

THE JOURNAL.

The suspension of the Journal, the roprietor's announcement of which is printed elsewhere in this issue of the STAR, is another evidence that it is atterly impossible to do business successfully without a proper regard for the law of supply and demand. The Journal has not failed from want of capacity, earnest work or faithful attention on the part of the recent management; but it has failed simply because Wilmington will not support two morning papers.

The proprietor of the Journal has shown a degree of energy worthy the highest success; but no amount of capacity, capital and energy will make a newspaper succeed if the field it enters is already fully occupied.

lisaton Sunday Schools.

Through the agency of Rev. G. S. Jones, n charge of the Missionary Department of the American Sunday School Union in North Carolina, ninety-one schools have been organized and aided during the past twelve months. Over six hundred copies of bibles and testaments have been distributed among needy schools. Mr. Jones is now entering upon the tenth year of his labors in this noble Christian enterprise, and it is particularly gratifying to know that quite a number of evangelical churches have grown out of mission schools planted in localities hitherto destitute of gospel privileges.
