By Last Night's Mail. Entertainment of President Grant. BALTIMORE, Jan. 28.

Mr. Samuel M. Shoemaker, of the Adams Express Company, gave a reception last evening to President Grant and four members of his Cabinet. During the evening the President received telegrams from all sections of the country congratulating him on the passage of the electoral bill. About five bundred persons were present at the gathering.

TIMMONSVILLE, Jan. 28.

Yesterday morning, about two o'clock, B. C. Holloway, one of Chamberlain's trial justices of this place, was called to his door by some unknown parties and shot. The report of the shooting reached the negroes in the country, and they at once charged the deed on the whites, and became much exasperated, and during the day indulged in much violent and incendiary language, which caused apprehensions of an attack on

To prevent this the Intendant appointed a strong force of special armed police, who patrolled and guarded the town. Last night, as two of these police were going their rounds, they were fired on. They were then at the eastern end of the town, near an ordinary country fence, which surrounds the woods. The firing was quite heavy and proceeded from the woods. Both of the police were wounded; one in the hip and the other in the shoulder.

Both woudns are severe, but not necessarily fatal. The balls were evidently fired from guns similar to those furnished by Chamberlain to the negro militia. The policemen returned the fire and gave the alarm, and a pursuing party was at once organized, but no trace of Chamberlain's pets could be found.

Holloway died to-day, and much excitement and uneasiness prevails, and more trouble is expected.

Mr. Benjamin Harvel, aged about 70 or 75 years, residing on the plantation of Mr. Samuel Davis, about six miles from this city, went driving in the neighboring woods on Tuesday of last week, taking with him a couple of dogs. On the evening of the day succeeding the dogs came back to the house without their master, which served to strengthen the fears already entertained that something had happened to Mr. Harvel. On Thursday morning bells were placed on the dogs and s search was commenced for the missing man, the animals leading the way, and that night the unfortunate gentleman was found lying under a tree, speechless and apparantly suffering from a stroke of paralysis. He was conveyed to his home, where he lingered, speechless and unconscious, until Sunday morning, when he breathed his last. The Fire Yesterday Morning. Yesterday morning, between four and five o'clock, our firemen and others were hustled out of their warm beds by the sound of the alarm-bells denoting a conflagration. It was found to originate from the burning of an old wooden tenement on the southwest corner of Front and Queen streets, formerly occupied by colored people, all of whom, we learn, but one poor old woman, who was absent from home when the fire took place, having removed from the house on Saturday. One of our per day. venerable citizens, though not yet classed in the category of "oldest inhabitants," informs us that this building was erected about twenty-five years ago, at which time it was christened "Palo Alto," and, from what we can learn, if that old "land-mark" could have talked before it was subjected to the process of cremation yesterday merning it might have afforded much food for serious thought, if not material for a romance. The house was on property belonging to Mr. A. H. VanBokkelen, was not insured, and was probably valued at

Juvenile Runaways. Three colored lads, aged about six, seven and eight years, respectively, were found asleep in a goods box near Rock Spring, about 5 o'clock Sunday morning, by the police officer on that beat. They gave their names as Henry Thomas, George Bigaloe and James Charity, and it was supposed that they had run away from their parents. They were lodged in the guard house for safe-keeping, and yesterday morning were brought before the Acting Mayor, when the mother of Henry Thomas came forward and claimed her child, saying that she sent him down the street Saturday afternoon on some errand, and that she could get no further tidings of the precocious youth until she keard he was in the guard house. The boy was delivered to her with the understanding that she administer the proper correction, and an officer was directed to notify the parents of the other two boys to come forward and claim their truant offspring. Stolen Articles Recovered.

The false supposition that "Consumption is incurable" deterred physicians from attempting to find remedies for that disease, and patients affleted with it reconciled themselves to death without making an effort to escape from a doom which they supposed to be unavoidable. It is now proved, how ever, that Consumption can be cured, and that it has been cured in a very great number of cases (some of them apparently desperate ones) by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone; and in other cases by the same medicine in consection with Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Fills, one or both, according to the requirements of the case.
