speech of Col. Steele-Harmony and Enthuslasm.

The following is the concluding portion of Col. Walter L. Steele's speech at Wadesboro, in accepting the nomination for Congress:

In the great struggle which lies before us, I only ask that our leaders unremitting labor and unsuspected devotion to our cause. Let their metal have the clear ring of the old Mexican dollar, and not that dubious and uncertain sound emitted by the debased coin of the Centennial mint. I only ask, as one speaking from the butter experience of 1872, that our bower from his sleeve to play it on Presidential candidate shall be in "thorough and sincere accord" with the great Democratic party of the country. I want no more mongrelsand whether it be the chivalrous Bayaid, the pure and amiable Hendricks, the former enemy but now the gallant and sincere friend of the South-I want no better leader than the bold. eloquent, incorruptible and powerful champion of honesty and the people's rights, Zebulon B. Vauce. Let all our candidates be living, laborious, capable and honest. If all this shall be, then, by the blessings of Heaven, this land will soon be freed from the baneful influence of a party which has debased the character of the American people by the profligacy of its official representatives, from the very door of the Executive Mansion to the lowest and meanest sneak connected with the internal revenue system of the Government. We shall have no more Belknaps Babcocks, whiskey rings, the general official venali ty, which marks this administration, as the blackest page in our history. invoke you, my friends, to "shake off the dew-drops that glitter upon your garments," to rise up in all your might and majesty, as American freemen-bold, honest and patriotic-

Disgnosis of Blaine.

Dr. G. W. Pope, who has been Mr. Blaine's family physician for the past ten years, and is thoroughly conversant with his habits and constitution. gave his diagnosis of the case and paevening, as follows:

"Mr. Blaine's case is one of simple cerebral depression, produced primamly by great mental strain, and secondarily by the action of excessive heat. There is no apoplectic congestion or effusion, nor any symptom of paralysis. He has free use of his limbs. The pupils of the eyes are manual. He has spoken several times and recognizes his family. He has quiet, breathes naturally, and is d speed to sleep. He has responded excelently to treatment, and I have every reason to anticipate a speedy and complete recovery.'

Blatne and Bristow.

Secretary Bristow called, and wanted to go in at a time when the physicians seemed to lose all hope. Mrs. Blaine happened to be in the hal, and motioned him away. Some argued that this was the result of some previous feeling, but the probawant to see anybody just then.

There is a persistent effort on the part of the Radical papers to create the impression that the Oregon election has no significance. When we come to consider that in 1872 the majority against the Democrats was 3,502, the election of a Democratic State ticket, and a majority of both branches of the Legislature, would seem to indicate at least a very radical change of sentiment; and what is true of Oregon may prove true of other States. "And he said, 'Can this be?' " is the form in which Bret Harte relates the emotion of Bill Nye when Ah Sin "laid down the right bower, which the same Nye had dealt unto me." Our correspondent, "Behind the Scenes," hints at a programme to be adopted at Cincinnati which would certainly stagger the present candidates if put in practice. What, if after all the dealing and slipping of right and left bowers up the sleeves of politicians, the game was to be decided by such a coup de main as settled the game of Ah Sin? Supposing Blaine, or Bristow, or Morton, all of them, to represent the Heathen Chinee, and that Conkling represents the Truthful James, who received the right bower from Grant in the character of Bill Nye, can we not easily picture the President rising with a sigh, saying, can this be, and amid the war whoop of the onlookers going for the Heathen Chinee until there was not enough of him left to fill a cigar box? Who will not admit that there is life in the old man yet? Amid all the shall be men of courage, character, noise of the canvass there has been but little sound from the direction of the White House. It is generally conceded that the President has dealt the right bower to the Senator from New York, but consider his consternation at seeing Blaine, or Morton, or Bristow, take the same right

Yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, for the second time lately, the alarm bells sounded for fire, which brought the engine and hook and ladder companies out in a hurry. There was a general rush for the scene of the conflagration, which was reported to be at the naval store yard of Messrs Williams & Murchison. Before the arrival of the fire department at the spot, however, the welcome announcement was made that the fire was out. The alarm originated from the upsetting of a glue pot, the glue igniting and setting fire to some rosin. The flames, fortunately, were extinguished by the prompt application of a few buckets of water.

For the Star. FOURTH OF JULY AT MOORE'S OREEK.

Agreeable to previous notice a respectable number of citizens of Pender county assembled on the battle ground of Moore's Creek, in Pender county, on Monday, the 12th of June, 1976, to take suitable steps for celebrating the approaching Anniversary of American Independence. There was also a meeting at the same time and place of the Executive Committee of the late Centennial Celebration at Moore's Creek, and after adjournment the members present of this committee joined in with this general meeting. Mr. C. P. Moore, Sr., was called to the chair, and Dr. George F. Lucas ap-mously adopted: Resolved, That in accordance with that Centennial spirit which should animate the hearts of the American people, whether of the East or the West, the North or the South, we will avail ourselves of the pleasing privilege, and consider it a patriotic duty, to celebrate the approaching 4th of July in a becoming manner, and upon this sacred spot and hallowed ground of the memorable battle of Moore's Creek.

Resolved, That in that broad and elevated spirit of patriotism which inspires an ardent love of country, and of our whole country, and which rests upon a platform high above the conflicts of party or of local or sectional interests, we will, as firm friends of the General Government, of the old flag, and of constitutional liberty and protection, invite, and do hereby in vite, the attendance here at the base of this Moore's Creek monument, on the ensuing Fourth of July, not alone the citizens of Pender, irrespective of party, but of the public at large also outside of Pender, desirous as we are that the approaching anniversary of American Independence may be celebrated in a becoming manner all over this broad land. Resolved, That it is a patriotic duty to improve these grounds-to place a stone floor and erect an iron railing around this monument, so justly erected to the memory of the noble heroes of Moore's Creek, and that, in our opinion, the county of Pender should own the grounds upon which this monument stands. Resolved, That we will now proceed to elect, for said approaching celebration here, an orator, reader of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, reader of the National Declaration of Independence, marshal, chaplain, and a writer of an historical sketch of Pender county, in accordance with a resolution of Congress, as announced in the recent proclamation of the President of the United States. In accordance with the last resolution, the following gentlemen were unanimously chosen, and the Secretary directed to notify them accordingly, and to request their Shooting a Horse. We learn that J. G. Wagner, Esq., o Masonboro township, in this county, a member of the Board of County Commissioners, had a fine horse killed on Monday. His horse was grazing in the woods about one hundred yards from his dwelling, about 12 o'clock that day, when he (Mr. W.) was suddenly startled by the report of a rifle. He did not think anything of the matter at first, as sportsmen are frequently firing guns in the neighborhood, but shortly afterwards he had occasion to go out where his horse had been grazing, when he found the animal dead, having been shot in the head, the rifle ball entering one of his eyes. He has no suspicion as to who committed the

On motion, the President was invested with full power to negotiate with and purchase from W. A. Wright, Esq., in the name of the company, the tract of land situated on Seventeenth street and the old Newbern road, and to take all the necessary steps to that effect. The Building Committee was instructed to proceed at once to build a fence around the cemetery grounds at the least possible cost to the company, &c., and report their action at the next meeting of the board.

On motion, the President was authorized to contract immediately for the laying off of the cemetery lots at the least possible expense to the company.

On motion of Mr. Morris, it was ordered that the unimproved lots of the cemetery be sold at from $25 to $40 a lot, according to location, and that the following fees be charged for interments: Lot owners, for persons of sixteen years of age or over, $3; children up to the age of sixteen or under, $1 50. To those not owning lots, for persons of sixteen years of age or over, $5; children not sixteen years of age, $2 50. The meeting then adjourned until Mon-
