The Grain Market. [Baltimore Sun, May 10.]

There was a marked lessening of the excitement in the grain speculation yesterday, and unless the political affairs of Europe should take some sudden turn it is probable that the trade will soon return to its regular channels and accustomed proportions. Western corn for June delivery sold before 'Change at 66 cents on a scare caused by advices of a decline at Liverpool, but recovered on Change to 68 cents, and in the afternoon rose to 681 cents. Corn for immediate delivery (usually designated as spot corn) and for May delivery closed at 69 cents. The markets at New York and Chicago exhibited no special features, and both closed firmer.

> New Orleans Rejoteing. NEW ORLEANS, May 10.

There was a magnificent parade today in celebration of the success of the Nicholls Government. The Washington Artillery, the Continentals, and Irish Rifles, local military organizations and regiment, and a battery from Mobile, the 13th United States Infantry, under command of General DeTobriand, and the sailors and marines of the steamer Plymonth, took part in the procession.

The Federal soldiers and sailors headed the column. Business was suspended, and the Postoffice and Custom House were closed.

Trade.

NEW YORK, May 10. The Journal of Commerce pre sents to day its usual monthly table of the foreign commerce of the city, which shows that the total receipts for April show a large increase in the figures for the same month last year, although much less than the average for previous years as far back as 1873. The editor adds: "One of the most favorable features of this return is the fact that the increase is all in goods entered directly for consumption' This gain in capital carries the total for four months, since January. about $4,000,000 above the corresponding total for last year."

The Whiskey King Rampant.

NEW YORK, May 10. The Post's Washington special says that the members of the late whiskey ring are becoming very desperate in consequence of the refusal of the government to accept their offers to compromise the suits pending against them. This is shown by the fact that they are around circulating stories against the integrity of Secretary Sherman, charging among other things that he is interested in certain distilleries in Cincinnati.

Having been defeated on all sides. the members of the ring are now very reckless and are cursing the administration for refusing to release them from further prosecution. The President has refused, in a most positive manner, to interfere with these cases, except so far as to instruct the law officers to see that suits are pressed.

Two Southern Journalists-Repre sentative Men of the Past. [Louisville Courier-Journal.]

The death of John Forsythe and Parson Brownlow removes from the scene concurrently the last living illustrations of the school of partisan journalism which flourished in the South before the war. Of that school Mr. Prentice was unquestionably the head; but it embraced a number of able, if not brilliant, persons, of whom no two were more conspicuous than the editors of the Mobile Register and the Knoxville Whig. Yet, as we have said, no men were less alike. The East Tennesseean was bellicose, frugal, and thrifty. The Alabamian was a polemic, but he fought his bat-an unblemished private character. Each died comparatively poor—the fate of the Southern journalist of the last generation. They were marked men in their different ways, not far in years, and living beyond their time. They contributed much to the controversial literature of the sectional period, and they pass away as the controversies which brought them to notice pass away. Though working in a circle, and in a very narrow circle, they made themselves known over the country at large.

Russia Raising the Wind.

LONDON, May 10. The Times, in its financial article ays: "Various particulars are circulated in the city as to the advance which the Russian Government obwith a view to ensure punctual payment of the coupons on the Russian debt now falling due. Some accounts place the advance at $2,000,000, and say that the bankers retain the right to double it. The more probable presumption, however, is that the advance is $1,500,000 at 8 per centum, and one-half per centum commission, and as security hold Russian bonds of the 1875 loan, and at 5 per centum of their nominal value.

Speaking of the late atrocious murder in Duplin, spoken of by the STAR a few days ago, the Magnolia Record says: "Alexander McCullough, a negro man, living at Hallsville, in this county, was found buried beneath a compost heap in the field of David E. Sandlin, of that place, on the 3d inst. His remains were found about two feet be neath the surface of the earth, under the manure heap. A new rope was around his neck, and one side of his face and head broken in. The coroner held an inquest and the jury returned a verdict that the de. ceased was murdered by David E. Sandlin. Faison Sandlin and Levi Parker."

Great excitement was created by the mys terious disappearance of the murdered man and the subsequent finding of his body The Sandlins and Parker, the former of whom had been previously much esteemed in the community, have fled. Parker is colored man. The difficulty which culminated in the death of McCullough grew ou of alleged improper relations with the murdered man's wife on the part of David E Sandlin. The Sandlins are both young men

A Cow(ardly) Assault upon a Vegetable Garden. Mr. D. E. Bunting, residing on Third. between Chesnut and Mulberry streets, had one of the finest gardens in the city, having devoted much of his own attention to its proper cultivation, and had the satisfaction of seeing it arrive at that condition of forwardness when he could safely count upon realizing remunerative returns for all his labor and care, when, on Thursday night, one of the half-starved cows, which are allowed to roam at large on the streets. by some means succeeded in getting into his lot, and yesterday morning he had the mortification of beholding about three hundred fine cabbages beheaded, his other vegetables eaten, trampled down and destroved, and all his bright visious of successful gardening vanished and gone. cannot be wondered at, under the circumstances, that Dave indulged in a few "cuss words" which he thought apt and proper to the occasion.

At a meeting of the Produce Exchange, held yesterday, it was resolved that a committee of six, of which the President shall be chairman, be appointed to receive the visiting merchants and others from Cincinnati, Louisville and other Western cities, expected here on the 16th inst., and that members of other trade organizations be invited to co-operate with said committee in offering such civilities and courtesies to our visitors as the occasion would seem to re-

We learn that about one hundred and twenty-five are expected to arrive here. A special to the Richmond Enquirer from White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, of May 10th, after speaking of the delegation meeting the excursionists at that point to escort them to Richmond, says they number one hundred and thirteen, and form as fine a looking party as ever visited Virginia. They are, in every sense of the word, representatives of the great business interests of the West, and embrace delegations from Cincinnati, Louisville, Peoria, Indianapolis, Owensboro, Maysville, Ironton, Portsmouth, Ashland, Covington and other points.

Gone and Left us.

Well, the Arabs have, at last, taken their departure. Through the efforts of W. K. Price and Robert McKenzie, alluded to a few days since as having taken the matter in hand of securing a necessary amount to take them to New York, the money was finally raised, their passage paid on the steamship Benefactor, and yesterday they left for their new destination, from whence, it is hoped, they will ultimately succeed in making their way to their homes in Algeria. The amount raised was $43.75; of which $23.75 was contributed by citizens, $15 by the city, and $5 by the county, being sufficient to allow each of the Arabs something over one dollar to buy provisions for the voyage. A colored female benevolent organization contributed $2.50 of the amount, and the police contributed liberally of their means.

More Feats of Marksmanship.

Mr. A. Giles, of Giles' Mills, Sampson county, having noticed the specimens of marksmanship which have appeared in the STAR, thinks he can go one better, especially on snakes, as he says he can prove by the best of witnesses that he killed nineteen of the "varmints" at one shot.

Mr. Duraft Rhodes, of Onslow county, who was in this city yesterday, says that in 1875 he killed three deer at one discharge of an ordinary shot-gun. They were approaching him in a narrow hog path and he shot at the foremost one, the other two being entirely hidden from his view. In three successive drives after this he killed six deer, or two at each shot, and during the year the amount of venison slaughtered by him footed up seventeen hundred
