STATE FAIR.

FIRST DAY.

Great Display of Machinery, Fine Stock, Farm and Garden Products, House Furnishing Articles, Ladies Handiwork, &c., &c., &c.

[Condensed from the Raleigh News of Wednesday.]

The Fifteenth Annual Exposition of the North Carolina State Agriculunal Society opened on vesterday. At 12 o'clock the Fair was formally opened by an address by His Excellency, Gov. Brogden, 'delivered from the Grand Stand. The display of machinery, farm implements, riding vehicles, farm, orchard and garden products, horses. cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry, house furnishing articles, ladies' handiwork, &c., &c., exceeds that of any previous exhibition, and reflects general credit on the management. the President, Secretary of the Society deserve very great credit for their efforts on the ground for the success of the Fair.

The moderate fall of rain on Monday night laid the dust and left the track in excellent condition.

It may be remarked in passing that the machinery in place and at work in the hall set apart therefor, is conceded by all to be the largest and best exhibition ever witnessed in Carolina. It would alone repay a week's careful inspection.

Floral Hall is rapidly filling up. In spite of the frosts of last Spring the fine apples of many varieties, from Guilford, are here, with grapes and other fruits, wines, brandies, cordials, &c. Mrs. Wilson, our old friend, is here again with her share of innumerable articles in the household department. Bread, cakes, confectionery, butter, cheese, and the great army of things find their appropriate place too. W. C. Stronach has filled his stands handsomely with fine groceries, and tempting candies, truits, and a great variety of articles for the table.

In this hall we also find a very extensive variety of plants, grown by Capt. C. B. Denson, of Kelvyn Nursery, l'ittsboro. Besides several hunand greenhouse plants, he exhibits over eighty varieties of distinct evergreens, a large number of which bemg too large for convenient display in the hall, are planted in trenches on the front. He also has thirty-two varieties of ornamental shade and lawn trees, grown in, and adapted to North Carolina. He has also a collection of thirty varieties of rare exotic ferns-among them are the silver and golden ferns of various sorts.

Prof. Fairchild has a beautiful collection of Dahlias very neatly at-

Agricultural Hall holds a display of the finest garden vegetables and specimens of field crops that we have ever seen. Among these, on the north side, may be found between thirty and forty varieties of vegetables from Prof. Faircloth's market

The Superintendent of the Insane Asylum contributes splendid specimens from the garden of that institution. The corn cannot be excelled, particularly the beautiful white bread corn. Mr. Petrie, of Stokes county, exhibits a mammoth corn containing 1,000 to 1,200 grains on the ear, the result of 25 years, selection of seed. He claims to raise 125 bushels to the a re of this corn. Also, the Mexican red onts, by T. A. Granger, of Wayne, and many other fine things, including peas and beans of all kinds, potatoes, wheat, turnips, &c. A box of 540 cotton bolls, 8 locks to the ball, and 40 bolls to the pound.

THE RACES. In the first race, single dash of a quarter of a mile, purse $25, the entries were Madge, inside; Ida May, second; Charles Moore, third. Judges: M. Q. Waddeli, O. H. Dockery and T. H. Satterthwait. Ida May won the race. It is due to Charlie Moore, an untrained horse, to say that in making the first curve the saddle turned and his rider, "Aleck," was swung with it entirely over his side, but he regained his position and came in close behind the others.

In the second race, mile dash, purse $50 -$35 to first horse, $10 to second and $5 to third. Same judges. Four entries: Joe Nannie, rider's weight 113 3 4 pounds; Nary Long, 1131 pounds; Flora, 111 pounds; Charlie Moore, 111 pounds. Mary Long came out ahead, winning the heat and the race-time 1:551. Flora second; Joe Nannie third.

Joan of Arc, the famous French heroine, had her portrait painted by l'ower, a Scotchman, in 1429. The picture has been discovered.

The girls in the Dead Letter office at Washington have no restraint put upon them-they are allowed to fool with the males just as much as they this city will not take place, as announced, please.

on Sunday next.

An Olly Discourse. Now that the evenings are growing long and the night air chilly and the mosquito sings it but small, all Wilmington begins to appreciate the attractions of cheerfullylighted rooms and a little fire. Probably a large majority of our people light their dwellings with oil lamps, and as the price of an absolutely safe and good oil of say 120 to 150 degrees first-test is nearly double that which is charged for the common arti cle having only the Government test of 110 degrees, we judge that most people buy the "cheap" article, although a little test of the higher priced oils would make it clear that the saving realized in the purchase of the common is rather apparent than real, as a gallon of the high-test oil will last much longer than a gallon of the other. A greater consideration than mere cost for prudent people when selecting their "brand" of oil, should be the fact that oil of 150 degrees test will extinguish a lighted wick or match thrown into it, while oil at the Government test-which is considered moderately safeis yet liable to take fire when it falls upon the floor or clothing-in case of the breaking of a lamp.

The chief danger in burning cheap oil, however, is not that which may follow the breaking of a lamp containing oil of the Government test, but the danger of adulteration. So far is this practice carried by dishonest jobbers and dealers that no one can be sure that his high-priced oil even is safe except by making a critical test, unless it comes to him under the seal of the manufacturers or through the hands of dealers of known repute. The temptations to adulterate are very great, and of two kinds. First, a temptation to mix a cheap fluid with a more expensive oil and thus sell say two barrels of kerosene worth 30 cents, mixed with one barrel of naphtha worth perhaps 7 cents per gallon for the price of three barrels of Government test oil; and, second, a temptation by so adulterating to enable one's self to undersell more honest dealers in the same line and still make a profit.

This chief adulterating material-naphtha -gives off an inflammable vapor at the ordinary temperature of the air, and is therefore considered so unsafe a material for burning in lamps that nearly if not quite all the insurance companies refuse to take any risk on houses where it is used. It is, however, of value for the manufacture of gas, for which purpose it has been used at our Wilmington Gas Works, during the winter, for some years past. Its cheapness is due ta its being a waste product of the distillation of petroleum in the manufacture of kerosene. When it is again added to kerosene, therefore, a chief object of the original distillation is reversed and made of no effect. Now, these shrewd rectifiers of petroleum would not take out of their highpriced oil all this cheap material which they must throw away frequently when they can find no purchasers for it at 6 to 10 cents a gallon if it was right and proper that it should be burned with the oil; so there must be a reason for taking it out. and that reason is found in the fact that the naphtha makes the oil exceedingly dangerous to handle or burn, for it will flash on the application of a match, and carry the fire wherever it touches, because its surface is always covered by an inflammable vapor. Indeed, this reporter has found the mixture t) be more dangerous to burn in a lamp than pure naphtha, and, though that may seem strange, the heavier the naphtha used (within certain limits seldom exceeded) the more dangerous is the mixture; and, what is strange again, a lamp or can or barrel which contains it is much more dangerous when nearly empty than when it is full.

It would be pleasant for us to proceed to the explanation of these statements and to give some methods for the detection of adulteration, but we lear that then our smooth discourse might grow into a lecture, and that you, gentle reader, might grow sleepy under its influence and would fain extinguish both us and your lamp. Never mind, comrade ours; THE STAR proposes to put out your lamp for you, and then you may slumber; but first let us explain how we propose to put it out. Don't turn it down low and then strain your lungs in the effort to put it out by blowing down the chimney. Such attempts have caused many cases of fatal burning, when the oil was poor, by blowing the flame and air into contract with the naphtha vapor inside the lamp, causing explosion. And don't blow in at the bottom, for it don't go out kindly that way. But do it this way. Turn the blaze up ligh, so; and then blow gently across the top of the chimney, like the English philosopher from whom we of late learned the trick-and the flame sinks to rest under a night cap of carbonic acid gas made for the occasion. There! Good Solil .- But not so can our fadeless luminary be put out. Blow up, or blow down; come good oil, come bad-our "gas" is of a sort that burns-burns on and on for the mental illumination! What a pity that our people are satisfied to risk their lives and property by using oil of whose purity they know nothing. While we are building factories why not build an oil refinery in Wilmington, whose officers shall be men whose names are already widely recognized as a sufficient guarantee of the reliability of the goods they sell ? Some of our turpentine men are almost born distillers-why shall they not succeed in a business which is only a little more complex distillation? Why not call into requisition the transportation facilities of our railroads to bring the crude petroleum to us from the wells of West Virginia or Pennsylvania in :ankcars, just as it is now delivered to the refiners of Baltimore, of Philadelphia, of New many hands, we now buy our refined (and doctored) supplies? We are as near to the oil region as the nearest, and very much nearer to the consumers of the South than any manufacturing point; our railroads stretch out their arms in all directions and unite us with every part of the land-what is to prevent our becoming the great refining and distributing point of the Southeast? Shall we be equal to our opportunities in this direction? What say our railroad managers? What say our merchants and manufacturers? What say the people?

Parade of the Fire Department. In accordance with the published programme, the white Fire Department of this city, composed of the Howard Relief Fire Engine Company No. 1, the Wilmington Steam Fire Engine Company No. 1 and the Wilmington Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, assembled in front of the "Adrian" Engine House, on Fourth street, vesterday afternoon, at 24 o'clock, and formed in procession, the right resting on Dock street, with the Howard Relief Company in front, the Hook and Ladder Company in the centre and the Wilmington S. F. E. Co. on the left, honorary members occupying a carriage. The procession then moved down Fourth street to Nun, down Nun to Front, up Front to Market, up Market to Fourth, up Fourth to Red Cross, down Red Cross to Front, down Front to Market, up Market to Third, up Third to Princess, up Princess to Fourth, and down Fourth to Dock, where, as previously arranged, the companies disbanded. The procession was headed by the Wilmington Cornet Concert Club, which, as usual, and a sed excellent music while the proces ion was a motion.

The department made a very fine and imposing display. The steamers, which appeared to be in excellent trim, were profusely decorated with evergreens and flowers, as was the case also with the splendid truck of the Hook and Ladder Company, while the gallant studs which bore them pranced gally, as if proud of the fine trappings and nodding plumes with which they were bedecked.

The scene along the line of murch was quite animating, numbers of citizens copdisplay, while the approving smiles of the fair ones flashed from each door and window in silent but unmistakable appreciation of their gallant defenders from the perils of the red monster whose devastating course they have so often stayed by their promptness and energy in the hour of

The Athletic Club.

This Club is making extensive prepara tions for the grand opening of their grounds, now being fenced in and rapidly placed in readiness, which is to take place on Thanksgiving Day. A meeting of the Committee of Arrangements, consisting of Messrs. E. Kidder, John Colville, W. Roddick, R. G. Ross, A. V. Wood, W. L. Jewett and Berry Gleaves, was held Tuesday night, when the following programme of exercises for the day, submitted by Mr. Berry Gleaves, was considered and adopted: Opening speech, 10:00 A. Parmele, Superintendent of the South Carolina Penitentiary, addressed to the Chief of Police of this city, was received at the Marshal's office yesterday, in reference to two prisoners who escaped from that institution on the 8th inst. Their names are James Robinson alias James S. Robinson, convicted of burglary and grand larceny and sentenced to ten years imprisonment, and Richard F. Smith, convicted of mule stealing, and sentenced for ten years. They have probably come in this direction, and as a liberal reward is offered for their capture our officers should be on the lookout for them.

The Colored Military. The various colored military companies of this city, together with their guests, the Comet Light Infantry Company, of Charleston, paraded the streets yesterday and made quite a display. Hundreds of the colored population of all ages, sexes and conditions, followed them through the streets. The gay uniforms of the "Zouaves" attracted particular attention. There was to have been target practice at Hilton during the day, but up to this writing we have not heard the result.

THE TOLLEY GUN.-COPY OF TESTIMONIAL. IUDSON CITY, N. J., Sept. 30th, 1874.-MESSRS. J W. Tolley-29 Maiden Lane, New York:-The 10-guage Gun No. 3078 I ordered from you gives me ntire satisfaction. I was very exacting when or dering the Gun, but must say that you have more than fulfilled what I required of you. I have shot several breech-leaders by first-class makers, and our gua beats them all for beauty and workmanship. As for shooting qualities, your gur shoots stronger and more even than any gun I ever shot. I have shown it to several good judges (including irst-class gunmakers) and all agree that the action s very strong and durable, and that the gun is one of the best they ever saw. I have made some very ong shots with it, using only 31/4 drs. of powder, which is all your gun requires. I have shot it at a targat according to the rules of the Turf, Field and Farm trials, and the average of 6 shots at 40 yards is: Left-pattern, 169; penetration, 38: right-pattern, 175; penetration 39; using 31/2 drs. powder. Now I am sure such a gun is seldom met with, and am very proud to be the owner of it. But the real test of your gur s in the field-there it excells all others, killing cleaner and handsomer than any gun I ever saw, as you assured me they would. Both paper and metal shells work splendidly. Gentlemen, I have to offer you my very best thanks, and will recommend your mus to all my friends.

Yours Respectfully, HENRY LORIOT.
