THE BLECTION.

From all the returns, official and reported, received by us up to 12 o'clock last night, we consider the contest very close, with the chances decidedly in favor of the Democratic Conservatives. With so many counties not yet heard from, it is impossible to estimate accurately, but we believe from a careful summing up of all our returns that our party will have a small majority in the Conven-

the South Raising its Own Food Supplies. [Lynchburg News.] Several indications have recently been given of a change of agricultural policy in the South, whereby the lanters will endeavor to grow their own food supplies, instead of being dependent for them upon other sections of the country. A contemposays that the "canebrake region" of that Stata, instead of buying corn this year will have plenty of its own growth and some to spare. The planters every year heretofore have borrowed and sent to the Northwest hundreds of thousands of dollars to pay for corn and forage and their transportation, and have depended on their cotton crop to pay the debt. Now, however, this money is either in the pockets of the "canebrake" planters, or will be as soon as their cotton is marketed. This policy of growing a home supply of corn will also tell in future seasons in producing a home supply of provisions. The planters are raising cattle and hogs, so that next year they hope to produce their own beef and bacon. The prospect is so promising, our cotemperary adds, that planters who did not sow corn this year, will do it next year, and then there will be "a surplus of hundreds of thousands of bushels; there will be corn, corn o'clock. everywhere, corn plenty and to spare; there will be corn in abundance where there never was corn before." This policy, which thus seems to have taken a promising start in a thrifty section of Alabama, although not yet general in the South, is a wise one. The rotation of crops is one great cause of agricultural success and of wealth in the North and West. To save the cost of transportation by growing their own food at home is another source of prosperity in many of the States. The Alabama planters and industry increase, and as the laws come to be enforced with more cer-

of the Celebration in Honor of the Birth of the Illustrious Irishman -The Parage, Address and Reso-MHOY WAY

Yesterday being the centenary of Ire land's great liberator and patriot, Daniel O'Connell, the day was appropriately observed in this city. The natives of the "Green Isle," their friends and the public generally seemed interested in the occasion At a meeting held on Thursday night, under the auspices of the Hibernian Benevolent Association, a report of which appeared in our columns yesterday, appropriate arrangements were made for the due observance of the day. The order of exercises are fully carried out and the O'Connell centenary excited much interest besides being a fitting and enthusiastic celebration of such a great event.

In accordance with the directions of the Chief Marshal, the members of the Hiber nian Benevolent Association and many citizens assembled at Hibernian Hall, on South Front street, at about 4 o'clock, and the procession was formed headed by the Cornet Concert Club in full uniform, followed by a carriage bearing the Hon. A. M. Waddell, the orator of the occasion, and Mr. John Dawson, the honorary President of the Association. The procession marched up to Market street, thence to Fourth, to Mul berry, to Third and thence to the Theatre, which had been arranged for the occasion where quite a number of ladies and gentle men had assembled. The spacious stage was handsomely carpeted and the walls were tastefully decorated with banners, giving the hall a neat and attractive appear ance. A number of chairs were placed in a semi circle behind the orators desk. The members of the Association, together with their friends, passed into the body of the theatre, while the orator and President of the Association took their places upon the stage. been played by the Cornet Concert Club, which had taken their places just to the right of the main aisle, the proceedings were commenced by the meeting being called to order by Capt. I. B. Grainger, the President of the Hibernian Benevolent Association, who moved the election of the following gentlemen as officers of the meeting: President, Mr. John Dawson; Vice Presidents, Messrs. Hugh Waddell, F. W. Kerchner, W. H. Bernard, M. M. Katz, J. A. Engelhard, James Madden, Jas. Reilly, John H. Allen, S. H. Fishblate, A. Weill, A. Adrian, E. Peschau, John L. Cantwell, Roger Moore, Alex Sprunt, B. Gleaves, John W. Atkinson and R. W. Roddick; Secretary, Mr. Frank H. Darby.

The gentlemen named passed upon the stage, occupying seats in the rear of the orator's desk, when Mr. John Dawson, upon taking the chair, made a few appropriate remarks relative to the occasion for which the Irishmen and their friends had assembled. He spoke feelingly of the interest manifested in the celebration in honor of Ireland's great son, and then introduced Hon. A. M. Waddell, the orator, as one well qualified to do justice to the memory of Daniel O'Connell.

Col. Waddell then arose and delivered

He commenced by making an apology for what he should say on so great a theme. He had only been advised of his having been selected as speaker the night previous. Was himself of Irish descent. He sketched the career of the illustrious lawyer, patriot and stateman from his education at a French college to the sad scene of his dying pilgrimage to the fanes of Old Rome. Col. Waddell rightly named O'Connell the foremost son of a great people who had produced such splendid orators and statesmen as Curran, Grattan, Burke and others scarcely less famous. His eulogy of the character of the "glorious Counsellor," in the conclusion of his address, and his earnest plea for liberty of conscience everywhere were brilliant and thrilling. The address was well received, as was manifested by frequent and hearty applause.

At the conclusion of Col. Waddell's address, Mr. F. H. Darby as Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, read the following resolution which, on motion, was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, We, the Irishmen and their descendants in this city have met to celebrate the centenary of Daniel O'Connell, the great "Liberator," our beloved country man who was ever foremost in the defence-of the religious and political rights of all, and by whose untiring efforts we Irishmen and our fathers were enabled to become citizens of our fatherland, therefore, Be it Resolved, That we Irishmen, the descendants, friends and admirers of the great Daniel O'Connell, in unity assembled, do honor the noble and pure patriot, the untiring enemy of oppression, whose whole aim during a long and eventful life, was to fight the battles of the oppressed and work for the equality of his Celtic brothers, in order o place them on the same footing, cally, as their Saxon neighbors, and who after a laborious career was successful; not. however, without his trials, tribulations and hardships, all of which he bore with heroism and christian fortitude. The felon's cell had no terror for this indomitable spirit that worked unceasingly for the prosperity of that dear Erin that he loved so well.

Resolved. That as long as love of liberty and freedom shall actuate the efforts of Trishmen and their descendants, the memory of Daniel O'Connell shall ever be enshrined in their hearts.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be published in the city papers.

After the adoption of the above resolutions, on motion of Capt. L. B. Grainger, the meeting adjourned.

net Concert Club at the head, and marched Hibernian Hall, when the Association assembled in meeting, Mr. J. H. Allen occupying the Chair.

On motion, the Secretary was instructed to return to A. M. Waddell the thanks of the society for the very eloquent and happy manner in which he had responded to their invitation to deliver the address. After the tender of a vote of thanks to the Chief Marshal, the meeting adjourned, The Cornet Concert Club throughout the occasio employed their usual taste in the selection of excellent airs which they rendered with the skill for which they are justly admired. The display throughout, was highly creditable to our Irish citizens and the great admirers of the great "Liberator."

Nothing But Politics.

The news on the streets yesterday run altogether on one "schedule." Nobody seemed to know anything not connected with the election and everybody wanted to know more about that than we were able to tell them. We had to reply to the many nquiries on this subject in the words of the Chairman of our Executive Committee at Raleigh, "Returns meagre; result uncertain." In fact, we were almost constrained to answer them in the words we used in 1872-" We have met the enemy and we are theirs." At the Republican headquarters, which was at 'Squire Cassidey's office, things seemed to look pretty lively, and no doubt friend Marcus, at his lager beer saloon near by, smiled with satisfaction as he saw the exbilarating disappear in the direction of said headquarters, while the "returns" accumulated in his money drawer. There the officials and men of prominence in the "Riprosrious" party did congregate and read the news, good, bad and indifferent, as it came in.

In and around the Court House, too, groups of excited politicians, mostly of the colored stripe, were gathered discussing the "probabilities."
