A Neat Rebuke.

When objection was made in the Southern Pacific Railroad Convention, at St. Louis, to Mr. Jefferson Davis taking a seat on the platform, that gentleman arose in the hall and stated that his place was on the floor, as chairman of the Mississippi delegation. For the benefit of those who voted "no," he would say that he would have declined the honor even if freely offered. Mr. Davis' remarks were loudly cheered.

- The Sentinel says, condensedly: Thanksgiving Day in Raleigh closed in a blaze of coruscating glory; went out amid the glow of many-tinted lights, the clink of glasses, sun-bursts of festive orators, and peals of innocent laughter and applause. The church services of the day were impressive, the audience large, the costumery | 27th, 1875: of the fair worshipers beautiful; the sermous elaborately prepared, earnest and elothe evening, the Holman opera troupe gave Girofle-Girofla at Tucker Hall; the Good Templars had a largely attended and delightful social at their headquarters; the Presbyterians and Baptists had prayermeetings; and Bishop Atkinson conducted confirmation services, and preached to a splendid audience at Christ's Church. But the great event of the evening and of the season was the magnificent banquet given by our neighbors of the News to the Raleigh Board of Trade. Five hundred guests invited, and 300 present, State officers, Senators, Congressmen, Judges, ministers, editors, &c., &c. Among the peakers were Maj. Cameron, editor of the News, Mayor Manly, John Nichols, President Board of Trade, Rev. Dr. Pritchard, Judge Battle, Col. Donan, of the Sentinel (at length) and Rev. Dr. Atkinson.

The Statesville American says: "The senior went on a trip to Wilmington last week, and spent a couple of days in that city. It was the first time that he had passed over the Carolina Central Railroad, leading from Charlotte, and the time between the two towns is about fifteen hours, and eighteen hours from Statesville. The road is in excellent condition, well managed, and we are pleased to learn is doing an excellent freighting and passenger business. The arrangement at Wilmington for transhipping freight seaward is the very best, which includes receiving freight for the interior steamers and other crafts. A large depot and wharf is used common for that purpose. Near by has been erected a cotton com. press for reducing the size of cotton bales to a small compass which is done with great rapidity. The barbor of Wilmington. has been much improved by deepening the channel below the city, making it equal to any Southern seaport, and securing corresponding advantages consequent upon an increased capacity to accommodate the demands of commerce. The completion of the Carolina Central Railroad to Its present terminus, is doing much to open up trade wi h the interior, which will increase with the extension of that enterprise, and more so with the completion of the W. N. C. Road, now about a certainty."
