THE MORNING STAR.

WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14, 1877. VOL. XIX.—NO. 143. WHOLE NO. 2,996

THE PRESIDENT IGNORES THE OLD ADMINISTRATION RELIGIOUS SERVICES. Sunday the new President and his family initiated another reform by ignoring the old administration religious services under Dr. Newman, and bending their steps to the Foundry Methodist Church. Here it so happened that the preacher who made the sermon was the Rev. Dr. Duncan, ex-President of Randolph Macon College, Virginia, which college is under the control of the Methodist Church South, and Dr. Duncan was one of the commissioners who accomplished the reconciliation of the two branches of this church a few years ago.

Senator Cameron is reported as follows: The old gentleman gave his reasons to-night for this action as follows: I am seventy-eight years old, and have been in public life enough, and am tired. I have meditated this step for a year, and now do not resign in any spirit of anger toward the Administration. I shall give the President my cordial support. I hope he may succeed, but fear he will not, with his Southern policy. My son Don gave the President the assurance of his continued support three days ago.

While the Democratic nominations for Aldermen may not be acceptable to the entire party in the city, Democrats cannot afford to encourage any dissensions in their ranks. We must give the regular ticket our undivided support, or the city may again ultimately pass under the Republican yoke. Whatever prejudice may exist should be yielded up for the common good. Even a trifling division in our ranks now may result in utter ruin and defeat two years hence.

Falling barometer, northeast to southeast winds, warmer, cloudy and rainy weather, are the indications for this section to-day. Mr. Geo. W. Clyde, of New York, one of the firm of W. P. Clyde & Co., of the New York and Wilmington Steamship Line, is dead.

A very fine setter, belonging to Mr. Preston Outman, was bitten on the nose by a snake in the woods on the western side of the river yesterday. As soon as he could get him across the river Mr. C. forced a quantity of whiskey down the dog's throat, and at last accounts the poor beast was lying dead drunk on the pavement in front of the grain mill, presenting a fit subject for a temperance lecturer. It is hoped the remedy will prove effectual.

The most of the cases before the Mayor's Court, yesterday morning, were continued over for a future hearing. Two or three insignificant ones were disposed of. Frank Harrows, a somewhat notorious character, found drunk and asleep on the street, was sentenced to work for thirty days in the chain-gang.
