LET US REJOICE.

The telegraph brings glorious news to our readers. 'The electoral count bill has passed the House by a vote of 191 to 86-over two-thirds. Grant will sign the bill, and if he did not it would be easily passed in spite of his veto by the requisite two-thirds majority. It passed both houses by more than two-thirds. It is joyful news for the whole country. It settles the great question of the perpetuity of our institutions and the conservation of civil liberty. It will give a new impulse to industry, set in motion the machinery of a hundred factories, and cause the dry channels of trade to overflow with the bounteous streams of plenty. Let us rejoice together, for the majestic voice of the people has in this instance proved to be the voice of God- Vox populi, vox Dei. The patriotism of the people has proved equal to the fearful emergency, and the institutions of our country are thus saved from the awful maelstrom of passion that threatened to engulf them. Whoever may be elected, we; feel now confident after the sharp and agonizing experiences of the past, the Constitution and the laws will be preserved, because the people will rise up in their irresistible might and demand it. With some little change we might apply to our country the earnest and kindling words of Philip Faulconbridge, in King

"This England never did, nor never shall, Lie at the proud foot of a conqueror, But when it first did help to wound itself. Now these her princes are come home Come the three corners of the world in arms, And we shall shock them. Naught shall make us rue, If England to itself do rest but true."

If the result shall be in favor of Hayes the country will accept the result in perfect good faith, hoping for the best. As the Senate will be so nearly divided between the two parties, and the Democrats have control of the House, it may be that Hayes will endeavor to govern justly and wisely. That will depend to a very great extent upon the character of his advisers. If he stands aloof from Morton and Chandler and Blaine he will probably keep his oath and rule under the Constitution. If he gather around him the wisest and best men of his party he will at least escape many of the great evils that have marked the course of his predecessor. But if Tilden is elected, as we hope and believe he will be, then we shall have an honest, fair, able, just execution of the laws, and all will be well.

Of sovereign rule into the good man's hand, Is giving peace and happiness to millions."

Special to the Richmond Whig.] WASHINGTON, Jan. 26-1 A.M. The following is believed, from good authority, to be the status of the different candidates to the electoral bill: Gov. Hayes likes it and the other Ohio Republicans are bitterly hostile to it. Mr. Wheeler does to be opposed to it. Mr. Hendricks is decidedly favorable. Mr. Tilden is not entirely satisfied with the measure, but is ready to accept it, believing that the ribugal will do what is right in the premises.

VOL. XIX.--NO. 104.

WILMINGTON, N. C., SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1877.

Dispatch, dated Washington, January 25th:

The Senate stuck to its dreary work all night long. Again and again is was thought the last man who desired to ventilate his views on the bill had spoken, and Senators lounging in the cloak rooms, or napping in their chairs or on the sofas, roused themselves, and the galleries waked up with a yawn, only to be disappointed. Mr. Whyte (Democrat) made the strongest argument for the dogma that the President of the Senate is designated by the Constitution to count the votes, yet recorded his vote for the bill which denies that power.

Mr. Morrill (Republican) insisted. as Haves had certainly been elected and held a majority of certificates of electors, that Republicans on the joint committee had yielded too much to the Democrats; but he voted for the bill.

Absent or not voting-Messrs. Anthony, Harvey, Hitchcock, Logan, Norwood, Oglesby, Paddock, Spencer, Wadleigh, and Wright-10.

The election of Justice Davis for Senator by the Democrats and Liberals of Illinois destroys his chance for being chosen fifth judge of the electoral tribunal, and the choice will lie between Justices Bradley and Swayne. Both are regarded as Re-

NTRODUCTION OF BILLS AND RESOLU-By Mr. Sandifer: A bill to incorporate the Lillington Academy, in Pender county. Referred to committee on Corporations. Bill to be entitled an act in relation to the repeal of the Wilmington Mutual Insurance Company, in consequence of the impossibility of the company to comply with the laws now regulating the same. The bill was urged by Mr. Short in order to prevent the closing of the perations of the company. Passed ts second reading. The rules were suspended and the bill passed its third reading. Yeas 29; navs 10. Mr. Robinson introduced some resolutions in regard to the electoral bill before Congress, which were debated at length and passed-aves 25, nays 15.

By consent, Mr. Crawford introduced a bill to amend section 3, article 6, of the Constitution of North Carolina. Passed first reading and was referred to the Judiciary com-

Mr. Robins moved to take up the bill to authorize the commissioners of Moore county to submit to the qualified voters of Carthage township whether the commissioners shall license the sale of liquor in said county, submitting an amendment, which was adopted, and the bill passed its several readings.

On yesterday Mr. Moore, of New Hanover, introduced a bill to incorporate Lodge No. 1, Sovereigns of Industry, of Columbus, Pender county, which was omitted from a report of the proceedings.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Mr. Richardson presented a petition from citizens of Columbus county, asking a prohibitory law within three miles of the Baptist church at Macedonia in said county. Proposition and Grievances. Mr. Ormond presented a petition from colored citizens of Greene county, asking a memorial to be addressed to the United States Congress for a law colonizing the colored people of the South. Propositions and Griev-

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

By Mr. Carter of Hyde: A bill to be entitled an act to establish the boundary line between the counties of Tyrrell and Hyde. Committee on

A message was received from the Public Treasurer transmitting a lengthy tabular statement of the amounts of fines, penalties and for-feitures paid in by Clerks of Superior Courts, was ordered to be transmitted to the Senate with a proposition to print.

A bill to incorporate the First Ward Bucket Company of Wilmington was taken up and passod its second reading; under a suspension of the rules the bill was put upon its third reading and passed.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The special order for 12 o'clock being the consideration of the bill to return to the State its representation in the Western Railroad Company.

The State owns 11,000 shares of the capital stock of this company and the private stockholders own about 3,334 shares. The affairs of the road have been controlled by the private stockholders for several years past and the bill pending proposes that the affairs of the road shall hereafter be managed by a board of directors of whom the State by the Governor shall appoint six and the other stockholders shall appoint three, one of the hoard to be whosen President of the road, and the board of directors ity now exercised by the President and directors of said company.

The committee on Internal Improvements to whom this bill was referred, reported it back unfavorably.

Attempted Incendiarism.

An attempt was made on Thursday night to fire the residence of J. A. Ashe, colored, who lives on the corner of Eighth and Brunswick streets, north of the railroad. He said that he had some business to transact down town, and had just returned home, between 7 and 8 o'clock, when his wife, upon going into the yard upon some errand, discovered a man secreted under the house. Instead, however, of going quietly into her dwelling and informing her husband of the fact, thus giving him an opportunity of arresting or shooting him, she woman like, ran to the door and shouted to her husband that there was a man under the house. He hurried out, but was just in time to see the fellow disappearing over the fence into an adjoining lot. Yesterday morning, upon taking a look under the house where the fellow was secreted, a box of matches and a small bundle of lightwood splinters were found, which was the first suspicion Ashe had that incendiarism was

The Cross for the Crown. Mrs. Emily Bowen, aged about 45 years, died at the county poor house yesterday morning. Mrs. Bowen has been an inmate of the institution for twenty-one years, about which time she met with a fearful accident, having fallen into the fire during a fit, from which she was rescued, but with the loss of both of her eyes, which were burned entirely out, while the frontal bone of her skull was so badly injured that she had to undergo the process of trepanning, s portion of the skull being removed and a silver plate inserted to cover the orifice. For the last five years she has suffered intensely from the injuries thus sustained, and by which her life since early womanhood has been rendered more of a torment than s blessing, but Superintendent Scott informs us that she has displayed remarkable fortitude and endurance, not having in all these years heard her utter a harsh or complaining word. Robbing a Railroad shanty.

A railroad shanty, near the Union depot shed, occupied by George McDonald, Peter Hanes and Bob Herring, colored employes on the railroad, was broken open Thursday afternoon, in broad day light, and robbed of its contents. The thieves broke open a trunk, containing a woolen coat, a number of shirts, and other articles, which were appropriated, and also cut open a valise, and carried away what it contained. Among the articles taken from the shanty were a half bushel of meal, five or six pounds of meat, and other articles of provisions. Some colored women who were in the neighborhood saw the thieves, two in number, engaged in forcing the door, but had no idea at the time that they were doing it with the intention of stealing.

An intimate association with him for many years in secular business, in social life and in religious labor, in circumstances widely varied, often such as to severely try human nature, has not only enabled us to form an intelligent valuation of his character, but has resulted in a continually increased estimate of his worth. We mean no exaggeration when we say that the severer the trial the higher the point to which he has risen in our respect and love. Of all the Christian gentlemen it has fallen to our lot in life to know he was among the very first in our esteem. To mental capacities of a high order he added great culture and unusual stores of accurate knowledge. As a lawyer he occupied an enviable position among his professional brethren, yet was he not envied; his own heart free from selfishness or jealousy he escaped those evils in the hearts of others. To the honor of his brethren at the bar, as well as to his own, it can be said that, notwithstanding his pre-eminence, all respected and loved him; none envied him

A Christian gentleman, one who to the graces of this life added those of the greater life to come, whose excellencies here were the rudiments of an eternal nobility, whose life had root in deep religious faith, and in whom faith and love, with purity and reverence were rarely blended.

For the Star. MR. EDITOR : A week or two ago there appeared in your columns an article stating that Rev. J. H. Wheeler, appointed by the Methodists to Hillsboro, declined the honor, and it being so unlike the former character of one of the aged ministers of the North Carolina Annual Conference, and so unlike the conduct of a Methodist clergyman. whose vows and duty require him to go wherever he is sent, that your correspondent took the trouble of ascertaining the facts in the premises and learned there was no foundation for the statement. How it originated could not be explained, except that the local, devil, or some one connected with the paper that originally published it must have been hard up for an item, as, it consequence of Mr. Wheeler's age, the Conference assigned him this appointment as an accommodation to him, and he and his family were at Hillsboro and had been for several days previous to the first appear ance of the article in question and received cordial reception from his people. I trust you will publish this statement in justice to all parties, as the correction subsequently published by your paper gave no explanation of the matter. Yours,

The false supposition that "Consumption is incurable" deterred physicians from attempting to find remedies for that disease, and patients afflicted with it reconciled themselves to death without making an effort to escape from a doom which they supposed to be unavoidable. It is now proved, how ever, that Consumption can be cured, and that it has been cured in a very great number of cases (some of them apparently desperate ones) by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrap alone; and in other cases by the same medicine in connection with Schenck's Ses Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, one or both, according to the requirements of the case.
