THE ORANGE VACANOY.

Gov. Brogden has ordered an election to supply the vacancy in Orange. caused by the death of Gov. Graham. to take place on the 16th of Septem-

This action is a surprise. Gov. Brogden does not appear to be acting with fairness and impartiality, but to be under the control of certain of his party leaders. The law indeed leaves it optional with the Executive when to issue his writ of election; but even if there were nothing mandatory obliging him to issue it in time for the people of Orange to have their rightful representation in the Convention, common justice requires that he should order an election to take place before the assembling of the Convention.

DR. WILCOX. The Observer and other papers are in error, we fear, in claiming Dr. Wilcox, of Ashe, as a Democrat. Our information is direct to the effect that Dr. Wilcox was an anti-Convention candidate and fully committed himself to the revolutionary adjournment policy of the Radicals. We trust to Dr. Wilcox's intelligence to see the error of such a policy and act for the best interests of his people, by enlisting himself in the work of constitutional reform. -Statesville Landmark.

Trivett, member of the Legislature and a leading Radical of Ashe county, writes to the Raleigh Era that Wilcox is an undoubted Republican. he having voted for Grant in the Presidential election and the Radical candidate for Congress last year. Trivett further says that Wilcox took position in the late canvass in favor of immediate adjournment. Trivett also claims Spake, of Jackson, and our man Wilcox, of Transyl-

The Greenback Convention. DETROIT, Aug. 17.

The following is the call for the Greenback Convention, which is to assemble in this city next week. It is signed by Hon. Moses W. Field, Chairman:

In view of the stagnation of all kinds of productive business, the paralysis of industries, the distresses of men desirous to labor with their hands for the support of their families, produced by false and vicious legislation upon the finances of the country; the fostering of monopolies and giving of money-lenders undue advantage in productiveness over every other property, thereby discriminating against the earnings of labor; therefore all who are in favor of reform in governmental action in this regard are invited to attend the Convention at Detroit on Wednesday, August 25,

The following propositions will be discussed: To see if a currency issued by the government for the people cannot be sanctioned and adopted which will not place the entire business of the country in the hands of lankers, brokers and speculators in morey; to provide means whereby every man shall be enabled to invest to the extent of his means in the public securities, now exclusively within the reach of the capitalist and banker; opposition to the taxation now imposed on leaf tobacco and all other domestic productions; the repeal of the whole system of internal revenue taxation as soon as practicable, and the raising of all revenue required for the support of the government by taxation on imports of foreign productions; the extinguishment of all currency issued by banking corporations, and the return to one currency only provided by the government for the use and benefit of the people, and the immediate repeal of the act of January 14, 1875, fixing the day for the resumption of specie payments.

The following gentlemen will address the meeting: Hon. William D. Kelly, of Pennsylvania; Gen. John Carpenter, of Wisconsin, and Hon. Il. M. Horton, of Illinois.

Grant and the Whiskey Ring.

Albeit not written in the most pervous and elegant English, President Grant's letter touching the St. Louis whiskey frauds is one of his most successful efforts at epistolary correspondence. "Let no guilty man escape if it can be avoided" is good. The President openly withdraws his protection from his friend Joyce and all the crooked strychoine rascals.

- The Transcript says that Sam Bass, a Democratic negro, was waylaid a lew nights ago by some Radical negroes who had made threats against him. They shot at him, but missed and pursued him to his house.

There are election contests in Wayne, Robeson and Surry counties for scals in the Convention.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. B. GRAINGER-Bank of New Hanover. M. CHASTEN-Commission Merchant.

- Generally clear, but coast rains

- The street force is busily engaged in cleaning out the drains in various parts of the city. - Nutt street, which has been in a rather dirty condition, was being thoroughly overhauled yesterday.

- A party of young gentlemen leave on the steamship Wm. P. Clyde this morning for a Northern trip.

- Robberies are getting to be very frequent lately. The authorities should devise some means of putting a stop to them. - We noticed yesterday that Mr. J. W. Strauss has ready the timbers for new building adjoining his residence on Fourth street, near Hanover. We were informed that it is intended for occupation

- In some places along the streets the air is fragrant, toward nightfall, with the perfume of evening primroses and humming-birds may be seen darting in and out among them, returning every evening to the same spot for their honeyed feast.

- From parties coming down last night we learn that the river had fallen eight inches at Fayetteville, and was at a stand further down, with but little probability that the water would go higher. The low grounds are still submerged.

- Our reporter heard a rumor the other day in reference to a change in the location of Union Depot, but inquiry in well-informed quarters proved it to be without foundation. We make the statement for the information of others who may have heard the story.

- We had thought that everybody and everything hereabouts had got ram enough, if not a little to spare; but here comes one from Smithville who has to say that in Lookwood's Folly and Shahotte there has not been a sprinkle for all these weeks. The crops there are suffering from drouth, as the prevalent winds drive back the rain-clouds from that particular point of the coast.

Heard from His Father. A colored man went to the City Hall yesterday morning to get some one to answer a letter for him, which he had just received from his father, from whom he said he had not before heard in sixteen years.

Of course he was in a delightful mood.

From a gentleman living at Moore's Creek, Pender county, we learn that the crops in that section suffered considerably from drouth early in the season, and in some places on Black river were too far advanced for the late rains to repair the damage. The corn has not suffered much from excess of water yet, but it is not believed that an average crop can be made.

Base Ball Match. We are requested to give notice that those associated devotees of the invigorating "American game" yclept the Stonewall and the Old North State Base Ball Club, respectively, will have a match game at the old grounds, on Sixth street, between Orange and Ann, this evening at 3 o'clock. The future proprietorship of the ball with which the game is played is, we learn, dependent on the result of the game.

Henry Langston and Henry Wallace alias Chas. German, both charged with larceny, the former from Holden township B. Gordon, of Georgia; Hon. Henry Wa'lace is said to have five separate counts against him, one of which is for stealing a ballot-box. He was committed in default of bond in the sum of $1,000, and Langston was committed in default of bond in the sum of $200. The committing Magistrates were A. H. Williams, Esq., and A. store of Parker & Wells, Toisnot, one night A correspondent of the New York Herald, writing to that paper from Knoxville, Tenn. under date of Aug. 16th, gives the follow ing description of the treatment our "Wandering Warren" received at the hands of the indignant populace of that place:

"L. F. Copeland, the man with many aliases, who has figured in the roles of preacher, swindler, confidence man, &c., and who was exposed here to-day, was tarred and feathered to-night at eleven o'clock. No other violence, however, was offered. He was engaged to be married to a highly respectable young lady here. Copeland has been residing here since June last. He created some notoriety by a false statement regarding ex President Johnson's religious belief, in a telegram to the Chicago Times. He has been indicted as a confidence man whose exploits were delineated a short time since in the Baltimore Gazette. He attempted to pass himself off as the regular correspondent of the New York Herald at Greenville, though at the time he knew the reporter for that paper was present. He is very shrewd, a ready writer, and has written a great deal for journals at different points, and having ample leisure succeeded in getting ahead of the regular correspondents engaged in other business. Copeland claims that the confidence man is his

A Singular Case of Imposition, and

How It was Exposed. We heard yesterday of a case of fraud and imposition practiced by a colored woman which equals anything of the kind that has ever come to our knowledge. It seems that about the year 1855, one of our conduct of one of them, a girl, to sell to some party residing in Alabama. After the close of the war, about ten years having then elapsed since the girl left her home, the mother commenced a systematic effort to discover the whereabouts of her daughter, with the view of inducing her to come home and live her, or at least in the the same place. Numerous letters were written to parties in Alabama supposed to know something of the missing girl, and persons visiting Alabama were requested to make inquiries about her, but all to no purpose. Finally, homever, a letter was received from a party in Alabama who represented herself as the long "lost daughter," anxious to return to her old mother and cheer her declining years, requesting that money be sent to her to pay her expenses to this place. The mother, overjoyed at having at last heard from her long-absent offspring (as she supposed), went to work and soon got together the desired amount, which was sent to the writer's address. The pretended daughter soon after arrived here and was kindly greeted by the old woman, though she failed upon the closest scrutiny to detect but little if any resemblance between the supposed daughter and the one who had left her so many years before. For this reason questions were plied very freely touching circumstances connected with her vently, so as to prove her identity. Some of these were answered correctly, while others seemed to puzzle her, which was accounted for by the supposed daughter, who feigned to be somewhat disordered in her faculties from being so long separated from her rela tives, and for other reasons. Matters went on in this way for some time, the supposed daughter being supplied with clothing and all other necessaries by the old woman and her other children, when finally there came another letter, this time from Mississippi, the writer of which also claimed to be the missing daughter, stating that she desired to come home and making the same request as the other for funds to enable her to do so." Hardly knowing what course to pursue, but acting partially under the influences we have mentioned, the mother obtained the required sum and forwarded it to the new claimant to her paternity and affections The latter shortly after arrived, presented herself at the home she was seeking and was immediately recognised by her mother and her brothers and sisters as being indeed their long absent loved one. And now for the impostor. She was informed of the state of affairs, appeared considerably nonplussed, but finally confessed that she was an impostor. Her explanation was to the effect that she became acquainted with some one in Alabama who knew all the circumstances connected with the lost daughter, being at one time a friend of hers, and learning what efforts were being made by the mother here in Wilmington to find and induce her to return house, she determined to personate her, with what success we have already detailed. The indignation of the family against the impostor was very great, especially as she had lived off their bounty so long, so she was driven forth to obtain subsistence and support as she best could, and is now, with the other parties mentioned, living in this

THE EXCURSION YESTERDAY.

The "Soldier Boys" on a Trip-A Grand Time and a Large Crowd--The Vicissitudes of Landsmen on the Rolling Wave and the Humors of Sea Sickness.

Yesterday was a day long to be remembered in the history of the military pleasantries of our city. The excursion of the Wilmington Light Infantry on board the fine, large and commodious steamship Raleigh, under command of that genial seaman, Capt. Oliver, was the event of the day. From an early hour old and young flocked to the spacious decks of the handsome steamer. At about 8 o'clock the Light Infantry, in full uniform, accompanied by the Cornet Concert Club, marched down to the Baltimore wharf, and very soon the noble steamer, with colors flying and a joyous crowd on board, loosed her moorings and rapidly glided away on the transparent bosom of the Cape Fear. Among the precious cargo that trod the spacious decks were old and young, the gray-haired sire and matron, the middle aged, the dashing youth and pretty maiden, and the fierce tyranical infant that raved and roared; that opened his mouth and tried to stick his foot in it or tried to gouge his eyes out with his fists, who would teach you to look out for squalls when his face became clouded. All were there, and such another jam; but a pleasant jam, said Captain Oliver, or All-over, as he was called, when the former cognomen was found to be inappropriate, because, when the Raleigh became "stuck" in the mud (on the return trip) it was found she would not "row-land for her Oliver." The day in all respects was exceedingly pleasant and agreeable. The dancing committee set their portion of the arrangements wealthy and prominent citizens, who was on foot very soon after the steamer left the very indulgent and kind to his slaves as a wharf, and during the livelong day, either general thing, was constrained by the bad on heard, where, on the second deck, eight Smithville, the merry throng joining in the intoxicating mazes of the dance. At Smithville many devotees of Terpsichore and perhaps a few faint hearts remained, while the lovers of less gentle sport, with those who were anxious to see the land sink down the horizon, sought the Blackfish Grounds. The breeze was excellent. The sea had on an animated roll that sent a thrill of pleasure to the hearts of the old sea-dogs of the Raleigh, and made their pulses throb with healthful excitement; but it sent the biliously inclined landsmen-aye, and the ladiesto the rail, and the salt sea took tribute for its king of that which from them was due as the penalty for trespass on his domains. The ship rolled and tumbled. The blackfish waited near, longing for the well baited hook but to those stomach-tortured souls blackfish seemed now not half so fair as once they were in dreams. The great sea bared its lovely bosom all around, but there were no eyes now for chaste graces of form or ele gance of contour. They were "rocked in the cradle of the deep" but there was no power for soothing in the motion or the lullaby. They wanted to go home; and they told the captain so with such evident sincerity beaming in their countenances that he-kind soul-consented to forego his own pleasure as anticipated in the trip to Frying Pan Shoals, and to make the run for Smithville as quickly as might be, though that seemed not half so quick as many would have the good ship go. After the dancers had been taken up and the mud banks left behind matters went more smoothly, and more pleasantly. The return trip was made in good time, and the Raleigh drew up to her wharf about 8 o'clock and discharged the most numerous and the worst shaken set of excursionists the season

Brilliant Wedding. Wednesday last will long be remembered by those who had the pleasure of being present at the nuptials of Mr. Henry Brun' hild with Miss Julia Greenwald, daughter of Mr. N. Greenwald. The impressive ceremonies of the Jewish rite were performed at the residence of Mr. D. Kahnweiler, on Fourth street—the parlors of which were tastefully decorated with evergreen-and the couple were married under a bell of flowers. The officiating clergyman, Rev. Dr. Kaufman of Portsmouth, Ohio, opened with prayer, followed by an exhortation upon the duties and responsibilities of the marriage tie. The drinking of wine by the couple, and the placing of the ring by the groom on the finger of the bride next followed-being indispensable ceremonies. The ancient priestly benediction terminated the ceremonies, 10 will wall

The bride was dressed in pure white silk, ornamented with orange blossoms.

The following bridesmaids and groomsen attended the couple: Misses Addie Greenwald. Fanny Eichelstein (of Portsmouth.) Bettie Joseph (of Philadelphia, Pa.,) Leopold Brunhild, Jacob Greenwald and Jacob I. Macks.

The entire company of about 100 proceeded to the adjoining house, the residence of the bride's father, where a sumptuous collation was spread. Many toasts were offered to the future happiness of the bride and groom. After the rooms and tables were cleared, dancing was commenced and continued until the small hours

CITY ITEMS.

Foreign Demand for Ameriban Manufacture One of the leading Continental railways has just paid a high compliment to a prominent New England industry. The St. Johnsbury scale manufacturers have just received an order for four of their Patent Iron Frame Track Scales, and a leading English railroad is now putting in these standard scales.

Meeting in sharp competition the prominent scale manufacturers of Great Britain and the Continent, manufacturers of Great Britain and the Continent, and winning, these orders are the most satisfactory prices which could be awarded.

It can be readily seen where some of the 26,053 scales manufactured at St. Johnsbury the first six months of the year have gone, for the weighing of the world is an immense business, and Fairbanks seems to have the contract. With unsurpassed manufacturing facilities, with experience dating back nearly a half century, with a production largely in excess of any other similar establishment in the world, the Messrs. Fairbanks are enabled to manufacture the best scales at the lowest price—hence the increasing demand for their goods.
