by Hampton's presence. All day he sought an audience at the White House, but it was not accorded until night, and then only to be told that the President had had a little confab with Hampton, and would have another to-day.

Hampton is the lion of the day. Public curiosity to see him attracted a crowd to Willard's that was always changing but never grew less.

Chamberlain has submitted to the President certain propositions which he says may, if accepted, form the basis of an easy solution of the dispute between him and Hampton.

The Cabinet has deferred Chamberlain's proposition to Secretaries Everts and Schurz, both of whom are understood to be inclined towards acknowledging Hampton's pretensions.

In fact, the South Carolina Democrats think only Thompson and Sherman are opposed to the immediate withdrawal of the troops from the State House at Columbia, they holding that the question who was elected Governor should first be decided.

In this column we endeavor to give daily a digest of the State news. To do this we have to condense freely, as we glean from fifteen to thirty columns. We give credit when we use the language of others. We copy the item entire with credit when it is adapted to our wants and purposes. We also reproduce in other parts of the paper such articles from our State contemporaries as appear to us of general interest. We think our fair-minded contemporaries will give the Star credit for constant industry in this department. At any rate, some paper has given a new impetus within the last six months to the diligent collating of State news.

The Colored Normal School. At a meeting of prominent colored people of this city, in compliance with the request of Gov. Vance, alluded to in our paper a day or two since, Eustace E. Green was called to the chair and F. C. Sadgway requested to act as Secretary. The Governor's letter relative to a conference of delegates from the principal centres of the colored population of the State, to meet the State Board of Education and take steps towards locating the State Normal School for training colored teachers, was read by Rev. D. J. Saunders.

The meeting thereupon selected Rev. D. J. Saunders and Rev. James Telfair to meet with the Board at Raleigh, on the 10th of this month.

A preamble and resolutions were offered by G. W. Price, Jr., reciting the fact that the colored people of North Carolina have never before been consulted directly as to their individual interests, and in connection with his general course since he has been installed as Governor of the State, they regard this as the dawning of a new era and an evidence that the colored people can confide their interests in the keeping of Gov. Vance with the assurance that he will prove a safe and worthy custodian of the same; also tendering thanks to the Governor and the Legislature for their action in the matter of a normal school for their race.

The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. The agent of this Institution, Rev. R. H. Griffith, of Charlotte, is in the city. The Seminary lost its endowment by the war, and it is now proposed to raise an endowment of two hundred thousand dollars. As this is the only Theological Seminary which the Southern Baptists have, it will doubtless be easily done. Only twenty-five thousand dollars is asked of North Carolina. The Seminary, at present located at Greenville, S. C., will be removed to Kentucky on the completion of the endowment, where it will be more centrally located, and have advantages not now possessed by it. The Faculty of the Seminary are among the most distinguished members of the Southern pulpit.

We learn from the agent that in several States the amount assigned them has been nearly raised.

Miss Manly is a daughter of the late Col. John H. Manly and granddaughter of the late Gov. Charles Manly. Mr. Hayward is a son of Mr. Ed. Graham Hayward, of Raleigh, and a grandson of the late Hon. Wm. H. Hayward, at one time U. S. Senator from this State, and both are grandchildren of Louis D. Henry, one of the most prominent lawyers of the State in his time. They have started out into the world with the view of following the profession for a livelihood, both having developed remarkable histrionic talent and ability in dramatic delineations, and in which they have already achieved an enviable reputation.

Correction. The word pounds instead of tons should have been used in the item in Friday's issue in reference to the amount of freight transported on the W. C. & A. R. R. during the month of February. In hurriedly writing out a paragraph from information conveyed in the manner in which this was a similar mistake would be liable to occur in the best regulated offices. We should have made this explanation in our last but for the fact that we were promised one from another quarter. We confess that it was rather a "hefty" mistake, and that the paragraph, taken altogether, was badly "bulled."

Cruelty to Animals. A dilapidated frame of what we suppose once in time aspired to the name of horse, but which appears to have long since lost all title and claim to be counted in the same category with that noble animal, with bones protruding from every part of the body and raw and festering sores sickening to the sight of the passerby, tottering stood in front of this office yesterday and feebly and tremblingly nibbled his handful of oats, which were thrown upon the ground adjacent to the cart to which he had been taken to work a poor beast in the condition that one was, and we call upon the agents here of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to take the matter in hand.
