THE GREAT CONTEST.

Though the Cincinnati Convention nominated a weak ticket in point of intellectual force, it made an appeal to the country of considerable plausibility. Deviating from its usual course of late years, it chose men for the party leaders whose character is above reproach, and whose record in the eyes of a Republican constituenev is unassailable. By doing this, no matter if there was something apparently accidental in the fact of these particular men being chosen, the Re publicans declare their need for better morale and their intention to attain to it. Grantism has borne none but corrupt fruit. Mortonism and Blaineism promised a continuation of the same evil fruit-bearing. So they wisely laid the axe to the roots of the tree, hoping, by cutting it down, to get rid of it finally. Not so, however, for the tree itself is the Republican party, Grantism and those other isms being only grafts and offshoots. The managers wil have to cut down the tree, dig roots, and sow hot ashes over all the soil to do away with the corrupt fruitage which is the work of their own hands No mere talk of reform will avail to save the Republican party. It has committed too many overt acts of corruption, and the common suspicion of its still graver and secret iniquities is too deep. The people require deeds, not empty words. In States where they have obtained control of the administration Democrats have made substantial reforms by correcting abuses of the other party that have grown green and slimy with years. The solid and incorruptible Ingersoll in Connecticut has reduced the expenses of the State administration one-half. Tilden has throttled a corrupt canal ring, and kept down a still more powerful and ingenious ring of New York city politicians. Hendricks, in Indiana, has introduced a number of reforms into the government of his State. Such is a part of the story. We know how it has been in North Carolina, Virginia and Southern States general ly, where Conservative rule has fallen like lines in pleasant places. The Democratic party, while it has been restrained and circumscribed. has nevertheless made for itself an enviable, a noble record as the party of American reform; and now, as the party of economy, honesty and constitutional guarantees, it comes before the country and asks to be allowed to do for the whole land the work it has performed so successfully

To make good this claim upon the country, the Democratic party must exhibit as much wisdom as honesty and right feeling at its National Convention. It must give to the States a pledge of faith to keep the Union inviolable, and the rights of all men sacredly, according to the provisions of the amendments to the Constitution. It must by its action satisfy way guarantees. The only guarantee that spirit will accept is the nom ination, with the certainty of the nominees receiving the whole Democratic vote, of two National men of pure, unassailable personal records, who have no Southern ties to warp their sympathies, pronounced in their views upon the questions of the late war, and of mind and will strong enough to inspire respect and com mand a large following. Such men, if nominated by a harmonious convention, in accordance with the timehonored rules of the party, will be commended to the independent vote of the country as well as to that of the Democratic party. Such a ticket will start off with the prestige of sucwill start off with the prestige of suc-cess. There would be elements of solidity and a tone of heartiness in it ation to the people. We have lively hope of the St. Louis Convention. We do not beheve that in the face of such a momentous responsibility it will quail or in any wise come short of its full duty. The work for that convention to do is the work of supreme statesmanship. Politics at some stages is transmuted into State craft. This is one of those stages in progression which come in the history of parties, and rises to a grand climax. Our delegates will feel that a great deal more than ordinarily devolves upon partisan assemblages rests upon the body that will meet on the 27th instant. They will go fresh from the people who have been kept well informed by an ever restless press. We suppose that delegates have sel.lom been as correctly informed as to the wishes of the people in their own communities, though they may have been with regard to the whole country. There is no disposition at the South to force any man or measure upon the party. Wielding a larger certain strength than any of the four quarters of the Union, we are interested, but dispassionate, in the choice of Chief Magistrate for the first time since the foundation of the Government. This passivity might be a profitable study for some of our Northern and West ern allies. Let them but harmonize half as well as we are harmonized, the party will elect a Presidential ticket at St. Louis. If self-interest is partly mixed with our complaisance let them try our recipe, and see if it doesn't work well in higher latitudes. Indeed, what the country wants at this time is a little more of that selfish ness which looks to local interest in the long run, and considerably less of the other sort. What is really desired is more breadth and community of feeling along with necessary self-interest. Cannot the delegate from New York go to St. Louis resolved to ascertain who is the strongest man in the country and plump

And what is to prevent the delegate

Payerteville Mail, We congratulate our Fayetteville friends on the change of mail schedule between that point and Lumberton, which went into effect yesterday. The mail back now leaves the Wilmington train, and reaches Fayette ville next morning about 7 o'clock. So the evening edition of the STAR, printed about 5 P. M., and containing the latest news up to 41 P. M., is read by our Fayetteville subscribers before breakfast next morning.

We presume a close connection is also made at Lumberton with the down train. If so, the new schedule between Lumberton and Favetteville will prove a great bene fit to travellers as well as to those interested in an early receipt of the mail.

Runaway. Considerable excitement was created on Front street, yesterday, just before the dinner hour, by a runaway horse attached to dray, the property of Mesars. The Lodges in this city are Free Love Lodge No. 1,469, and Golden Lyre Lodge No. 1,608, which numbers nearly two hundred members, with a steady increase of membership. These two Lodges are to have a grand excursion to Charlotte on the 7th of August, where they are to participate in the celebration of the anniversary of Rising Star Lodge No. 1,655, of Charlotte. There are upwards of twenty lodges in the State, with several applications on file for the establishment of new ones. From the report of the 13th annual meeting of the G. U. O. O. F., of America, we gather the following as the summary of the benefits of the order as rendered in the last annual report for the year ending October 5th, 1875: During the year the number of brothers relieved was 1,082; widows relieved 146; widows buried 208; orphans relieved 87; amount paid to sick $16.920 58; for funerals $10,326 81; to widows $1. 963 99; for charity $3,146 46; paid out for lodge purposes $53,018 09; invested $39, 007 01; value of property $75,891 77 amount invested in valuable property and funds $152,881 83. Not a bad showing for Burglary and Robbery, the whateiles Yesherday morning, about half past two o'clock, Mrs. Rueckert, who resides on the Northeast corner of Third and Market streets, had occasion to visit the kitchen for some mustard for her servant, who was ill, when she found the kitchen door open, Lumberton for Fayetteville at 11 o'clock and upon going inside in the dark she heard P. M., a few minutes after the arrival of some one moving about. She felt for the lamp where she had left it, but it had been removed. She then returned to her room got a light and armed herself with a trusty pistol, when she went back to the kitchen but the thief had in the meantime made his escape. Not fluding any trace of the in vader of her premises, she blew a whistle which was responded to by Officer Edward Davis, of the police force, and the two searched the house and kitchen thoroughly. but gould not discover the party that made the raid. A windowing the rear of the kitchen was found open, and it is supposed that he made his exit by that way. Mrs. R. missed, a number of silver forks and other articles of silverware. The kitchen door she knew to have been looked scourely when she retired for the night.

A Case of Forgery.

Some two weeks since a colored man by the name of Sam. Collier called on 'Squire VanAmringe, one of the Poor Committee of the Board of County Commissioners, for permission to enter the county hospital at the Poor House, being sick and destitute and bearing a doctor's certificate to that effect. The 'Squire thought his case could be attended to as well without being sent to the hospital, and so notified the county physician to attend him Yesterday morning Collier called on Mr VanAmringe for an order to get something to eat, and one was given him on Mr. P. Newman to the amount of $1.00. When the order was presented to Mr. Newman! it bore the appearance of having been tampered with, and Mr. N. sent a messenger with the order to Mr. VanAmringe to see if it was correct, when, upon examination, it was found that one of the cyphers had been changed, thus making it call for provisions to the amount of $1.50 instead of $1.00. It was a small matter, but the criminality was as serious as if it had been a greater one. A warrant was therefore issued for the arrest of Collier on the charge of forgery, but when the officer went to Mr. Newman's

A N ADVISORY COUNCIL WAS CALUED FOR A MAY 27, 1876. to settle the trouble in the Church, the Council being composed of the following named Riders: Elder Joseph Baysmore, of Weldon, N. C.; Elder A. B. Williams, Pastor in charge at Goldsboro, N. C.; Elder H. Moses, and Elder Z Horton, of Salisbury, N. C.

The Coaneli convened at half-past 9 A. M., at the corner of Ninth and Red Cross streets, and organized by chosing Elder J. Baysmore, Moderator, and Elder A. B. Williams, Clerk.

The Chairman stated the object of the meeting as a Council to advise in an ecclesiastical point of view, and asking a Divine blessing to enable him to preside over such an important meeting to transact business pertaining to the interest of the Redeemer's Kingdom.

Deacon Buchanon arose and stated the cause of Lingdom.

Deacon Buchanon arose and stated the cause of the trouble which had resulted in a split in the Church, and stated that the whole cause was the illegal election of the present pastor. According to the rule of the Baptist Church ne important business could come before the Church for its transaction without due notice first given from the pulpit, one Sabbath prior to such meeting for business. one Sabbath prior to such meeting for business, and a full attendance of the members urged, but in this case the large majority were not ready for the election of the Minister, therefor he was notified of

At a Council of the First (Colored) Baptist Church, held on May 27th, the evidence of F. R. Howell extrement.

According to statements made by the rest of the Deacons, F. R. Howell gave as a reason for expelling the Deacons, that they told him his time was out, and that the Church did not want him any longer, &c. He gave this as the cause why he took the step he did, and the Council decided that he was the cause of the Church splitting. Howell was not re-elected by the Church only a few members being for him, and we, the members of the First Colored Baptist Church, respectfully submit the above statement.
