VIELDED TO THE PRESIDENT'S POLICY. WASHINGTON, April 4.

Patterson, the carpet-bag Senator from South Carolina, has formally yielded to the force of the President's Southern policy of home-rule. Through his son and Senator Gordon he arranged an interview last night with Hampton. At the appointed time Patterson called at Hampton's rooms and had a pleasant chat with the Governor. He remarked that, though he had opposed Hampton's claims to the governorship, he felt it to be his duty, now that they had been virtually recognized by the President as valid, to forego all factions opposition, accept the situation, welfare of South Carolina. Gov. Hampton expressed his gratification at hearing such expi from Patterson, and assured him that as Governor he would administer the office for the good of the whole people, and without special reference to the advantage of political parties. BRISTOW'S FRIENDS COMING TO THE FRONT. The friends of Bristow, as the most conspicuous representatives of practical service reform, are coming to the front. To day the President appointed Armistead Swope to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the Seventh district of Kentucky. He is a pronounced Bristow, man, and takes hold by Wharton, a warm personal friend of Bristow, whom Grant removed shortly before the Cincinnati collar. The President is convinced there are serious frauds in the Customs and Internal Revenue Department, and proposed

Convention to make way for a politician who wore the administration

TO UPROOT THE SECRET SINS of those branches of the public service. Secretary Sherman has ordered that all pending suits for whiskey frauds be pressed to trial, and the agents of the Department to be on the alert. The fact that Assistant Secretary McCormick is to have charge of the reorganization of the Treasury Department is regarded by administration men as a further evidence of an earnest purpose to purify the by ways of civil service within. Secretary Sherman's control of the affairs of the Navy Department are undergoing thorough review, and employes thereabout mysteriously hint that things will be found crooked if the Secretary goes deep enough.

Couldn't Face his Fire-Arms. [Concord Sun.]

One day last week Burrage, Proctor & Co., the scentless whiskey and tobacco smellers, encountered a wagon of the cross-eve whiskey about two miles from town, and, riding up, asked the wagoner to stop, that they wanted to look at his whiskey. He stopped his wagon very willingly, crawled back into it, and re-appeared with a double-barrelled shot-gun and an old horse pistol. He handled the weapons as if they were playthings, and, taking his seat close to the wagon, told Burrage to "go in." Burrage looked scared, and began parleying with the man to lay away his shooting irons, but it was no go. The man told the whiskey smellers at the same time that he didn't haul anything but blockade whiskey, but neither Burrage nor any other revenue man could go into his wagon. The Revenuers, five in number, turned their backs on this illicit traveller, and went away without seizing his [Newbern Nut Shell.] In our State Penitentiary, at Raleigh, it is customary, when a new convict enters for the officers to learn what business he has always followed, in order to give him work to which he is accustomed, and thereby make him more profitable. By this means the punishment of shoemakers, wheelwrights, harness-makers and other classes of mechanics has proved a source of revenue to the State. Some time since a colored man was "sent up," and the usual question was put to him: "What business have you always followed?" he being told at

Concord Presbytery met last Wednesday, at Franklin Church, Rowan county, Rev. R. B. Boyd presiding Moderator. We learn that the meeting was both large and pleasant. In addition to the usual business transacted at such meetings, we learn from Rev. L. McKinnon several items of general interest, as follows: Rev. J. H. Thornwell and Dr. Beall were elected commissioners to the General Assembly, which will meet in New Orleans in May next. Rev. J. Rumple and C. R. White were elected alternates to the above named gentlemen. Mr. A. W. White, a member of Rocky River Church, was received candidate for the ministry. The next meeting of the Presbytery will be held at Mooresville, Iredell county, in September next.

-Concord Sun: A gentleman who passed through our town last Saturday, on ais way home from the Western counties, informs us that Dan Cannon, the colored boy who committed a rape upon a lady in Ashe county a short time since, was hanged by Judge "Lynch" last Friday, between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock P. - News: We are told that they had ever so much fun at Johnston Court Tuesday. They fought up and down over Smithfield, and neither gave nor asked for quarters. Mr. Z. J. These are what they call having "lively times" at Johnston Court.

- Charlotte Observer: One-fourth of the voters of Clear Creek, Long Creek and Deweese townships having petitioned the County Commissioners for an election to decide the question of selling spirituous liquors within their respective townships, the Commissioners have ordered the sheriff to hold the election on the 1st of May, being the time appointed for holding such elections. The tickets to be voted will be "prohibition" or "license."

- News: Interesting news of political intrigues comes to us from the West. It is stated that Maj. Marcus Erwin is making a desperate war upon Virgil S. Lusk, United States District Attorney for the Western District of North Carolina, and hat in this war he is backed up by nearly all the prominent Republican officials in that section of the State. It is said further, that ex-Judge George Washington Logan, of the Charlotte district, is waging war upon Robert M. Douglass for the United States Marshalship of the Western District.

- Concord Sun: Last Friday evenng, at the depot, a little colored child of Bob Coleman had a narrow escape from a horrible death. The freight train had been standing at the depot for sometime, while the freight was being unloaded, and after a few box cars were emptied the Conductor signaled the engineer to back the train. Just at this moment the child was seen playing on the track under the cars-another moment and the wheels would have passed over it, but Doc Chambers, realizing the situation at a glance, reached under the moving cars and snatched the child from his perilous position.

- In regard to the Lunatic Asylum bill, about the construction of which there was doubt, the Attorney General, in an opinion addressed to Gov. Vance, thus settles it: "I think, therefore, the present Board hold over, and the vacancies now existing therein, or which may occur, should be filled by Executive appointment until the time arrives for the Directors appointed under said act to take charge of the Asylum. If the act under consideration had provided that the nine Directors appointed thereunder shall hold their office from the first day of May next ensuing their appointment, the present Board would have held over until that time. And as it provides that 'their term of office shall begin on the first day of March next ensuing their appointment,' I take it that the present Board will have the right to hold over until that time—March 1, 1878."

He has sent several droves of cattle here during the present season, all of the best quality of beeves, six thousand eight hundred and twenty pounds gross, and he has another supply still to come. State vs. James Heaton, charged with misdemeanor in office. A plea in abatement was entered by the defence, questioning the legality of the Grand Jury that found the bill on the ground that several of the members of the same had not paid their taxes, as required by law to qualify them to serve as jurors. A demurrer was entered by the prosecution and argument was had, M. London, Esq., appearing for the defence, and Mr. Solicitor Moore, Mr. Adam Empie and Hon. D. L. Russell for the prosecution.

Our "Distinguished Visitors."

The parties styling themselves Arabs, who arrived here Thursday on the schooner Mary Stetson, from Navassa Island, mention of which was made in our last issue, spent a good portion of the forenoon yesterday in the office of the City Marshal, where they attracted much attention. They are of a very dark complexion, resembling Mexicans somewhat in this respect, and their features are of an exceedingly pe culiar cast, as compared with Americans or Europeans. Their language was also very peculiar, and it was evident that they were unable to speak a word of English. They are natives of Algeria, being known in their own country as "wood-choppers," Island of Trinidad, where they have been engaged in the mining business. Their religion is that of the Mahommedans, and and their names and ages, respectively, are as follows: Abid Salim, 33 Said Panallie, 45; Hemmit Beneia, 55; Rabbi Abdelman, 26: Bomadie Baloskred, 26: Mohamet Benaditti, 55; Massarout Bermabe, 28. They are accompanied by a native colored youth of Trinidad, about 15 years of age, named Isaac Adolphus, who speaks both French and English. They are now endeavoring to get to their homes on the far off Mediterranean. Mayor Canaday provided for their accommodation at the City Hall until to-day. What the dusky Algerien strangers will do with themselves afterwards this deponent knoweth not. They are not provided with a superfluous quantity of baggage.

Look Out for Him. He arrived in town by the river early yesterday morning, sold his raft and about noon obtained the proceeds, out of which he set aside ten dollars. The balance he carefully rolled up, and, walking into one or our large commission houses, enquired for the "Cashare." On being directed to that functionary's desk, he counted out one hundred dollars and asked if he would take care of that for him, as he had come to town to get on a "glorious drunk," but didn't care to spend all his money, which he was afraid he would do if he kept it. The cashier took the money and our friend struck a bee line for the nearest bar. About an hour afterwards he was "gloriously drunk," and, as he followed the balloon man around the streets, stopping occasionally to take just one more "wee drap 'o the crater," he appeared to be serenely happy. It may be that he finally reposed in the "arms of Morpheus;" but it is more likely that he first fell into those of a policeman and passed the night in the Burgiary and Attempted Robbery. Yesterday morning, about 41 o'clock, Mr. B. F. Turlington, one of the carriers of the STAR, stopped at the residence on the corner of Third and Nun streets to deliver a paper, when he discovered that the front door was wide open, while it was evident that no one was up and stirring about the house. He therenpon aroused the family, when it was found that nearly every door in the house had been opened, though upon careful examination nothing was discovered missing. There is no doubt that burglars had been in the house, and they were probably frightened off by the approach of the carrier with his MORNING STAR. Thus is demonstrated an additional incentive for subscribing. We can crowd in a few more responsible names on our Dancing Soiree. The Soiree given by Mr. F. M. Agostini's seven of which, as a sample, aggregated dancing school, last evening, was in all respects a very pleasant affair, the pupils of the institution reflecting much credit upon their instructor.

There was a very large attendance of spectators, who frequently testified their approbation of the execution of the various difficult fancy dances by the chilnren. The "Little Folks' Quadrille" was a very attractive feature of the evening's entertainment, especially when the tender age of the performers is taken into consideration.

OPERA HOUSE.

Miss Manly and Mr. Haywood.

Notwithstanding the dampening effects of a small audience, the performance last night was in every respect fully equal to that of the night before, and we were glad to note this, as it shows that they have already learned one of the severest lessons of the profession. They leave this morning for Charlotte, carrying with them the best wishes of their many friends here for their future success.

A Slippery Customer.

A colored individual entered the store of Mr. Edward Suden, on Mulberry, between McRae and Ninth streets, on Wednesday night, between 8 and 9 o'clock, and called for various articles, including meat, flour, soap, &c. The articles were weighed and placed upon the counter as called for, and finally, to wind up his purchases for the evening, the customer "allowed" that he would have another bar of that soap, "being as how" it was so good. It appears that Mr. Suden had to go some distance in the back part of the store to get the soap, and, as soon as his back was turned, Mr. Darkey glided from the store so noise lessly that Mr. S. only heard his departing footsteps as he cleared the door, and of course was unable to overtake him. He carried off the meat, but fortunately, in his hurry, the other articles were left behind. Mr. S. did not recognize the man, although he has had the same trick played upon him once or twice before, and, he thinks, by the same individual.

Rise on Freights. As the result of the recent meeting of the freight agents of many of the Southern railroad and steamship lines, the cutting of rates on freights has ceased for the time being, and the rates have been raised considerably, it being claimed by the railroads that nothing less than the newly established rates will pay them. The Charlotte Observer, referring to this matter, says: There seems to be, however, a disposition on the part of competing lines to come to some compromise on the matter of rates, the miserably low prices which have been charged during the past six months." The Observer says rates have been increased from 40 cents on first-class goods from New York, Philadelphia and Boston, and 65 cents from Baltimore, to $1.15 from each of these points to Charlotte, the rate on the other classes having made a corresponding Magistrates' Court. Tamer Jones, colored, was arraigned before Justice Gardner, yesterday, charged with assault and battery on the person of Christine J. Williams, also colored. The evidence developed the fact that a difficulty occurred between the plaintiff and defendant in the yard of the latter, during which defendant unlossed a viscious dog and set him upon the plaintiff, the animal biting and wounding her in several places. Defendant was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $25 and the costs. Appealed to the Criminal Court and was required to enter into the necessary bond for her ap-
