MIL TALDEN TO BE HEARD FROM. Gov. Their present majority, thereeffective speech at Asheville, and fore, falls 2,753 below this average. that a large number of Republicans have given in their adherence to the Conservative Democracy. The same playing out-even in the Greet paper says Judge Fowle made a grand speech at Asheville last Wed-

The Senatorial Convention of Richmond and Montgomery counties met at Pekin on the 2nd and nomi nated Elias Hurly, Esq., of Montgomery. Mr. P. D. Walker declined the nomination.

We infer from a long account in the Raleigh News that Judge Fowle is worrying Judge Russell, of this city, considerably. The two Electoral candidates met at Marion on the 7th. Judge Fowle spoke first, and handled question after question with consummate ability. His last topic, Civil Rights, was not exhausted when his time expired. Judge Russell followed in a harrowing speech about Vance's war record.

"In regard to civil rights, he tried to make it a dead issue and out of the campaign. He said that the negro Elector, O'Hara, would be taken off of the ticket before the election; that it was not agreeable to him to have him on it, and that the party did not show good sense when they put him there, and in would not be agreeable to him to address a negro judge. He said, too, that if the Legislature was Republican, there never would have been a negro representa-

Startling statement! Does Judge Russell think the people of McDowell county such fools or to swallow declarations like the last one made above as facts? There have been negroes in every Legislature since Reconstruction. There were more colored men in the Radical Legislature that met after the adoption of the Constitution of 1868 than in any Legislature that has met under Democratic auspices. The News report states that the negroes became disgusted with the Judge's speech, and that some of them left the house before he concluded. The News further states that Judge Russell said in the course of his speech that "a negro had no business being a Magistrate." He commented on some of the rulings of Justice Bill Moore, of this city, and said if Moore had his deserts he would now be in the pententiary. The only demonstration that was made was when he attacked Gov. Vance, and then the Court House fairly rung with shouts for Vance. He remarked that it seemed to be a Vance crowd, and cries of "yes! yes!" went up, when he said "I guess I had better quit,"

Verily, Daniel has come to judgment and passed on to condemnation second time.

THE RADICAL DISCOMPITURE IN VERMONT. Blue-bellied Vermont rebuked Mr. Hayes last week. In 1874, when the Tidal Wave and General Apathy swept over the country, the State gave a Republican majority of 20,325. This year, with the tremendous efforts of Reformer Bristow and a host of corruptionists who took a different tack from the ex-Secretary, it gave 23,547-a nominal gain of only 3,200, whereas a gain of seven or eight thousand was what was expected. Even the Republican Tribune says: "In reality, this gain proves "nothing. In Presidential years the "Republican vote is always larger, es-"pecially in naturally Republican "States, than at any other time. The "mere increase of vote since 1874, in a strongly Republic an State, ought to "give an increased majority; even though that majority may be small-"er in proportion to the total yote. "Increased majorities, and rapid gains "in the proportional vote of the mi-"nority, often appear at the same "time. The Democratic arithmetician "is therefore clearly right when he "insists that the comparison should be "with the corresponding election of the last Presidential year, and not by "mere majorities, but by proportions "of the total vote cast." In the last cans have lost ground in Vermont in proportion as they have lost in majority since 1872; to wit, 5,950. The New York Sun, however, makes the Republicans to say that this is not the fair way to put it, that we should take the majorities on Governor at the September elections in the years 1868 and 1872, and compare them with the results now. Well, let as see how this method in the interest of the enemy will turn out. At the September election in 1868 the Republicant per a majority of

The conclusion of the whole matter: Grantism and Havesism is fast Mountains. Let us have peace.

FROM OVER THE "KIDGE." [Special Star Correspondence.]

ASHEVILLE, Sept. 7.
We of the sea shore, when we come to the mountains for a "snif" of fresh air, would like an easier way of travelling than the only one presented to us by stage-coach or back. Thirty years ago few would have complained of the present quality of roads and "means of transportation." As "generations grow wiser" the people grow more choice in their modes of travel. What is now considered a very tiresome journey would then have been considered delightful. In 1860 the the great line of railway from Morehead to Charlotte had been completed and in full working order, and the line to cross the mountains from Salisbury had reached "Hickory Tavern," the State supplying twothirds of the cost. Before the great "war between the States" had made progress, the track had been extended to Morganion. The war ceased, and the road was again slowly pushed forward by State aid wholly, we believe, and finally reached Old Fort. Then the special tax bonds collapsed and the work stood still. Money was borrowed, the road mortgaged, and a receiver appointed. Finally it was sold to the State for less than $1,000,000, paid for in its bonds, convict labor placed upon the road, and the work resumed-all this previous to January, 1876.

What is to be the future of this line time alone will develop. The State originally intended to run two lines across the Blue Ridge-one through the "Swonnoa," and the other through the "Reedy Patch" Gap-the latter to unite with the Wilmington and Great Western route, the other with the Morebead City route. One of the effects of the war was to render the double line impossible for the present, at least, and to cause the friends of both to seek a connection of the two lines east of the mountains, and to unite in building the single line to the Tennessee

With this history and agreement, or mutual understanding, before the next Legislature, it should not hesitate to give the little aid needed to complete this common and united line of railroad, not only to Paint

Rock but also to Ducktown. While the line down the French Broad will supply the shortest connection between the seaboard and the great rivers of the West, the projected and oft promised line through Haywood, Jackson, Macon, &c., should be most surely built. Convict labor, with small aid from the State will do it. Here perhaps is the best line for a narrow (three feet) guage railroad in our State. Cheaply and quickly built and economically worked, it presents claims upon the State to be especially considered.

Politics is the all absorbing topic of word and thought. Fifteen thousand majority for Vance is the least that any one will accept this side of BLUE RIDGE.

Washington, Sept. 8. The official guillotine is still a work and heads are falling into the basket by the score, and there's weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth, accompanied by any amount of profanity, aimed principally at the Democratic party, but with a broad sweep it takes in the rest of mankind. No one believes that the business of the departments need be embarrassed by the reduction, especially if the law is fairly and honestly administered in the interest of the government and the people, but, of course, with the Indical officeholder of every degree, party, with its plundering privileges, rises far above every other consideration, and their efforts have been directed mainly to making it as odious and as injurious (seemingly) as possible; thus they are removing the best and most experienced, and then they impudently tell the mobile that their business can't be attended to promptly because the Democrats have made them reduce the force.

This mal administration led them to begin their cutting down with the lower grades of salaries instead of the higher, as, for instance, the letter carriers &c., while the bloated $2,000 to $5,000 fellows are but slightly hurt. If the people are the fools that they have found (or made) this little game may succeed, but if the scales have fallen from their eyes, and they shall see how they have been duped by these fellows, they will doubtless so vote at the next election as to hurl them from the places they have so long disgraced, and put in better men.

It would both astonish and amuse such of your readers as have not learned by experience how things are managed, or rather mismanaged, in the Departments generally. "How not to do it" is the grand climax of official learning, and the principles and practices which the common sense and enlarged experience of the business would have established, seem to have no local habitation among them. An incident will illustrate this: well as Indiana, the majority here 27,226. At the September election to have no local habitation among the Expositor may Gen. Leach, 333. The average of the two is 26. Some months ago a country corresindent sent me 15 five cents revenue stamps, that being no longer of use to him he desired to have exchanged for check stamps. I gave them to a messenger and told him to take them to the office and get their equivalent in two-cent stamps. From the local office he was sent to the Internal Revenue Bureau, where he was informed that they could do nothing with them unless the request was made in writing. The boy sat down and wrote out a request in manner and form as dictated, and the receipt was duly acknowledged by the Bu-Two or three weeks afterwards, and when the whole matter had passed out of mind, a massive letter was sent me from the Postoffice here informing me that "a letter of value" was then awaiting my personal receipt. It not being convenient to call that day, the next morning's mail brought another summons to call for that "valuable letter," and I went. The clerk, having identified me, handed me package, 11x4 inches, franked by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with a one (1) cent postage stamp on the upper right hand corner, and one one, and one seven cent stamp on the upper left hand corner. To the left of the latter were the figures 736, an inch or two below was "No. 8978 ex., and near the bottom was 398, all in different handwriting. On the back was a certificate by the Chief Clerk of the Internal Revenue Bureau that the package "contained no written matter." The whole was sealed with two seals in green wax by "James Carpenter, I. R. S., Philadelphia." I opened the ponderous document, and, removing layer after layer of paper, came at last to my seventy-five cents worth of revenue stamps. Now, sir, I tried to compute the cost of that exchange to the United States, and halted when I got up to twenty dollars!

Well, thank God, a better day is before us. When the Democrats come into power next March, they will infuse some. common sense into this business, and with the common honesty for which they are proverbial, many millions will be saved and taxes reduced, and, more than all, an example of honesty and integrity in high places will be set which will tend to bring the morals of the people up to the point from which Grant and his horde of dishonest officials have dragged them down.

Let the Democrats of North Carolina do their whole duty this fall, and they will contribute materially to this much desired result.

The Close of an Unusually Active Canvass in Maine. AUGUSTA, Sept. 8.

The campaign in this State wil practically come to an end on Saturday night, the election of Governor, Congressmen, State officers and Legislators occurring on Monday. Unless the Republican majority should be unexpectedly small there will be little or no political excitement between this and the Presidential election in November.

On the part of the Republicans the canvass has been unusually active and noisy. The tax has been almost equally severe upon Blaine's brains, Bob Ingersoll's lungs, and the pecuniary resources of postmasters and others. The ex-Speaker, who is undoubtedly one of the best political organizers and manipulators in the country, has surprised his home admirers by jumping up suddenly from a bed of dangerous sickness and assuming and carrying on the work of thirteen or fourteen ablebodied politicians. He has personally attended to the smallest details of the campaign; has looked sharp after newspapers, stump-speakers, torchlight processions, and ward and town committees; has himself travelled night and day, and has made a large number of speeches which in persuasive carnestness and rhetorical force surpass any of his previous efforts at pleading, except, perhaps, his famous oration before Mulligan. Mr. Blaine's utter prostration a few weeks ago was acepted by a good many of our fellow citizens in Maine as a complete refutation of the charges against bim; his sudden and surprising liveliness has, with equally good logic, served to strengthen their faith.

Savannah.

[Savannah News of Saturday.] The mortuary report for yesterday shows sixteen interments, of which eleven were yellow fever cases. Only one yellow fever interment is reported from Laurel Grove Cemetery, and that is a colored person. It will be seen by reference to the report and a comparison with the funeral notices in the News of Thursday, that some of the interments in the Catholic Cemetery reported for Friday properly belonged to the previous day's re-

All excitement in regard to the fever has subsided, and the streets present a more cheerful appearance. Ladies were out shopping, and children were playing in the squares yesterday. More people were on the streets after dark than we have seen any night in a week. It was reported that physicians had said that the fever was assuming a much milder form.

Gov. Tilden to Visit the Centennial-Fire Panic Among the Centennial

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.

Gov. Tilden will visit the Exhibition on the 21st, and remain until the 23rd. Du ring his visit a public reception will be given by the governor of the State building, in connection with the special Centen nial Jubilee of citizens of New York. During the excitement attending the fire on the opposite side of Elm avenue, yes terday afternoon, a panic occurred among the visitors in several portions of the main building, upon an apprehension that the structure was on fire. The heat from the blazing flames across the street having be come so intense as to scorch the paint upon the turn stiles immediately facing the con flagration, a section of hose from one of the engines of the Centennial Fire Depart ment was put in operation, and a stream of water kept constantly playing upon the more exposed portions of the interior of the main building. This circumstance gave currency to a report that the Great Exhibi tion Hall was about to be destroyed, and the rush of thousands of the occupants for the doors and most convenient places of es cape, with the frautic attempts of the more excitable among a few of the exhibitors to carry off their wares, created a scene of excitement and confusion. This scare, however, was of short duration, and was fortunately attended with no serious coase-

LONDON, Sept. 11. A special dispatch from Burgos, to the Daily News, states that Tweed was arrested at Pontevedra, where he landed from a sailing vessel, in which he escaped from Cuba. Mr. Adee, charge d'affaires of the United States, in the absence of Minister Cushing, visited the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs, at La Granga, and ar ranged for the surrender of the prisoner to the American government. The Spanish authorities had been notified of Tweed's sailing for Spain, and preparations had been made for his arrest long before his ar-MADRID, Sept. 11.

The following are additional particulars of the arrest of Wm. M. Tweed: Captain General Jovellar, at Havana, received in-telligence that Tweed had disembarked at Santiago de Cuba, and notified the authorities there. Before the latter could take action Tweed had embarked on board the vessel Carmen, bound to Vigo. Captain General Jovellar then telegraphed to the Madrid government, which, fearing the Carmen might go to some other, port; re quested authorities at all Spanish ports of examine persons on board all vessels named Carmen. There are 12 Spanish vessels o that name. The portrait of Tweed being indispensable for his identification, the Spanish authorities obtained and made copies, of a caricature in an American journal, representing him as beating a child, supposed to typify American justice. This caricature led the Spanish authorities and reporters of the Spanish papers to believe Tweed had been kidnapping children. Hence in the first official announcement received here of the arrest, Tweed "Antelme," which is supposed to have been a telegraphic corruption of "Tweed American," it was stated that he had been arrested for kidnapping American children. Tweed is all and been arrested for kidnapping American children. can children. Tweed is still confined on the isle of Saint Sinion, in Vigo Bay, where he is undergoing quarantine, and is strictly watched by the custom house guards. At the expiration of his quarantine he will be surrendered to the United States representatives. As there are no direct steam ers between Spain, and North America, Tweed will be sent to Cubs, and from there
