A VIRGINIA VOICE.

[Petersburg Index-Appeal.] . The critical day of the Conventional election is rapidly drawing near in the State of North Carolina. We sincerely trust that the confident expretations which the Conservative entertain will be amply answered by the results of the election. We do not forget, however, that the Radicals are desperately bent on winning a victory in the Old North State, and that they already have one inspiring precedent in the defeat of one call for a State Constitutional Convention. however desperate and unprincipled, in order to baffle the purpose of the Reform party.

JUDGES AND REVENUE OFFI-CERS.

[Raleigh News.] What respect do the people of North Carolina owe to its Judiciary? Yet we see half a dezen of them engaged in the scramble. And what do they owe to the United States revemue officers? And we find a dozen of them working for seats in the convention. Do the people think it is from love for them that this zeal is so ardent: Depend upon it, every man of them is working to get into the Convention to benefit themselves, not the white people of North Carolina: to LUMBERTON, July 29. EDITORS MORNING STAR:-It was our pleasure to day to hear Gen. M. W. Ransom, U. S. Senator, deliver one of the ablest speeches on the questions before the people that we have ever listened to. For two hours and twenty minutes he held the audience spell bound with his clear and forcible exposition of Radicalism and the evils which has and will result from the continuence of that party in power. His speech and the one which Gen. J. M. Leach will deliver on the 2nd of August at Shoe Heel will have a good effect. Of the election in Robeson, we may consider the Conservative candidate safe.

[Messenger.] WAYNE ALL RIGHT. Our cotemporary of the Wilmington MORNING STAR asks: "Are our friends in Wayne county attendidg to the doubtful voters? If Wayne goes Conservative, as we hope she will, our chances for controlling the Convention will be greatly improved. Wayne is looked to for two votes. With an able and unimpeachable ticket in the field that gallant county should not be considered doubtful. Men of Wayne, turn out next Thursday and vote for Dortch and Cox."

We think we can assure our Wilmington neighbor that old Wayne will prove herself true to the white man's party, and that Dortch and Cox will be elected by a handsome majority. The color lines have been fairly drawn by the Radical themselves. They tell every negro that he must vote the Radical ticket, and accepting the challenge the white men must likewise become a unit.

Robbery of Money-Recovery of Part of the Stolen Funds, &c. A colored woman by the name of Dora Roberts, living on Market between Tenth and Eleventh streets, was arrested yesterday morning, charged with stealing the amount of $140 from Haywood K. Turner,

It appears that Dora Roberts lives next door to Turner and that about a week before the theft was committed, which was on the 28th ult., Turner's wife paid a visit to the accused, taking her infant child with her. The child was given a bunch of keys with which to amuse itself while the elders were engaged in conversation, and after the woman Turner, with her child, had taken her departure and reached home she became aware of the fact that the keys were missing. She therefore returned to the house of Dora Roberts and enquired if she had seen anything of them, to which she (Dora) replied that she had not. A week passed away and one day the wife of Turner had occasion to use a portion of the $140 which the couple had succeeded in ac cumulating by their joint industry, and which had been locked up carefully in one of her bureau drawers, and found to her astonishment that it was all gone. It is not our province to describe the grief and dismay which overcame the poor woman at the discovery of the severe loss sustained, nor the indignation of the no less interested husband when informed of the facts. Suffice it to say that a search warrant was procured from Justice T. M. Gardner and placed in the hands of an experienced and skillful officer, who proceeded to search the premises of Dora Robents. We would state right here, parenthetically, that another clue had been obtained to the missing money besides the loss of the keys, which led to the issuance of the warrant for the search of Roberts' house. It seems that on the day that the money was missed Turner's wife was engaged at the washing tub in the back yard, when some noise in the house was heard which attracted her attention, She hastened to see what it meant but could find no trace of any one in the building. In the course of a few moments, however, she discovered Dora Roberts going round the house and acting in a suspicious manner. The woman Turner had also, a few days before, gone suddenly into the room and found the accused in the vicinity of the bu-

Armed with his warrant, the officer alluded to went to the house of Dora Roberts vesterday morning, during the absence of her husband, and commenced his search. He first selected a large trunk, which he ordered the woman to open. After some hesitation and the use of various subter fuges, which only caused the officer to be more determined in the matter, this was done, when, on overhauling the contents, which consisted of various articles which were no doubt purchased with the money purloined, a part of the funds, together with the bunch of keys belonging to Turner, was discovered and taken in charge. In the embarrassment of the moment the woman asked how much Turner had lost, and when informed of the amount she unthoughtedly replied that Turner lied if he had said it was so much, as she had only spent about

$5, thus indirectly confessing the theft. The money stolen consisted of one $20 bill, five $10 bills and fourteen $5 bills, making in all $140. The amount recovered was $89 50. As the officer was taking charge of the money a fifty cent bill, which was found lying slightly apart from the bulk of the funds, was seized by the accused, who excitedly remarked that the bill in question did not belong with the other, but was her

Gee Zee to the Front.

And now comes our dear, devoted neigh bor-in-law Gee Zee with the flag of his country fiercely grappled between his legs, a quart of late strawberries in his left hand and a copy of the Maine liquor law in his right, and says: "Fello-o-o-o-w-w cit-i-i-izens! I, too, am a can-n-n-didate for the Convention."

You see, there was a stir in the Radical camp, then a Russelling of the leaves in the forests of "Excelsior," and out jumped Gee Zee like a skeered wolf. The Wilson snipe was uttering his shrill cry for a place on the ticket; and the Canadayan pony was whickering lustily for more political oats; but the snipe was too weak in the legs; and it having been ascertained that the Canadavan pony was a Mayor, it was thought that she didn't have spirit and fire enough for the race. Therefore, our "able and efficient' neighbor-in-law, the producer of marvellously-large strawberries and prodigiouslyplump goobers took the place of the Knight of the Lordly Strut; and now Gee Zee is once m re as happy as the lark that dwelleth

We understand that the residence of Mr. Sol. Bear, on Red Cross street near Front. was visited by a burglar on Saturday night last, who effected an entrance through a window. Mrs. Bear was awakened by the noise made by the burglar in his search for valuables, and called to her husband, who was in a room adjoining and had not yet retired for the night, saying there was a robber in the house. Thereat .the robber beat a hasty retreat by the way he had come, quickly followed by Mr. Bear, who had only time, however, to get two shots at his dusky figure as it disappeared in the shadow of the neighboring buildings, and it is feared 'hat the scoundrel got off with but little more of injury to his worthless carcuss than he did of plunder, This is the second visit of the same sort that Mr. Bear has had within the last two or three months, and having on the former occasion, as we hear, paid for his experience of the business a pretty fair price, he has made due preparations to profit thereby, and now holds himself in readiness to extend to all

A Walking Crockery Store.

Midnight. Came there in to us a mar who had been somewhere. He struggled with his fate as hard as any man ever did. He couldn't carry all the crockery in Wilmington on his person at one time. He was obliged to pause in the midst of his fearful career and consider how he could go on without having a smash up. Delf ware to the right of him, Queen's ware to the left of him, China ware to the front of him, Japan ware in the pockets of him. He was a man who felt the weight of his responsibilitiesnot the burden of years or grief. The bloom of health was on his cheek and the expectation of youth lit up his classic features. He was a man to be congratulated because he had been receiving birth-day presents. Discreet friends had used the opportunity afforded by this anniversary to set him and his up in this life of storms on a sure foundation. He might break, but he could save the pieces. "Good night," said he, and went forth rejoicing. We medi-

Wilmington and Coast Turnpike. We learn that the following route has been adopted by the directors for the Wilmington and Coast turnpike: Beginning at Market and Seventeenth streets, running near the south side of Green's mill branch, passing midway between Porter's and Bonham's, through Marsden savannah, crossing the Greenville road just west of Lewis Martin's, and running thence northeastwardly to the milldam at the head of Lee's creeka route which will make it easy to construct branches to Wrightsville, Greenville and Masonboro.

Persons wishing to contract for clearing and ditching the roadway are requested to confer with the engineer, Capt. Roderick MacRae before Friday next, who will appoint a time to show the route adopted.

Radication, Ye Ripuplican 'radicating ramparagers were tooting their horns and mercilessly beating their drums last night. We ascertained that a regular riproarin', roysterin', rigamarumpathump took place at "The Oaks," corner of Fifth and Castle streets, Can such things be and not overcome the natives like a cloud of wheat-chaff in summer, or like a great squash-and-candle ghost vex the bonest soul to the border of despair?
