OUTLINES.

The great fraud was consummated, Hayes receiving 185 votes and Tilden 184. Fifteen Radical Senators met and resolved if the policy of Hayes is against Southern Republicans they should know it. House discussed a resolution liberating the Louisiana Returning Board from prison, that they might assist the Commission in completing the work of the Returning Board in inaugurating Hayes. - Colored Justice Wright in South Carolina cannot be found. - Treaty of peace between Turkey and Servia formally signed. - Grant has telegraphed Packard that he will not recognize either Governor, and orders General Augur to use the troops only in protecting life and property. -The Senate Louisiana committee have made a partial report covering a hundred pages of manuscript; it is only a beginning. Disabilities of Gen. Buford, of Kentucky, removed. - Morrill, Howe and McDonald appointed in Senate to make arrangements for the inauguration. -- Conference repost on deficiency appropriation adopted. - Senator Ransom presented the credentials of Gen. M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, as Senator; read and placed on file — Conference committee on Nava Appropriations unable to agree. - New York markets: Money dull at 3 per cent; gold quiet and strong at 1041@ 1045; cotton dull at 121@123 cents; spirits turpentine firm at 40 cents; rosin firm at $1 95@2 00. MAYES PRESIDENT.

Our telegraphic dispatches inform the reader that the work of villainy has been thoroughly done, and Hayes has been declared President by a vote of 185 to Tilden's 184. And now it will be seen how little fidelity there is in his promises. Already Radicals are moving to compel him to shape his course in their interests. The scramble for office begins, and the country will soon learn how little confidence need be reposed in anything Hayes has said or may do. The next point of interest is the material he selects for his Cabinet. His contidential advisers will give some foreshadowing of his policy.

The Great Struggle.

Although the fight is over, and Hayes has been declared victor through fraud, we gather some details of the struggle that our readers may see how exciting and desperate it was, and how it was the filibusters were defeated:

[Special to Norfolk Landmark.] WASHINGTON, March 1, 12:40 P. M.

The House met at 10 A. M. The filibusters have rallied in force, and up to this hour they have succeeded in holding all proceedings in check. Fearful confusion prevails. The Senate has just sent a message that they non-concur in the House objection to the Vermont electors.

3 P. M.-The filibusters have got the bit between their teeth and are running away. The storm is raging madly. The Speaker was powerless for some time to get order, and the wildest confusion ensued. The sergeant-at-arms, with his mace, tried to stem the torrent, but could not for some time. Mr. Walling, of Ohio, is the leader of the obstructionists. All the members rose to their feet, and Mr. Bebee, of New York, mounted on top of his desk and shouted out his defiance. The lobbies were cleared and order restored.

3:30 P. M .- The dead-lock continues. The Radicals are very uneasy. The filibusters are fighting on the alleged two sets of certificates from Vermont, and are fighting hard.

6 P. M .- The fight of the filibusters under Walling is recommenced. Speaker Randall is now the President-maker. If he favors filibustering they will win the game. There is a prospect of an all-night session, as there has been nothing done up to CHASSEUR.

|Special to Petersburg Index-Appeal:] WASHINGTON, March 1.

Mr. Mills, of Texas, got in a resolution declaring the action of the Commission to be fraudulent and void; also declaring it to be the right of the House under the constitution to elect a president from the three highest who had been voted for. Objections made, and the resolution comes up to-morrow as objections to be acted

The Republican Senators held a caucus to night and nominated Morton for President of the Senate.

Randall's rulings to-day were unfavorable to the Democrats who desired to have Hayes left out. He has settled his claim adversely to the next speakership, and there are many more Democrats in his predicament.

ry, and the effort made to have it | the bill, and restore them as they now produced before the House would consent to a joint session, has been the trump card of the filibusters, and so far it has been well played.

After four hours of excitement Mr. Beebe, of New York, mounted a desk and deneunced the rulings of the BALTIMORE, March 2-12:30 A. M. At 9:30 last evening the resources of the filibusters were exhausted, and vote on the Vermont objection reached. The Republicans generally voted with the majority in order to bring the matter to an end, and the vote of Sollace was rejected by a vote of 205 to 26. At 11 o'clock the houses went into joint convention. GAZETTE.

[Special to Richmond Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, March 1.

By dint of strong efforts Senators ere prevented from signing objecions to Virginia and West Virginia. Every train to-day brought crowds unarmed citizens to witness the close of the count and of the inauguration of the next President. The hotels are alive with people, whose staple of conversation is the scenes of this evening, and the prospects of the determined few who resist the counting.

> A severe storm of wind and rain passed over this city yesterday, between 10 and 11 o'clock, the wind being almost as strong for a brief period as that of the great equinoctial storm of last year. The blow created great commotion on the river for awhile. The schooner John S. Lee, which had just a short time before arrived from Baltimore, being anchored in the stream opposite the foot of Ann street, parted her cables and started in a mad career up the river, running into two flats, sinking one, loaded with wood, and leaving the other in a precarious condition, colliding with the steamer Wave, at Messra. Williams & Murchison's lower wharf, knocking off about fifteen feet from her upper deck, breaking her own bowsprit, and knocking a hole in her side by coming in collision with the end of a flat, &c. -The antics of the vessel caused great excitement along the wharves.

A raft of wood get adrift during the pre valence of the squall, the wood getting loose and floating off in different directions, most of it being subsequently picked up by persons along the wharves.

The storm struck the steamer Caswell just as she was about landing at her wharf, near the foot of Princess street, and she was swept by the wind to the vicinity of Point Peter, before she was able successfully to breast the gale.

Harbor Master Bates was in his boot near the centre of the stream when the squall struck him, baving started to make his usual daily round among the harbor fleet. Finding it would be a rather perilous undertaking to effect a landing, he determined to try his luck in breasting it out on the "stormy deep." Those who know the Captain need not to be told that he is not easy to be swerved from his purpose. He battled manfully with wind and wave, while the driving rain beat upon him, and almost threatened to swamp his frail craft, rendering a frequent resort to bailing necessary. He was driven far out of his course, but finally, through great exertion, energy and perseverance, succeeded in reaching one of the had started to board, being drenched to the skin, the only article about his person which weathered the storm without getting damp

On shore the storm was equally severe but no damage resulted.

Didn't Like His Quarters. Alonzo Elvi alias Tom Johnson, colored in jail on two separate commitments for larceny, has been detected several times since his incarceration in trying to pave the way for his escape from prison. On one occasion he broke a tub to pieces, securing a piece of one of the iron hoops, with which he tried to remove the mortar from between the brick so as to make a hole in the wall - Eggs can now be had for $1 per | through which to escape. He was subsequently removed to another quarter of the jail, and if detected in another attempt to regain his liberty he will be placed in irons.

He is a powerful as well as a determined fellow, and will no doubt succeed in escaping if the least opportunity is offered. Thermometer Record. The following will show the state of the thermometer, at the stations mentioned, at 4.85 yesterday evening, Washington mean
