It would seem that the Republicans have carried New York by 10,000 majority, that the Republicans have reclaimed Massachusetts-majority small-and that Pennsylvania has gone Republican.

The result in Mississippi, while not a surprise, is highly gratifying.

THE CAMEL OF AMERICAN ORI-

Prof. Cope has recently discovered. in his study of American paleontology, a number of well-determined forms which he regards as the progenitors of the camel. No clearly-defined genera of the ancestral series of this animal have, up to the present time, been found in European formations. "Until such are discovered," says Prof. Cope, "there will be much ground for supposing that the camels of the Old World were derived from American ancestors."

The Singer Will Case,

The Singer will case was again called in the Surrogate's Court of Westchester county, New York, on Tuesday. Among those present was Mrs. Mary Ann Foster, a well pre-served matron of middle age, who alone contests the will, claiming to be the only legal widow of Isaac M. Singer (the sewing machine inventor) and, as such, entitled to her dowery. which would amount to about $4, 000,000, out of the $13,000,000 at which the estate is valued. Mrs. Foster testified as follows: Her age will be fifty-nine next January; her maiden name was Sponsler; she first made the acquaintance of Mr. Singer in Baltimore, where she was living, momarried, with her parents. Mr. Singer paid his addresses to her. She came with Mr. Singer to New York, and from 1836 to 1860 lived with him as his wife. She had ten children by him, eight of whom are now living. On August 7, 1860, Mr. Singer and the witness ceased to live together. She afterwards saw Mr. Singer driving with another woman, and then began an action for divorce against him.

Mrs. Foster's testimony also developed the fact that Mr. Singer introduced the sewing machine by which he made his fortune in 1850. When Mrs. Foster first knew him he was poor. He played in churches and other places for a living. At that time they went by the name of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt, his middle name. His first success dates from Chicago in 1838, where he invented a drilling

WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1875.

- Asheville Pioneer: A house was burned in Gloucester township, Transylvania county, on the night of the 26th inst. in which five children were burned to death. We are not sure that we are correctly in-formed as to the name of these unfortunate people, but think it is Painter. It appears that the mother, with her oldest child and infant had gone to church in the neighbor-hood, about three quarters of a mile from their house. The father remained at home until he could get the children to retire to bed and then went to meet his wife. We are informed that when the father left the house he fastened the door on the outside. The children, if they had warning, had no chance to escape the terrible flames which devoured them.

Destructive Fire at Marion. We learn that a fire occurred at Marion, S. C., yesterday morning, about 1 o'clock, by which both warehouses of the Wilmington. Columbia and Augusta Railroad located at that point were destroyed. Fortunately there was but very little freight in the buildings at the time and the loss in this respect was therefore slight. The buildings are believed to have been fired by an incendiary.

Wilmington can now boast of a firstclass hotel. In company with Col. J. R. Davis, the proprietor, and at his invitation. we yesterday took a stroil through the various rooms comprising what was formerly the National Hotel, but which are now part and parcel of the Purcell House. The entrance to this part of the building is on the second floor of the Purcell House. The first object that attracted our attention was the ladies' reception room, separate from the parlor of the Purcell House proper.

This we found to be elegantly fitted up, including all the modern conveniences. We then visited all the other rooms, twepgant order and filted up in handsome style. being newly painted and papered, and newly furnished throughout with black walnut marble-top furniture, new grates, in place of the ordinary fire-places, &c. The rooms have also been newly carpeted throughout and supplied with gas and bells, while each is furnished with curled hair mattresses with the Tucker spring, which makes as easy and comfortable bedding as one would wish. Night Terrors of Our Homes. . We have to chronicle what even in this community-and we know of no community having a larger experience from which to judge-must be admitted to have been the most coolly impudent and determined of all the cool attempts at robbery yet heard of this season.

A lady residing on Chesnut street and sleeping with a daughter in a room on the first floor of the dwelling, was awakened towards dawn on Monday morning by a slight noise at her window. The noise was like the scratching of matches in an adjoin. ing room. It was some moments before the lady was fully aroused, and in the meantime the noise continued, with the effect of also awaking the daughter who slept in the room with her. Thinking that a married daughter who, with her husband, occupied another part of the house, had arisen and was trying to strike a light for some purpose, the lady called her name, softly at first, for fear of awaking the sleeping children. No answer was returned, but the noise continued, and was evidently close at hand. Again the daughter's name was called-this time in louder tones, and as it at last became evident to her fully aroused senses that the noise was in her own room a strange fear began to take possession of the mother and she called her daughter time after time at the top of her voice; but still the noise went on. At this time the younger daughter became aware that one of the shutters had been thrown open and an attempt was being made to raise the curtain inside the window She immediately called to her brother-in-law, whereupon the operations at the window suddenly ceased and a voice was heard asking in an undertone, "What's that they say ?" Then there was whispered consultation between the persons outside, lasting some seconds, which ceased as the son-in-law arose and commenced to search the window. By this time the house was aroused. One lady sank on the floor in the corner of her room, afraid to move or helpless with terror, believing the thieves were in the room. ther members of the family were in great state of excitement and suspense until a thorough search of the house and premises had been made and developed the fact the thieves had made off. It appeared that they had progressed only so far as to get the way clear for an entrance when they were discovered, and then hearing only women speak and names of women called they had concluded that none but women were in the house and therefore continued their efforts to effect an entrance, until, finally arrested by hearing a man's name called and preparations made for warlike measures, they saw their mistake and made their escape. There was but little sleep in for a weapon, and then all was quiet under the house the remainder of the night. We learn that this house has been twice robbed and sundry thefts and attempts have also been made upon the premises during the past few months, but it seems hardly of interest to speak of it, as so many others have had similar experience.

Fun for Thanksgiving. The St. George and St. Andrew's Athletic Club having taken in hand the furnishing of sport for everybody on Thanksgiving Day, we have learned with much pleasure of the progress made by many of the members who for some time past have been in training for the various Scottish games, races, and contests of strength and skill. Between now and the 25th instant we look for the development of some prodigies of muscle and "bottem," and as the ancient Greeks reckoned their era from the date of the first celebration of their national games, so we propose to reckon our days from this on to the one which is to mark Wilmington's first Olympic. We have heretofore published the programme for the occasion; it remains for us this morning to give a list of the prizes to be awarded:

Another Special Premium. The right spirit in the matter of offering private premiums to be contested for at the Fair' is beginning to show itself among merchants and citizens.
