Southern Democrats here are provoked at this impotent conclusion of the boasted home-rule policy, which is simply an invitation to Paekard to secure the continuance of military support by inducing a breach of the peace.

Republican delegation from South Carolina, consisting of Senator Patterson, Collector Worthington of Charleston, Mayor Cunningham of Charleston, C. C. Bowen, Corbin, General Winnsmith, Colonel Lowe, and Colonel Waterman, had an interview of an hour's length with the President to-day.

The paper declares that the Republicans have a majority in South Carolina of over 31,000; that Chamberlain was elected by a large majority, and also Republican majorities in both branches of the Legislature.

A Panic in a Church at Shelby. [Charlotte Observer.] A correspondent gives the following particulars of a panic which occurred in Shelby: "We narrowly escaped a terrible catastrophe on last Sunday night at the Baptist Church in Shelby, on account of the giving away of the floor."

The Hillsboro Recorder gives some additional particulars of the death of Chas. W. Horner. It says: "He was found frozen to death, on Sunday morning, near Elbert's creek, a few miles from Durham. He had left Durham in the evening, during the snow, in an unfortunate condition, and, as may be supposed, he became helpless in the biting weather of Saturday night. He was about 30 years of age."

THE FIRE YESTERDAY MORNING—Narrow Escape, &c. Yesterday morning, shortly after 1 o'clock, the alarm of fire, which is getting to be a very familiar sound of late, was again heard on our streets, and was found to proceed from the residence of Mr. John Melton, a well known dealer in meats, sausages, &c., on Seventh, between Bladen and Harnett streets.

THE FIRE YESTERDAY MORNING—Narrow Escape, &c. (continued). The alarm was then given, but it was some time before the bells took it up, in consequence of which the fire department arrived too late to be of much service, with the exception of the Brooklyn engine, manned by colored firemen, which, being not far removed from the scene of the conflagration, was early on the ground.
