CICERO W. HARRIS, WILMINGTON, N. C .:

THURSDAY MORNING, March 30, 1876 COUNTY ORGANIZATION.

It will soon be time for Democratic Conservatives in the counties to take steps towards securing representation in the State Convention which meets in Raleigh on the 14th of June. The county conventions for the purpose of appointing delegates to the general convention of the party will be called by the executive committee of each county. These committees in making the call will be regulated of course by local circumstances. I some counties it would be better, in order to have a full representation of the people, to have the meetings take place during the spring term of court where that is practicable.

These county political gatherings are important, and should be attended largely. The business of running conventions is too often left to a few persons. Under the state of things in vogue in many counties a little knot of persons have it in their power to send up a delegation pledged to certain aspirants. We do not charge that the result of the system is always to secure the choice by the State Convention of individuals who manipulate the wires beforehand, but we do know that a fairer and every way better plan would be to have the county delegations chosen by the mass of the people in the counties. If the mass of the people will not attend the meetings so much the worse for them. The people ought to go, or, say nothing forever after of illjudged nominations. All parties are what the people composing them make them, or suffer them to become. Good nominations strengthen, but the making of weak nominations are in every case injurious. Let the Conservative party go out into the campaign this summer with an unimpeachable ticket, and let us all work hard to elect it. The first step is in the selection of delegates to the State Convention.

CONSUMPTION IS CURABLE. We know there are a thousand heads which will shake a dissent from the proposition we have written above. But facts convince where theories do not.

We are deterred from making this an article in the common acceptation of that word by the limitations imposed by the nature of the subject, which technically belongs to the medical journals, and has no place here save by sufferance. But as thousands perish diurnally of this fell disease who never read the medical journals, or who will not, in the early stages of the malady, take the precaution of consulting with physicians, we think we do not trespass on the noble domain of medical science when we publish, simply with the endorsement of the source whence the information springs, the following statement. The Oxford Torchlight now edited principally by a gentleman widely known as a journalist and literary man-alludes to some cases in these terms under the head, "An Astounding Cure:"

"Last week we saw our old friend John Satterwhite, Esq., aged 64, hearty and hale, better than he has been in thirty years. About one year ago we told the readers of his cure, and of the remedies used so successfully. Mr. Satterwhite has had many relatives to die of consumption. He had long been threatened with the same fell disease. He had hemorrhage after nemora bage, had a dreadful cough, expectorating a pint of most offensive matter every twentyfour hours, was weakening daily until he was searcely able to rise from a chair, and, as the doctors supposed, was near death's door. By accident he heard of two remedies, which he used together, and with really astonishing results. In three weeks he began to fatten and strengthen, was able to attend to his farming operations, all of his distressing symptoms disappeared, his cough vanished, and he walked and rode about a well man. In March of last year we gave a brief statement of his then condition. A year as elapsed, and he has gone on improving. We have known him at least thirty years, and we never saw him so stout and buoyant. He informs us that he has not had an hour's sickness in fifteen months, did not lose a day from work last year, and feels that he is entirely relieved of his pulmonary symptoms.

"The Remedy. One pint of liquor and four tablespoonsful of old fat lightwood knot sawdust. Dose, one tablespoonful three times a day. Cut mullen leaves in Julia as August dry them and make a too July or August, dry them, and make a tea, not too strong, and use night and morning in place of coffee. Mix with sugar and milk to suit the taste. Drink one cup full. It is not well to take too much.

"Mr. Satterwhite still continues the use of the mullen tea, and has great faith in it. He informs us that an old friend of his, who He informs us that an old friend of his, who is very far gone with consumption, is improving. If it makes a cure we will report the fact, for we know the person and his case appeared desperate. Drs. Jackson, of Philadelphia, Churchill, of Paris, and other men of eminence, say that tubercular consumption has been often cured, and we so believe most unfatteringly. We are sare we have known at least two cases. In the one case five doctors in consultation decione case five doctors in consultation deci-ded that the lady had phthisis, and would die soon. supporting nominations once made, close, earnest work in neighborhoods, the formation of township and ward clubs, presence at the polls-all this is required to carry the election next November. Is there an intelligent and public spirited Conservative to whom this is a difficult programme if he will reflect on his duty and the consequences of failing to perform

We have had a weather eye on the man from Maine for a long time. The New York Tribune, which is for Bristow first and Blaine next, says that Mr. Blaine's rivals will do well to notice one thing, namely, that he is gradually winning over to his cause the immense power of the officeholders. He has done it already in Massachusetts, as is evident by the sudden conversion of all the pap-fed newspapers to his candidacy. A similar indication comes now from New Hampshire. It may be the sad duty of the Democracy to demolish that little bloody shirt of Mister Blaine on or about the first Tuesday in Noember next.

Grantism is a curse the country will not easily get rid of. And when the halcyon time named in the annexed paragraph from the Pittsburg Post shall have come the blighting effects of the foul thing will remain for awhile as a warning and a punishment:

"Grant as a man, and as a leader, may pe politically defunct, but the Grantism which he has inaugurated and watered with the tears of suffering millions yet flourishes, and will continue to flourish till Radicalism and its glaring iniquities shall be replaced by honest Democratic Govern-

STAR-DUST.

- Moody and Sankey still have immense congregations in the Hippodrome, New York.

- The question is asked why newspapers will persist in abbreviating a exceedingly solicitous about the issue son of temperance, and make a S. O. T. of of events in Cuba.

- Minister Washburne's friends announce that, in seeking for a nomination for Governor of Illinois, he does not aim at the United States Senate.

- The Wilmington (Del.) Herald runs up a United States flag and beneath it places the name of Thomas Francis Bayard as its choice for the Presidency, sub ject, &c., to the St. Louis Convention. It believes Mr. Bayard to be a league beyond any other man in connection with the office

- The Springfield Republican tells of a deacon in Cleveland who is training at present with the noble army of independent voters. The other day a party-man twitted him with being on the fence. "Yes," said the deacon, "I am on the fence, and there I propose to stay as long as it's so confoundedly muddy on both sides."

A gentleman in Dover, England, sends the Charleston News and Courier the following epigram:

The Babcocks and Belknaps Were the honest old chaps That Ulysses secured to have near him; For birds of a feather Will, you know, flock together.

And he needed such choice birds to cheer him.

Candidates.

[Graham Gleaner.] Upon the judicious selection of candidates largely depends the result of the campaign. Much more depends upon this than perhaps many think. Many of the newspapers are expressing their preferences and many correspondents are bringing forward names, connected with the various positions on the State ticket. This is perhaps well enough, always provided the newspapers and correspondents reflect the preferences and opinions of their localities, rather than express those of an individual, based in all probability upon personal friendship and consideration. We have in the State a large number of worthy, competent men, from which to fill the places upon our ticket. In the selection, finally made, the interest of the party and its success will be materially served or it may be much damaged. Personal claims and considerations, however meritorious and deserving, must not be permitted to hazard the success of the party. After competency and fitness, availability must be looked to.

The New Hampshire Election Figures.

The New Hampshire election resulted, according to the official figures, in a vote for Governor of 41,-765 for Cheney, Republican; 38,128 for Marcy, Democrat; 419 for Kendall, Temperance, and 15 scattering. The total vote was 80,322, Cheney having 3,208 majority over all. Last year the total vote was 79,206, and no candidate having had a majority over all others, the Legislature had to elect the Governor. A vote was taken this year on calling a Constitution of the State without any influence of the control of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District of North Carolina, by Alexander S. Heide, of Fayetteville, Cumberland Co., duly declared a bankrup under the Act of Conduction of the State without any moral weight in determining who the next President shall be, provided the Republicans succeed, and without any influence toward the purification of politics by enforcing the choice of the March, 1876.

The only use of a vote for Mr. Conkling by the State of New York will be to make good his claims to greater consideration in the Senate, and greater power with the next administration—at the cost of leaving the State without any moral weight in determining who the next President of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fear District Court of the United Stafes for the Cap Fe sulted, according to the official figtional Convention, which resulted best possible man. overwhelmingly in favor of the proposition.

An Upright Judge.

[Oxford Torchlight.] When the lamented and excellent Judge Robert B. Gilliam was travelling one of the Western or Southith two or three lawyers. During the day a case was mentioned and the parties to it. As evening was coming on they came to a handsome residence owned by Mr. Blank. The lawyers proposed to turn in and spend the night. Our friend, whose memory we so much revere, said: "You mentioned to-day that a certain Mr. Blank was defendant to a suit in the court I am to hold. What relation is he to the gentleman whose hospitalities you propose to tax?" The reply was, "He is the same person." "Then," said the scrupulous and pure judge, "you must excuse. me, for I cannot accompany you, and must continue my journey alone."

He was six miles from the Courthouse, and though nearly night Judge Gilliam would not enter as a guest the home of a reputable gentleman who had a case to be tried before him. Such an exquisite sense of honor and judicial propriety is in striking contrast to the low standard that illustrates the conduct of some of those who, wearing the judicial "lion's skin," are yet unable to conceal the long ears that in spite of every precaution will show themselves to the public gaze.

Cuba Coming to the Front Again. [Special to the Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 27. The Cuban question, which has been submerged by the flood of investigation, will come to the surface in a short time. Don Carlos, now in England, it is said, has received overtures to become a loyal member of the royal family, and, that his pride may not suffer, he will be offered the position of Governor General of Cuba, in lieu of the title of Captain General, thus affiliating him with the home government in the same manner that the Portugal royal family became rulers of Brazil after their expulsion from Pertugal by Napoleon. It is the purpose of the Spanish ministry to place a large force in Cuba, and conquer peace at any sacrifice of life and money. The firmness with which this is to be done does not please the President, and Mr. Fish is wondering what will become of his state paper in foreign in-The administration is tervention.

Man's Way. [Detroit Free Press.]

The front steps of a citizen of High street have needed repairs for many months past, and almost every day since last October he has promised to send a carpenter around to fix them. He came home the other day to find that his wife had been tripped up again by the steps, and this time she had received a broken limb. She felt just as any woman would, and as she came into the house she stopped groaning long enough to say: "The doctor says I'm laid up for three or four months, and I guess you'll fix those steps now!" They ought to have been fixed long ago," he slowly replied, "but if you are going to be laid up all summer, I won't bother with 'em. I'll come and go by the side door!"

Just His Luck.

[New Orleans Republican.] "You see," said the despondent man on the pickle barrel, addressing the grocer, who was spearing the top of a cracker-box with a cheese knife, "you see some people has good luck, and some people has bad luck. Now I remember once I was walking along the street with Tom Jellicks, and he went down one side of it and I went down on the other. We hadn't got more'n half way down when he found pocket-book with $261 in it, and I stepped on a woman's dress and got acquainted with my present wife. It was always so," he said with a sigh, "that Tom Jellicks was the luckiest man in the world, and that I never had no luck."

Black Whales in Mobjack Bay.

|Baltimore Sun, 27th.] A school of so-called "black whales" was driven into Mobjack bay last week by a southeast gale. They were stranded on a bar at the mouth of East river, in Matthews county, Va. A party of men engaged in making a fish-pond in the vicinty got overboard, and after an exciting battle succeeded with axes in killing the whole of them. Their captors have been busily engaged in cutting off the blubber, from which they will realize a good sum. The largest whale was 15½ feet long and five feet across. Such visitors are unusual in the lower Chesapeake.

Yesterday a famous lady writer died in the Rue des Ecoles. This was Mme. Louise Colet, nee Revoil, western circuits, he was passing from aged 66 years. Mme. Her principal works, besides her poetry, being "Les Derniers Marquis," "Dienx Mois aux Pyrenees," "Les Derniers Abbes," "Moliere," and "Lui," which caused a literary scandal. Mlle. Revoil married M. Colet, Professor of Harmony at the Conservatory, but she introduced discord into his home. Of a passionate and intolerant nature, she could not bear contradiction or criticism, and was guilty of some public acts of violence. The chief among them was her attempt to kill Alphonse Karr. Attacked by her with a knife, Karr disarmed her and put her out of doors. He carried the affair no further, but keeps the knife, upon which he has had engraved, "Received from Mme. Colet (in the back.)' Afterwards she attacked her nephew Revoil, in the street, who, unable to call out his aunt, made his harmonious uncle responsible. Mme. Colet inherited the salon of Mme. MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—This is to show that my son was taken sick in January, 1864, with Scrofula, which came out in large sores and nicers on his legs and hip. His leg was swalled more than twice its astural size. He had several doctors of high standing in their profession—two from Boston and three from Charlestown—without getting a bit better. He was obliged to lie wherever he was placed, for he had no use of his limbs whatever. When we had given up all hopes of his living we were told to try VEGETINE, the great blood remedy; and he had taken it but a short time before we could see a great change. The sores run so had that we had to change the cloths four or five times a day. Still, he was getting better, for he could move his limbs and kelp himself a little. He was soon able to sit up in bed, and, by constant use of VEGETINE it has cured him. He has a lame leg, which he will probably have for life; but we all honestly believe if we had used VEGETINE before we bothered with those doctors, it would have saved the use of his leg, and restored it to astural health. I hope all those troubled with Scrofula will read this testimony of me sand my son, who is now well and able to speak for himself.
