READ THE RECORD.

Rabid Republicans need not seek to make political capital out of the vote on the Centennial bill. The vote stood as follows:

Yeas, 146. Independents..... Republicans...... 19 Independents..... 5

The Asheville Citizen, referring to our recent sheep article and those in the News, says: "If the State press can awaken an interest in this matter, can succeed in convincing the land owners in North Carolina of the wealth to be found in raising sheep then much good will have been done and a long stride taken in the development of the resources of the Old North State.

"The Cincinnati Commercial says it is understood to be the purpose of the managers of the Democratic party in Ohio to place Mr. Pendleton in the next National Democratic Convention in the capacity of senatorial delegate."

Now pray tell us what is a "Senatorial delegate."

About the oldest and one of the sturdiest and most popelar religious papers in the South is the Biblical Recorder, at Raleigh, organ of the Baptists of North Carolina. It has been published for forty years.

- Gen. Joseph E. Johnston was serenaded in Newbern Friday night, and responded in a few remarks.

- There are now four truck farms around Raleigh, and a fifth is spoken of to be run soon at the Babcock place by Mr. George W. Swepson, says the News.

- We are pleased to deny the report printed in these columns a few days ago referring to Rev. Jno. M. Rose, formerly of Fayetteville, now of Portsmouth. His affection of speech is periodical, but he has been enabled to return to his charge restored by his short visit to his relatives.

- Statesville American: On the 12th inst., Mr. H. P. Messick, residing three miles west of Hamptonville, lost by fire his barn, containing about 100 bushel of corn, a large quantity of working tools, stationary thresher, cotton gin, and a row of stables, together with a quantity of roughness.

- Postmaster McDonald and ung John H. Hood, of Charlotte, ve been arrested for complicity robbing the mails. Hood confessed that he found a key which enabled him to get letters from a box, but states that they all contained checks and drafts and no money, and that he did not appropriate anything to himself. Mr. McDenald's case is set for a hearing on Tuesday.

- Ashville Citizen: Major Mc-Dowell, near Asheville, has a fish-house, In that house is a perch, about the size of a man's hand, been in there some three years. That fish is always on his muscle, whenever another fish is around. He actually kulls every fish of any sort whatever, the Major puts in with him. He killed a whole mess of red-horse fish a week or two ago, by running under them, suddenly raising his back fins, and ripping them. He is the spunkiest fish in American waters

- Nothing definite yet has been heard from the examination of Swepso for the shooting of Adolphus G. Moore, at Haw River. The Charlotte Observer ap-Haw River. The Charlotte Observer appears to place no faith in another version of the shooting, which it thus gives: "Capt. Moore, while going along the road, stopped at Mr Swepson's gate and enquired of a servant if his master was at home. He was answered in the affirmative, and thereupon went up to the house. Mr. Swepson appeared at the door, and the two had a very short conversation, in the course of which Moore raised his gun to his shoulder. Swepson thereupon stepped into the house and got a rifle. Returning with this, he fired and shot Capt. Moore, as heretofore stated. His friends claim that the shooting was entirely in self-defence."

Gen. M. C. Hammond.

[From the Charleston News and Courier.]

Gen. M. C. Hammond died from paralysis at Beech Island, on Sunday last, after a lingering illness, at the age of sixty-one years. Gen. Hammond received a military education at West Point, and served for a time in the United States Army, rising to a majority. In the army he enjoyed the reputation of being as brilliant as he was handsome. Resigning his position in consequence of his marriage, he betook himself to the retirement of plantation life, where he was enabled fully to gratify his literary tastes. He was the author of a review of the Mexican War, which was highly praised by Gen. Scott. Gen. M. C. Hammond.

A Distressing Calamity-A Man Found Dead in His Bed, Suffeented by

Gas. In LAA. L. C. Sellie Among the passengers on the Carolina Central Railway who arrived in this city on Friday afternoon was a stranger from Stokes county, who registered his name at the Purcell House as "W. T. Austin, Germanton, N. C.," and who was assigned to room No. 13. Soon after his arrival he requested to be informed where he could find Mr. J. T. McIvor, of this city, saving he had a letter of introduction to him and wanted to see him about some business matter. A boy was sent with him to show him to Mr. McIvor's residence, from whence he returned about 104 o'clock, accompanied as far as the door by that gentleman. He then had his name placed on the "call" list for 51 o'clock yesterday morning, soon after which he retired to his room, accompanied by a servant, who went with him into the room and lit the gas,

At the appointed hour yesterday morning an attache was sent with the "call' list to arouse those who were to leave on the Northern train, who, on returning down stairs, said that he could not awake the occupant of No. 18. The clerks were instantly impressed with the idea that there was something wrong and hurried up stairs to the room in question, but had not reach ed the door before they detected the smell of gas. A hammer and chisel were hastily procured and the door prized open, when the room was found to be filled with gas, the odorlof which was so strong that for a moment the clerks could not enter. Final ly one of them made a rush for a window and hoisted it. after which they repaired to the bed-side of the unfortunate young man and found that life was apparently extinct. A physician, however, was hurriedly sent for and upon his arrival and examination of the body gave it as his opinion that de-

The lamentable affair, of course, created a feeling of intense sorrow, especially among those who were present when the announcement of the sudden and unexpected calamity was made known. Deceased was a young man, apparently between 25 and 30 years of age, and was an entire stranger in the city, it probably being his first visit here.

The letter of introduction to Mr. McIvor was from Mr. John Fairley, formerly of this city but now of Monroe, and to that gentleman a telegram was sent announcing the sad event, and inquiring what disposition should be made of the body. A reply was received requesting that the body should receive every attention necessary. and that it be forwarded by the evening's express to Winston, from whence it will be taken by private conveyance to the home of deceased at Germanton, Stokes county. The body was enclosed in a neat metallic coffin, and was forwarded as di

It is evident that upon retiring Mr. Austin, instead of turning off the gas jet, blew out the light as he would have done that of a candle, notwithstanding that a warning to the contrary, in the shape of a printed notice, is conspicuously posted on the wall adjoining. Painted from Life-An Interesting and Valuable Relic of Auld Lang

Sype-it in grounder le toent Hanging in one of the parlors of our townsman, Mr. Alfred Martin, is a painting which, as a work of art, would awaken the admiration of a critical composseur; as a souvenir of a hundred years ago it will excite the attention of some of the friends of the Centennial.

At our request Mr. Martin kindly gave us the outline of this elegant picture's history. It was executed, by order of La Fayette, by Stuart or Neil, for a personal friend of the French General, who resided in Philadelphia. After the death of this friend of La Fayette, his paintings were sold, and this one, of a large number, was purchased by a gentleman and presented to Capt. Maffitt. It was fortunately taken from the residence of Capt. Maffitt, in Washington city, by friends, during the war, and by this means preserved from destruction or confiscation. At the close of the war it was returned to Capt. M., who give it to Mr. Martin.

A Portrait of Gen. Washington The Wood Imposition and Remedy. A correspondent, writing on the wood question, says : There is much complaint of short measure in buying wood by the dray load, and no doubt in many instances > purchasers do not get their money's worth. The remedy for this evil, remarks our correspondent, should be applied by our "City Fathers." the Board of Aldermen. by passing an ordinance requiring that every dray used for the purpose of hauling wood be provided with a third dray from eighteen inches long, and set in front in the middle of the dray just four feet front of the others; that the others be made just thirty inches in length, and that the dray and irons be kept in order so the irons will stand straight at right angles with the dray.

The purchaser can then tell by a glance at the dray if it is level full with the tops of the irons, which will make his quarter

Dravmen should be notified, and after a reasonable time clapses to get their drays in order, the police should be instructed to arrest any drayman found hauling wood with his dray, unless the same shall be The portrait bears evidences of its great | properly fixed according to the ordinance. and carry him to interview the Mayor. This will cause uniformity at once in the measure of wood, and will be no real hardship to any one except the owner of the dray, who will have to spend a few cents to put his dray in order, which is a mere picayune. It is due to the citizens, by the city, to protect them from imposition by their licensed draymen, and we trust our "City Fathers" will see that this evil is remedied at once. We would suggest, in addition to the above, that another great evil to be remedied is found in the fact that much of the wood brought to market is cut too short, the proper and legal length being four feet.

A Strange Case. A colored woman living somewhere in the neighborhood of the plantation known as "Love Grove," a short distance beyond Union Depot, allowed one of her small First Baptist Church, corner of Market | from the house a day or two since, as we are informed, and upon missing her little one and making a search for it, was horrified beyond expression at finding that a large hog had seized the child, thrown it upon the ground and was deliberately gnawing at its head, having, when she discovered the position of affairs, bitten and mutilated one side of its face to such an extent that its injuries, it is feared, will prove fatal. We could not ascertain the name of the woman, but learn that the facts are substantially as we have stated

The Wind. During the twenty minutes beginning at 10:45 yesterday morning, the anemometer at the Signal Office registered an average velocity of wind of 84 miles per hour while at Smithville the velocity reached height of 85 miles. The friction over the intervening land will probably account for the difference. This was sufficient to make the rigging of the shipping sing and raise great clouds of sand on the streets. In case a fire had started at the time it would doubtless have made a big sweep.

Magistrate's Court. Gustave Know, boatswain of the German barque Ludia Peschau, was arraigned before Justice Gardner's Court yesterday on the charge of assault and battery of the person of one of the men belonging on that ship, Defendant plead former conviction before the Imperial German Consul, but Justice Gardner held that no such plea could be [considered, as a Consul had no jurisdiction in the trial of criminal cases in Depredating on Lands. A colored man by the name of Alex. Halsey, was arrested and brought before the Mayor's Court yesterday morning on the charge of digging up and removing trees from a piece of land, in the neighborhood of Hilton, belonging to Mr. T. P. Sykes. It appears that Mr. S. had been missing trees from his place for some time, and Halsey, with a spade in hand, was finally discovered in the act of digging them up. A hearing of the case was postponed until to-morrow morning.

Fair and Festival. We should rememberable Fair and Festi val next Tuesday night, 1st of February, under the auspices of the ladies of the First Baptist Church. In addition to the many nice things that will be on exhibition the Cornet Concert Club will give some de lightful music. The Fair and Festival will be held in the Meginney building.
