Washington Speculations. [Richmond Whig Special.] WASHINGTON, Feb. 23-1 A. M.

Rumors were flying around last night to the effect that Judge Bradley was of opinion that Hayes bad only two votes in Oregon, but all that appears to be true is that the Republican Commission feel the odium of public opinion so much that they don't think it wise to put the fraud through with a rush. They want to keep up appearances, and are pretending to consult the legal authorities. The final result will of dences of good faith. course be a signal victory by 8 to for the great modern doctrine of ali unde. About three weeks ago a prominent Western Democratic politician met an agent of the Bullock printingpress in this city, who he found was here for the purpose of selling a press ordered by the National Republican. He came at once to the conclusion that the proprietors of the press in question knew what the decision was to be and were making their arrangements accordingly. My information is that Judge Bradley at this very time was expressing himself in a sense very favorable to Tilden. Strangely enough a number of Southern Senators were found voting yesterday against a subsidy to a line of Janeiro. Had the terminus of the inte been Charleston or Norfolk the result would have been similar. The two Virginia Senators, Johnston and Withers, deserve credit for sustaining the appropriation. Quite a large percentage of Southern Representatives and Senators in Congress think that their only mission here is to get their five thousand dollars a year, and are actually hostile to appropriations and public measures designed to benefit the South. They would vote to-morrow against rebuilding the Mississippi levees or the Texas. Pacific railroad on some wretched quibble while their people are starving. The fine talk about Gov. Hayes' pacific and friendly policy towards the South receives a very unfavorable commentary from the fact that John Sherman who has gone to Ohio, is understood to be having a large influence in shaping his Cabinet.

Another commentary may be found in the fact of Senator Edmunds, who runs the aliunde Electoral mill, or Commission, reporting to-day adversely upon a large number of disability hills. The promises of reversing the stereotyped Radical policy of hate, persecution, and pillage are not to be credited just yet. L. Q. W.

[Special to Richmond Dispatch.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. The Electoral Commission heard Mathews, Evarts and Merrick argue the Oregon case to-day. The argument was concluded about half-past 4, and the Commissioners went into secret session. The lawyers on one side debated with an air of absolute assurance of success, and Evarts made some ungenerous but indirect flings at the opposing counsel, and especially at Mr. Tilden. On the other side, Mr. Merrick did not speak as effectively nor eloquently as in the Florida case, and attempted a little bull-dozing of the Commission, which seemed in rather bad taste. It looked as if he thought he gave them a piece of his mind, as the case was pretty sure to go against him, and this would be his last opportunity to lec-

There are yet eight States to count, and if the decision upon Florida be reached to-morrow, the Houses will separate and take a recess until Saturday. Oregon will then be recorded, and if Pennsylvania be objected to the Houses must separate for debate, and the obstructionists may obtain a recess until Monday. If the plan of objecting to each remaining State be adhered to, the 5th of March will arrive with one State to be counted. David Dudley Field was very busy to-day getting up a provide for such contingency. Entertainment at Brooklyn Hall. The entertainment given at Brooklyn Hall last night, by the pupils of the Baptist Sunday School conducted under the auspices of Mr. J. W. Taylor, was largely attended, the hall being crowded to its utmost capacity, so much so that chairs had to be placed in the aisles, while many of the younger portion of the audience were compelled to stand. The performance, which consisted of vocal and instrumental music, speeches, dialogues, &c., was pronounced on all sides to be excellent, the children acquitting themselves in every instance in the most creditable manner, and eliciting many and unmistakable evidences of heartfelt appreciation.
