THE PRESBYTERIANS.

Sommern General Assembly-Second Charleston News & Courier.] SAVANNAH, May 19.

The General Assembly entered apon its regular business at 9 o'clock this morning. Additional commissioners reported this morning, swelling the number to one hundred and twenty, which almost completes the representation.

The moderator announced the standing committees to whom the various matters calling for the consideration of the assembly will, for the most part, be first submitted, and wlo, after carefully examining them, will recommend what action should be taken.

The session of to day was commenced in hearing reports, most of which go at once into the bands of the committees. Rev. Dr. Robinson, of Kentucky, appointed at the last meeting on the contederation of the Presbyterian churches of the world generally, to be known as the Pan Presbyterian Cau cil; also his own report as delegate to the meeting of the confederation in London last July, These reports stated that the committee and the delegates had been kindly recrived, and their suggestions treated bodies, and that Dr. Robinson had availed himself of the opportunity afforded of setting before the confederation the peculiar position and principles of the Southern Presbyterian Church. These reports strongly favor the appointment of delegates to the next meeting in Edinburgh, it 1877, to which there is known to be earnest opposition in the assembly, and a lively debate is expected tomorrow morning, when the matter comes up for discussion.

A number of overtures from the Presbyterians were presented and referred to the committee on Bills and Overtures 1100 Hid on 1 A debate then sprang up as to whether, according to the constitution, these overtures should not go to the synods, and only the synod overtures to the General Assembly, A special committee was appointed to examine and report upon the subcommittee appointed at the last meeting to consider the present system of the beneficiary education of candidates for the ministry, and to gather the sense of the church in regard to a change of the plan. This report recommended the continuation of the present system, but the matter come up for consideration at another time. The Rev. Dr. J. L. Wilson read the annual report of the Executive committee of foreign missions. This report presented a very interesting and encouraging exhibition of the year's operations. Notwithstanding the monetary pressure in the country, the work had been maintained upon its former basis, there being seventyfive laborers in the field. The rcceipts for the year amount to $61, 279-$19,000 in excess of the year previous. No new missionaries have been sent out, for want of funds, though many are offering their ser-

Rev. Dr. Mellwaine read the report of the Sustentation committee. This also indicated progress in all departments of the work. The receipts are larger, the churches more generally contributing, and the benefit more widely extended.

Rev. Dr. Waddell read a report on education. This work is still hindered for want of support, there being a deficiency of forty-four hundred dollars at the end of the year. As far as he had intimation, there are one hundred and seventy-five candidates for the ministry, and, though eighty-eight more churches have contributed than the year previous, yet the receipts are smaller.

This afternoon most of the committees have met to consult about the matters committed to their charge. Rev. Robert Pierce, of Mississippi, preached to-night.

Yesterday afternoon, about three o'clock one of Messrs. Williams & Murchison's drays was going down the steep grade on Red Cross, between Front and Nutt streets, when it was discovered, but too late, that two little colored boys, with a small toy wagon, were in front of the mule and dray, one of the boys being in the wage and the other pulling it. The consequence was that before the mule could be checked, in the impetus given him by the steep grade, the boys had been run down, the wheels of the dray going over the body of one of the boys and the leg of the other, while the little wagon was smashed into "smithereens." Strange to say, the boys, whose names we could not ascertain, got up and walked off, though one of them is said to have been burt very badly.

Celebration by the Wilmington Light Infantry and Cape Fear Light Artillery-The Target Shooting-The Supper. &c. Yesterday the Wilmington Light Infantry and Cape Fear Light Artillery jointly cele brated their first anniversary. They me at their Armory rooms, in accordance with previous notice, at 101 o'clock, A. M., and at 114 o'clock the two companies formed in line and marched to the Athletic Club grounds, where the target exercises were to take place, the line of march being up Front to Red Cross street and up Red Cross to the grounds. The two companies made a very fine appearance as they marched through the streets and attracted no little attention.

A little after 12 o'clock the target practice commenced and a spirited contest ensued for the prize to be shot for by the Wilmington Light Infantry and the Athletic Shooting Club, a gold badge, which was won by Private John W. Bolles, of the Light Infantry. The following is the score:

THE SUPPER.

The anniversary supper of the Wilmingon Light Infantry, which took place at the Armory of the company last night, was a grand affair. The tables fairly groaned under the weight of good things, and the oceasion was enlivened by the drinking of toasts and the many appropriate and elegant responses thereto by members of the company and their invited guests, including the officers of the Cape Fear Light Artillery.

And so ended the first anniversary celebration of these two excellent companies. May the next one find the Artillery Company with a splendid battery.

Attacked by Dogs.

Sunday morning, about 5 o'clock, a colored man by the name of A. J. Nichols was on his way down the street, just south of the W. & W. R. R., when he was suddenly attacked by a large and vicious dog. He was in the middle of the street at the time, and the animal was lying on a pile of trash. When the dog came at him Nicho's picked up a shell and threw it at him, when he turned and ran under the fence enclosing the premises on which he belonged. but immediately returned with a reinforcement in the shape of another large dog, when the two made a simultaneous and fierce onslaught upon the man, who was weak from recent illness, and succeeded in bearing him to the ground. One of the dogs came at him with such vim and determination that, in attempting to seize him by the throat, he thrust his hand into the animal's mouth. Releasing his hand, which was somewhat bruised by the dog's tusks, the animal made for Nichol's throat, but he fortunately turned the tables upon him and got him by the throat, keeping a firm hold, as upon his doing so he was satisfied would depend his own safety and perhaps his life. In the meantime the other large dog and several smaller ones were biting his legs and arms, while he shouted murder at the top of his voice. At this critical moment, and when Nichol's strength was fast giving way, a colored man by the name of Wright, who happened to be passing, rushed to the rescue and succeeded in beating the dogs off. Nichole received a severe wound on the calf of his right leg, besides a large number of slighter wounds on his legs and arms.

Two of them, named The Tribute to Rawin Fuller. were examined. Two of them, named The Louisburg Courier of the 19th says: Spriggs and Cain, the latter a small boy, testified that they saw Fisher when he waded out to the net, took two fish out of it, put it on his shoulder and carried it off. Two other witnesses, a colored man by the name of Hall, and a woman by the name of Mary Dobson, swore that they saw Briggs day night, picked up a bundle which was coming in town with the net on his shoulder the same evening it was stolen. It was knitted shirts, six linen collars and other Good Joke on a Married Man.

A joke is told on a certain gentleman of this city which is too good to be lost. Our friend, who shall be nameless, purchased a pair of pants a few days ago, which, upon being tried on at home, he found to be a leetle bit too long. That night he remarked to his wife that he wished her to take off about an inch from each leg, which would make them of the desired length. Being fond, as a good many wives are, of teasing her husband, she told him "flat-footed" that she shouldn't do anything of the kind, and he retired finally without having ob tained a promise from her that she would attend to the matter. Soon after he had left for his room, however, she, as a matter of course, clipped off the superfluous inch, ss she had been requested to do. The family is comprised of six female mem bers, in addition to the "good man," and it chanced that each one of the other five, who were in adjoining rooms, including the mother of our friend, heard the dispute between the man and wife about the pants, and after the latter had taken off the inch and retired, the old lady, desiring to "keep peace in the family," and not knowing what her daughter-in-law had done, cautiously slipped into the room and cut off another inch. In this way did each of the five ladies, unknown to the others, and all with the praiseworthy object of preventing any misunderstanding between the married couple, clip an inch from the legs of the gentleman's trowsers. The following morning, all un. conscious of what had taken place during the night, he rolled up the pants in a piece of paper and took them to his tailor to be shortened to the desired length. Upon a hasty plance the latter ventured the opinion that they were already rather short; but the owner was too well posted on that score and insisted that they were fully an inch too long. The tailor had no more to say, and our friend retired. On the following Satur- to follow the scriptural mode of giving to day he called for the pants and took them | the Lord, and that at the very least a home, and the next morning, when he come to put himself inside of them, he was supremely disgusted at finding that the legs reached only a trifle below his knees. In other words, they had been altered to the fashion of a century ago, when kneebreeches were in vogue. He straightway accused his tailor of having ruined his pants, and his indignation was expressed in language anything but mild. His wife heard him and came to the rescue of the Knight of the Shears, explaining that she had taken an inch from each of the legs; and her acknowledgment was followed by that of each of the other five ladies, when it was discovered that, altogether, the legs had actually been shortened to the extent of seven

A Late Cruise by the Revenue Cutter Some days since the announcement was nade in our telegraph columns to the effect that the British Barque Caswell, on which it had been previously reported that the crew had mutinied and killed the officers, was brought into Queenstown, together with the bloody details of the murders that had been committed on her. It now transpires that, on the 11th inst., in accordance with an application by the British Consul at Charles ton, instructions were received here that the Revenue Steamer Cotfax, on this station, should be sent in search of the Caswell, which was believed to be destined for this port, and seize the vessel and crew wherever found. The Cutter was thereupon immediately dispatched on her mission and made a considerable cruise, returning to ascertain that the vessel had already been captured and taken into Queenstown.

There was a large congregation present, and a general feeling of regret was expressed because of his expected departure on what must necessarily be quite a lengthy trip. He left for Savannah on Sunday evening's train. Rev. Father White will officiate during his absence.

EXTRACT FROM THE REPORT: Our Bishops tell us of the vast exten and urgent needs of the field and of the bright promise it gives of reward to the faithful laborers, but they tell us of the exceeding fewness of the laborers and of the scarcity of candidates for this holy service and of the utter inadequacy of the pecuni ary means put aththeir disposal. Brethren of he clergy and the laity we need first of all a fuller gift of the Holy Spirit in the breast of each one of us to inflame our love to Christ and our self-denying zeal for His kingdom and His glory, and giving to Him as His Holy Spirit directs us in His word. It is re markable and must have deeply impressed the Convention that our Bishops, in hunting out the remedy for the extreme destitution and pressing needs of this great missionary diocese, both of them solemnly charged us of all our income should be thus appropriated. The words of our Bishops on this vital point, and about the whole subject of the great and urgent needs of our Diocese, so weighty we close with the following re-

Resolved, That the portions of the addresses of our Bishops concerning the great spiritual destitution of the Diocese and the remedy for it be, with their approval and under their direction, suitably printed separately from the journal and sent to all the clergy, and that they be re-quested to read these extracts to their congregations and circulate them among their congregations.
