From the National Capitol. [Special to the Richmond Whig.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9-11 P. M. The United States Circuit Court at Alexandria to day denied the motion for the appointment of a receiver for the Petersburg and Weldon Railroad, on the ground that the management of the road was shown to be such as ought to be satisfactory to all parties interested-Judges Bond and Hughes both concurring.

Gen. Joseph E. Johnston was on the floor of the House to-day, and received a great deal of attention.

The feeling among the Democrats is more assured since the imposing demonstrations of yesterday. It is known that the Kentucky convention on the 18th instant will be very decided in sustaining the action of the Northwest Democrats. Members from that section here report many active Republicans asserting Tilden's election.

The threats of Grant in regard to martial law in the District do not frighten anybody here.

The Richmond meeting of last night has come in good time, and if followed up by firm action on the part of the Legislature will be of great value in arresting the action of the Hayes conspirators.

L. Q. W. [Special to the Richmond Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.

Senator Sherman delivered himself of a long speech on Louisiana, reiterating the old stories about intimidation and murder. Senator Bogy replied in an earnest and practical speech.

Great satisfaction is manifested among the Democrats at the nomination of Trumbull for Senator to succeed Logan, and his election is regarded as assured by the co-operation of the independents who did not participate in the caucus which nominated Logan.

[Special to the Richmond State.] WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.

The President says that on the first sign of trouble, or on the first hands being uplifted, he will declare martial law in this district, and make short work of the trouble.

From Columbia. [Special to Charleston News and Courier.]

COLUMBIA, Jan. 9. Referee Wilkes has nearly concluded his investigation of the returns of the State election, and will make his report to the Court in a day or two. It is semi-officially announced that the result shows Leaphart's majority for Treasurer to be 49; Conner's, for Attorney General, someo thing over 100, while Dunn defeated Hagood by a single vote. This is as accurate a statement of the result as can be obtained, and is confirmed by Democrats who assisted the referee in the investigation.

THE MAY-BENNETT DUEL.

The True Story-Three Shots and no Blood.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9. The following is the true account of the affair: The meeting between party carried blankets, overcoats, two cases of pistols, and surgical instruments. They represented themselves as railroad officials, May saying that he was a director of the sion was the purchase of the Maryland and Delaware Railroad. They had with them, also, maps of the Peninsula, and to several parties they reported themselves as hunters on a gunning expedition; and such was the privacy of the whole affair that these statements were believed in the neighborhood. Mr. Bennett's face showed a scar, which was much swollen-probably by the cold. The scene of the meeting was a short distance from the line of the Maryland and Delaware Railroad. Three shots were fired without injury to either of the principals; after which the entire party left the ground. The parties returned to Marydel separately. The Bennett party secured a conveyance to Clayton, Mr. Bennett himself appearing nervous and depressed, and subsequently took a special train for Wilmington and Philadelphia. The May party went to Slaughter's station, thence to Dover, and from there to Philadelphia in this morning's train. A Mr. Tilghman was with Mr. May, but the names of the others present at the duel have not yet been ascertained. The party paid liberally for all the service rendered them; also for silence. It is believed that both men are satisfied, and that there will be no further hostile meeting. Mr. Bennett and his friends will leave for New York at midnight.

During their absence the girl had occasion to crawl under the building in search of something she had left there, when the dog, which was lying under the house at the time, made a violent attack upon her, biting and severely injuring her in several places. The boy who was up stairs, hearing the cries of his sister, ran to her assistance, when the animal turned upon him, seized him by the throat, and after a severe struggle succeeded in killing him. A Disappointed Thief. The residence of Mr. Jacob Weill, on Front, between Mulberry and Red Cross streets, was entered a few nights since, but fortunately the thief was not very successful in carrying out his scheme of robbery. He managed to get into Mr. W.'s room, which had been locked, and carried that gentleman's pants and vest into the yard, where he proceeded with his investigations, but found only about thirty cents to reward him for the risk he had run of furnishing Coronor Hewlett with a job. He must have got frightened off, or he would probably have made an attempt to retrieve the bad luck attending his first venture.

A young colored man by the name of George Rowe was arrested yesterday afternoon, by Officer G. W. W. Davis, on the charge of stealing a cheese from the store of Messrs. C. D. Myers & Co. It appears. that severat articles had mysteriously disappeared lately, including a basket on Saturday night and a demijohn of cider yesterday morning. An hour or two after the disappearance of the cider, a member of the firm was engaged in putting up a cheese for a country customer, when he stepped back into the office for a moment and during his absence the cheese was "taken with a leaving." Rowe had been noticed in the store just previously, but had left when it was discovered that the cheese was missing, and suspicion naturally centred upon him as the thief. Joshua Meares, the colored porter, was instructed to look out for the fellow, and soon after saw him passing near the corner of Front and Market streets. It happened that Officer Davis was standing near at the time, and Meares requested him to keep an eye on the suspected individual. The latter returned to Messra. Myers & Co,'s store, followed by Meares and the officer, the latter a short distance in the rear. The officer said nothing to Rowe, but as soon as he saw him in the store he hurriedly left. Meares was sent to bring him back, and as soon as he returned to the store he commenced trembling violently. Officer Davis asked him what was the matter with him, and finally told him that if he knew anything about the cheese he had better say so. He stoutly denied any knowledge of it, but the fit of the "shakes" with which he was so suddenly seized was very con-

Leggett was found by Officer Davis, which led to an investigation, and it was finally ascertained that Rowe had formerly been in the employ of Capt. Leggett, who discharged him on account of his proclivity for taking things that did not belong to him; and still further investigation revealed the fact that Capt. L. had been missing letters and papers at intervals dating from Rowe's discharge from his employment, Enquiry was thereupon made at the postoffice, when Col. Brink stated that the boy had been in the habit of calling for Capt. L.'s mail. He said that Rowe had formery had a key to the letter box, but had latterly made the excuse that he had lost it. when the mail was delivered to him thro' the general delivery, the postoffice officials thinking it was all right. Letters had been delivered to him yesterday morning, but Officer Davis failed to find any on his per-

This will be a case for the United States Courts, and a warrant has probably ere this been served on Rowe, charging him with nail robbery.
