It was "nunc est bibendum" with a vengeance. How the shaking hats fled in every direction! How the club rooms cchoed, and the members glowered! The result of this choleric performance was sad to see. Bight, polished silk hats -the citadels of a Briton's rerespectability - crownless, rimless, and broken, pathetically strewed the floor. They appealed mitely for vengeance-for justice. They cried from their abasement, "Oh, men of England, you have borne much from this Cyclops, this great jolly god, this Phallie priest. but the time has come for you to cease to bear. Has he not trampled upon your hats, the crown and glory o your sacred British heads, the em; blems in their stiffness and grimness of your own proud old English race? Ha! it is not to be endured. Turn him out, turn him out!" And they did turn him out. A correspondent writes that a lady, inquiring of Rossetti, the poet-painter, how he could hear to part with his Pythias (Swinbarne had been staying with him,) was answered: "One grows weary of carrying his best friend up stairs every night." A lady regretted that his habits were such she could not invite Mr. Swinburne to her house, and was rejoiced to hear Rosetti say that he had quite reformed. Upon congratulating him on the event, he continued: "Ife does not now get drunk more than five days out of the week." It is related that on one occasion, in a discussion with Rosetti about Napoleon, whom Swinburne hates bitterly, he seized the disagreeing painter and friend by the throat, and had to be controlled by the peo-

APPLETON'S American Cyclopædia,

New Revised Edition.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with Several thousand Engravings and Maps. The work originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA was completed in 1863, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the Unital States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature, and art, have in duced the editors and publishers to submit to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, in volving national changes of peculiar moment. Th civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced. Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Afric .

The great political revolutions of the last decade The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a 'multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars.— Great battles have been fought and important sleges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh produc-tion in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political events.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination. for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopsedia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural histo mbrace all branches of science and of natural histo ry, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture, and art, as well as the processes of mechanics and manufacturers. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcom reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, This work is sold to Subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in sixteen large octavo volumes, each containing about 800 pages, ally illustrated with several thousand

A Representative and Champion of American Art Taste!

EIGHTH YEAR THE ALDINE THE ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA.

Prospectus for 1875.

Issued Monthly. 'A Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out." The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal, did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light, and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE s a a unique and original conception-alone and anapproached—absolute y without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume can not duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and, there is the The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultireproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the patrons of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and in struction obtainable from home or foreign sources. The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more eriginal with THE ALDINE, is an important fea-ture, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure, and animal subjects, sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment, worthy of the artistic features with only such technical disquisitions as do not in

TESTIMONIALS.

PROVIDENCE, R. L., April 20, 1875 W. H. HOLABIRD, Dear Sir; -The Hanting Suit arrived in good condition by express this afternoon. It fits me splendidly. It seems to me a perfect miracle of cheapness, when I consider the quality of material and the laber involved in making it. My wife says it is the best looking suit I've got. I shall take pains to show it to my friends, and you may hear from them on their own account. With many thanks fer your courteousness as well as your skill, I am respectfully yours, fully yours, FRANCIS H. HEMPERLY. Prest. R. S. Asso'n, for protection of game and fish PORTSMOUTH, N. H., March 24, 1875. W. H. Holabird, Esq.,

Dear Sir:—As to the suit recently sent me I am more pleased than ever with it, and it is the best fit I have ever had. You can use my name in recommending it for fit, color and general adaption over anything for the same purpose I have tried, either at home or abroad.

T. W. RASTMAN, Commander U. S. Navy.

TROY, NEW YORK, February 17, 1875. MR Holabird,

Dear Sir:—Have just received your water proef suit, and to show my appreciation I send an order for two more suits. Was so well pleased with the quality and price that I went immediately to work among my brother sportsmen and hope soon to send you more orders. The cap is the only thing I ever saw to fill my idea of a shooting or fisking cap. S. W: BEAUCLERK.

WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., April 6, 1875. W. H. HOLABIRD,

Dear Sir:—I used one of your Duck Hunting Coats through the season last fall and never made an investment in my life that gave me more satisfaction. I want a vest, pants and cap, of the same ma-terial. Yours, WM. BROWN.

BARABOO, WISCONSIN, March 25, 1875. W. H. HOLABIRD,

Dear Str.—Your coat is in every way preferable to the heavy and bungling cordurely that I have been using. The color is just right and I have noticed that the ducks evidently regard me as nothing more than a harmless bunch of grass, till I gave them two barrels, when they changed their mind. REV. R. RITCHIE.

SELEM. ALABAMA, January 80, 1875. W. H. HOLABIRD,

Dear Sir:—The suits you sent me are the best that have ever been sold here, and every hunted will have one of them. It being rather late in the season, otherwise I would erder one dozen suits now. I would like to be your agent here and sell them at your prices, as I show them your price list. Hoping your prices, as I show to hear from you soon, Yours truly, B. JACOBS.

DURING THE DAYS OF THE GOLD-FEVER. Mr. Brooks brings to this werk, in addition to his well-known literary gifts, a thorough familiarity with the features of that wild country and the people then flocking toward it. What he has to say of them is pervaded with a subtle and intense savor of reality that enables the reader to follow the characters in their adventures with a positive sense of companionship. The contagion of the "gold-fever;" the great difficulties and perils which beleaguered their journey across the plains and mountains, and finally the adventurous, half-civilized, and within a contain rade, was a contain rade.
