RETTER TIMES.

Revival of Business in Massachusetts. New York Times.]

The first ray of light after the long gloom of business affairs breaks out where was the greatest darkness-in Massachusetts. There is no doubt that that State has suffered more in its productive interests than any other. Times have been harder in Boston or Lowell than New York or Philadelphia. Mill after mill has piled its storehouses full of goods for which there was no demand. Corporations have broken down whose property seemed the best investment in the Commonwealth. The wealthy classes have suffered greatly from these disasters. Others have never recovered from the great fire, and no doubt the losses from this calamity have been distributed over a number of years. Operatives have been obliged to live on their savings, and business of every kind has been materally interrupted. It would seem that m cottons and woolens the Massachusetts mills have got beyond the demand of the country, and that nothing but a cessation of the usual supply would set wheels going again. The change begins in the great product of the State, cheap cottons, which have advanced in some cases nearly fift per cent. The mills are at work again, and new corporations are being founded from old. The manufacturing stocks are advancing in value, and a movement of activity is perceptible through all the business of Boston. The simple explanation is that, so far as calicoes and cheap cottons are concerned, people have economized as far as they can, and have consumed their savings in this direction, and now must have a new supply. The stock on hand has been largely used up, so that new goods must be made. Cotton manufacture begins; this causes a large body of Judge Merrimon made a splendid speech Thursday, two hours and a half long, to a large assemblage of people at Pittsboro. Hon. Joe Davis also spoke. Both gentlemen had the undivided attention of the crowd, and there was a great deal of good feeling displayed among men of all parties and shades and colors. There is as much of the centennial at worl in old Chatham's bones as in any other section of the State and Mr. Davis was told by several good judges he would run ahead of the Headen vote in that county.

Mrs. Tilton supports herself by giving music-lessons. She lives in a quiet way in Brooklyn with her mother, and has no society to speak of. Bessie Turner is in destitute circumstances in the neighborhood of New York. She has the ability to act as teacher or governess, but her services are not in demand.

Hon. Scott Lord, who looms up so prominently for the Democratic Subernatorial nomination in New York, is a law partner of Senator

She is now at work cutting a channel cut to a depth of eight feet of water in the sound, which point it is expected she will sound, which point it is expected she will reach early in November it no unforeseen difficulties arise. The land cutting has been through a bed of stiff clay below the present excavation. This insures a permanency to the inland work which need not be doubted. Mr. Oaksmith thinks a breakwater should be built by the government. Space will not permit our giving a more extended description of the work at present, but we will merely state that the whole enterprise contemplates a channel from deep water in Pamlico Sound to, and including a canal and basin near the town of Middleton. sound, which point it is expected she will

m., and 8 p, m, held at Humphrey's in Harnett township, in this county, yesterday. The meeting was called to order by Captain Lewis Pearce, County Committeman for that township. A Tilden, Vance and Waddell Club was then organized, with the following offi-

First Vice President-John Ennett. Second Vice President-Garrett Walker.

Secretary-A. A. Moseley. Working Committee-John A. Odham, C. M. Bonham, T. B. Karney, Jos. Kerr, Wm. M. Shepherd.

The meeting was then addressed by Jno-L. Holmes, Esq., John H. Currie, Esq., Mr. J. N. Hinton and Major C. W. Mc-Clammy.

A great deal of interest was manifested, and a determination evinced by all to use every effort in the present campaign to promote the success of the party of Re-

8 P. Swain, Wm. Brown, colored, and 8 C. Smith, colored, were elected delegates to the County Convention.

After the appointment of an Executive Committee the Convention adjourned. Wallace Styron, Esq., of Lockwood's Folly, died at Smithville on Thursday morning last, at 2 o'clock, of pneumonia and billious fever. Mr. Styron has for several years been an active member of the Board of County Commissioners, and by his moderate and conservative course, as we learn from a correspondent, had made hosts of friends in both parties. His remains were conveyed to Lockwook's Folly. Thursday

Religious Revival at Long Creek.

We are informed by Mr. John M. Briuson, Clerk of the Baptist Church at Long Creek, Pender County, that the congregation worshipping there have recently enjoyed a very interesting and encouraging revival of religion, resulting in the addition of twenty-seven members to their number, twenty-three by baptism and four by restoration. Of this number ten were females and seventeen males, being of the young and promising of the community.

Fleg Raising and Speaking in Bladen. There will be a pole and flag raising at White Hall, Bladen county, on Friday next, the 15th inst., and Mr. J. I. Macks, of this city, with perhaps others, has recelved and accepted an invitation to adat that place on the occasion.

Still at Large.

We mentioned a report some weeks since that Jerre Forbes, who was lately sentenced by the Superior Court of this county to ten years' confinement in the State penitentiary, had been seen at large in this city. We have since heard frequent reports to the same effect. A party here, who was confident of his presence in Wilmington, recently communicated with some of the authorities at Raleigh, with a view of ascertaining how he came to be at D. Bernheim, pastor. German service at large, &c. He received a reply to the ef-11 a. m. Sunday school at 5 p. m. No serfect that Jerre had escaped some time previously, and that the immense sum of ten dollars, with expenses, would be paid for his delivery. Since then nothing further has been heard about the matter, but we hear that the irrepressible dealer in poultry "breathes still the pure air of liberty."

> An Ox Drowned. A few days since a yoke of oxen, attached to a cart, were halted at the ferry at Hilton to await the coming of the flat, and in the meantime the driver, leaving the team in care of another man, went off a short distance. The oxen started for the water to slake their thirst and were soon beyond their depth, the man in whose care they were left discovering the fact when it was too late. The vehicle, being intended for hauling timber, was of very heavy material, and soon had the oxen submerged. The driver was summoned, who plunged into the river and succeeded in freeing one of the oxen from the yoke in time to save his life, but the other was drowned before he could reach him.
