

ANNOUNCEMENT

We take pleasure in announcing that we have employed Mr. George W. Hardwicke as general assistant in the editorial and business management of THE MORNING STAR.

THE CURRENCY

As is meet and right the subject of the currency is not permitted to disturb the harmony of the Democratic party in Congress. Some plan to reconcile differences between East and West will doubtless be devised, or the whole matter referred to the people in the Congress districts.

Speaker Kerr writes a letter to a Philadelphia courteous forbidding the use of his name in the Presidential contest. He very warmly presents the name of Governor Hendricks as his and his State's only candidate for the Presidency.

Mr. Daniel Decher, who is a well known Virginia newspaper man, has just launched the Daily Border Express at Danville. The Express is a taut and trim barque, and we hope will make her voyages successfully.

A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun intimates that the Republican Congressional Executive Committee is now an able one. At a late session John Hymus was put in to fill the North Carolina vacancy.

TIMELY TOPICS

Prof. Harrington, of the University of Michigan, believes that adulterations are too common, but justifies by saying: "I do not believe, though, that adulteration is so extensively practiced as it was in England in '68, when Haswell and the Lancet made the raid on the adulterators; nor do I believe that adulteration is so common as it is popularly supposed to be."

"Old Ebony" Blackwood is running two serial stories, though one of them, "Left Handed Sam," is concluded in the number before us. The reader must not infer from this, however, that our venerable friend and visitor is light and giddy-headed.

A great European war, with, on one side, France, Austria, Russia, and on the other, Germany, England and Turkey. If so, it will probably be a long time before it begins.

One of T. H. Peterson's 25 cent novel just issued is Mrs. Henry Wood's "My Husband's First Love." It is sold by Helmsberger.

NEWSPAPER OPINION

The Springfield Republican observes that the Chicago Tribune and the Cincinnati Commercial are making favorable remarks about Clinton, but says that all the time thinking about a man from Washington.

Our candidate James C. Blair. Our motto—"As goes Maine, so goes the Union." Then it blazes through the paper to go to Jericho, we suppose the Union would follow him.—Blair's Weekly.

STAR-DUST

Religion is a little like ether in one respect—it evaporates unless you look after it carefully.

Nearly 5,000,000 cans of lobsters were put up on the shores of Nova Scotia in 1875.

Helen Eliza Benson, wife of William Lloyd Garrison, died at Boston Highlands on the 28th instant.

All the boot shops at Spenser, Mass., are turning out eight-hour time, but at fifteen per cent reduced wages.

The recently reported misfortune to Anton Rubinstein, the pianist, is contradicted by Theodore Steinway.

Count Von Moltke, the great German military hero and teacher of the art of war, figures in a synod of Christians.

The Baltimore Gazette is obliged to threaten loafers in its office with dynamite in order to get rid of them.

The female shoe operatives in Lynn, Mass., have organized a protective association called "The Daughters of St. Crispin."

Fifteen newspapers devoted exclusively to music and the dramatics published in Milan, and either of them will undertake to give a student "a continental reputation" for about $2.

"The water we drink," says the Boston Transcript, "costs us $5,000,000." Then, why don't you take your whiskey straight? You would soon come to like it that way as well as any other.

Nearly three hundred years ago Shakespeare wrote, "Jones's Face, shall be France's saint." The contemporary canonization of the Maid of Orleans would seem to stamp the Swan of Avon as a seer.

The pay-rolls of the municipal departments of New York for January are being prepared at the reduced salaries, and there is much dissatisfaction among the subordinates who will receive from five to twenty per cent less than has heretofore been paid them.

Dr. Hall, in his excellent Journal of Health, gives the following sensible and suggestive rules under the above heading:

- 1. Cultivate an equal temper; many have fallen dead in a fit of passion.
2. Eat regularly, not over thrice a day, and nothing between meals.
3. Go to bed at regular hours. Get up as soon as you wake of yourself, and do not sleep in the day-time—at least not longer than ten minutes before noon.
4. Work always by the day, and not by the job.
5. Stop working before you are very much tired—before you are "fagged out."
6. Cultivate a generous and accommodating temper.
7. Never cross a bridge before you come to it; this will save you half the troubles of life.
8. Never eat when you are not hungry, nor drink when you are not thirsty.
9. Let your appetite always come uninvited.
10. Cool off in place greatly warmer than the one in which you have been exercising. This simple rule would prevent incalculable sickness and save millions of lives every year.
11. Never resist a call of nature for a single moment.
12. Never allow yourself to be chilled through and through; this which destroys so many every year, in a few days' sickness, from pneumonia—called by some lung fever—or inflammation of the lungs.
13. Whoever drinks no liquids at regular intervals, and has no resistance to his life. Of cold or warm drinks the former is the most pernicious. Drinking at meals induces persons to eat more than they otherwise would, as any one can verify by experiment; and it is in excess in eating which constitutes the laid sickness, suffering and death.
14. After fifty years of age, if not a day laborer, and sedentary jobs at forty, should eat but twice a day and in the morning and about four in the afternoon; for every organ will not get adequate rest will give out prematurely.
15. Begin early to be under the benign influence of the Christian religion, for it is "as the promise of the life that now is and of that which is to come."

A colored man ejected from the Carolina House.

T. McCants Stewart, colored, a member of the firm of Elliott, Stewart & Straker, attorneys at law in Columbia, for having been forcibly removed from a seat which he had taken on the floor of the gallery in the Opera House during Booth's performance of Hamlet, now brings an action against it and the City against Policeman Cooper, who acted in support of Mr. Stewart's removal. The matter will be heard before a colored Trial Justice during the coming week.

Great Poets the Form and Product of the Age.

[Baltimore Gazette.] We hazard the belief that neither Goethe nor Shakespeare was more the natural product of his age than Dante.

It is impossible not to feel a lively sympathy for the bereaved bride whose husband is snatched from her at the foot of the altar in front of the private altar of the officiating justice of the peace, as the case may be. Especially is such a bride to be pitied when she loses through her own carelessness a husband whom she has caught after protracted and skillful effort.

The bride in question, while yet a blooming and energetic widow, met with an elderly gentleman of eighty years of age, and an indefinite quantity of bonds and stock certificates. In spite of the opposition of his family she married him, and it was his duty to marry the trusting and ingenious widow.

It is stated that the famous and long-sought-for Planchas in Patagonia in Arizona, which Spanish explorers yielded pure silver in such huge pieces two hundred years ago, that the crown confiscated it for its own use, has been found by a man named Cratz, about ninety miles southeast of Tucson, near the Sonora line.

Judge Van Cott, Mrs. Moulton's counsel, declines to make any rejoinder to what he terms Mr. Beecher's "beastly speech," in reference to his letter of advice to Mrs. Moulton, and irreverently speaks of that pious man as a "holy bully."
