren's address, as written and signed by him, was memorized, and spoken of by his followers. They were disguised as spies inside of the Confederate lines. They came, as stated, to murder Mr. Davis. When they were captured and this paper was found on the person of this man Dahlgren, Mr. Davis' cabinet and his military staff occurred in declaring that the prisoners should be executed in accordance with the laws of war. President Davis, after reading the paper and finding that he especially was designed to be assassinated by Dahlgren, promptly forbade other treatment than that accorded to prisoners of war. General Bragg preserved photograph copies of Colonel Dahlgren's orders. If Mr. Davis were capable of enormities which General Sherman would ascribe to his intervention he would never have hesitated to punish with death the disguised followers of Dahlgren. And would it not be well for General Sherman to remember that Mr. Davis at all times intervened in behalf of the condemned? It was the complaint of many Confederate leaders that nobody could be executed, who appealed to the President for pardon. He spared Harrison Self, the bridge burner of East Tennessee, and each Unionist who became a spy rather than a soldier and was captured within the Confederate lines."

Death of One of the York Triplets. Mrs. Sibyl Luddington, one of the three noted triplets of Wayne county, N. Y., died at the residence of Hiram G. Chase, of Bethany, Monday, June 23, at the age of eighty-seven years. Her sisters, Mrs. Buchnell and Mrs. Grennell, survive her and are in good health. It was the intention of their friends that the remarkable trio should be one of the features of the centennial exhibition at Philadelphia next year, and a New York gentleman had offered to defray the expenses of their transportation. Mrs. Luddington died quite unexpectedly, undoubtedly from the effects of her extreme age.

STAR-DUST.

Over 6,000 different school books published in this country. Tennessee's treasury is empty, and her bondholders are rejected. Columbia was to have brought out a new daily, the Register, yesterday morning, but by several practical men.

Bridget: "Well, Mary, any you going to the new place?" "Mary: "Sure, no, the lady couldn't give reference from her last cook."

Major General Winfield S. Hancock, who has been absent in the West for several weeks past, has returned to New York.

The Augusta Constitutionalist learns that a movement is on foot in railroad circles to inaugurate a system of excursion tickets from points in Georgia to the cities of the great West.

Phiggs says his wife's name is Flora, and that's the reason why, when he gets within a block of his house at 2 o'clock in the morning, he begins to feel like a night-blooming cereus.

Gray cloth blouses are growing more in favor every day.

Black silk stockings are more fashionable than any others at present, and there is great variety in them of various shades.

Black horsehair and black lace are the favorite materials for dress hats. They are usually trimmed with gay flowers.

The penchant, now, for colored collars and cuffs has in no way diminished. Some have doubled cuffs, two cuffs in one, so that by turning them upside down one has as good as two pairs, made of different patterned calico.

It is becoming the style now to wear the bridal veil draped from the shoulders instead of the head. It is arranged to envelope the form like a court train, and the trains of dresses are independent of the skirts, and are very narrow and long, while the skirt proper is short and clinging.

A Charley Horn Cape. On Sunday night a conductor of one of the Catonsville cars found a bright little boy, about five years of age, at the Baltimore terminus of the road, who had lost his reckoning and was unable to give his residence. The conductor took the little fellow home with him and kept him until morning, and after much questioning the boy told him that his name was Washington Columbus Bailey, and that his parents lived on Sharp street.

The conductor took the child to the southern police station, and while he was giving Capt. Delanty the boy's story some one remarked that he looked like Charley Ross. The conductor suddenly realizing that he had drawn a valuable prize immediately took his departure, carrying the boy with him, and has not been heard of since.

THE ALDINE.

A Representative and Champion of American Art. Prospects for 1875. EIGHTH YEAR. THE ALDINE, Issued Monthly.

"A Magnificent Conception, wonderfully fully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the progress of great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to accomplish this object. The success of these attempts has been very limited, and it is only in this country that an art journal, did not have the sanction of the government of America in the claims of high art. So soon as a great artist has produced a work of great merit and ability, it is not only a matter of course that it should be published, but it is also a matter of course that it should be published in a form which will secure for it the widest possible circulation.

THE ALDINE is a monthly journal, devoted to the publication of original and selected art works, and a collection of pictures, the latest specimens of modern art. It is published in a form which will secure for it the widest possible circulation.
