Morning Star. By WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.:

THURSDAY MORNING, May 17, 1877

KEY'S REMARKABLE LETTER. The letter written by Judge Key, the Postmaster General, to his brother, is a most extraordinary performance. He should at once issue a work from the press to be entitled "The Model Political Letter Writer." Secretary Thompson should not be allowed to remain the solitary author in the Cabinet. Mr. Key's let ter is receiving a good deal of attention at the hands of editors, as was to have been expected. How far it reflects the purposes and views of the President we cannot determine. There are some things in the letter that it were better if never written; notably, the portion that contains a very improper and, we must think, unfortunate threat. We regret that the President's Southern policy has not met with more general approval than it has, and that the people of every section and party are not as thoroughly satisfied with it as are the people of Louisiana and South Carolina. We regret that he is opposed in his conciliatory course by the extremists of any section; that, as Judge Key says, he "has arrayed against him Blaine, Wade, Wendell Phillips, the carpet-baggers and other bloodyshirt Republicans." But we cannot agree to the persuasions of the Postmaster General that it is the duty of the Democrats in Congress not to elect Mr. Randall as Speaker, but to elect a Republican, for such we take | bull-dozing and dragonading days, to be Mr. Key's meaning.

sustain the President's Southern policy, as Mr. Key desires, and thereby give no countenance to Blaine and other extremists in their war upon Mr. Hayes for what he has done in the interests of good government and for the protection of the Southern people. They are compelled to such a course unless they are opposed to his just and humane policy. But to do that does not require the abandoning of Democratic principles and organization, or the entering into fellowship and identification with the Republican party.

The South will not make any such concession, or be party to any such sacrifice. The thoughtful, conservative, peace-loving portions of the South will stand by the President in what he has done in South Carolina and Louisiana. They will uphold his hands in the faithful execution of the laws, in the maintenance of peace, in the carrying out of genuine civil service reform, in all efforts to retrench, and economize, and to elevate and purify the government. This much, we believe, he can safely count on. But they will not agree for one moment to surrendering or abandoning their own organization. They act from principle. They know how wide the gulf that separates the ment with the opposition. It is equivin their past history and policy-in their tenets and principles.

The President and his friends wholly misunderstand the temper and purposes of the Southern people if they suppose that the Democrats have the slightest intention of either abandoning their organization, or their purpose to contest vigorously and pertinaciously for the Presidency in 1880. The people of the South have good reason to thank Mr. Hayes for the treatment they have received since his elevation to the high office he holds, and they would be guilty of gross ingratitude if they were to turn against him when pressed by unscrupulous and bitter enemies in his own party, and allow him to be destroyed because of his Southern policy, which has already brought so much peace and satisfaction to the country, and especially to two Southern States. They will not do this, nor will they enter into an alliance, offensive and defensive, with the Hayes wing of the Republican party.

Judge Key's threat, to which we alluded in the beginning, is contained in these words: "If they oppose the Administration, elect a Northern Democrat, such as Randall or Sayler, to the Speakership, and ally to fight the Administration, he will be compelled to use his official patronage in such a way as to give him strength in his own party; whereas, should Southern Democrats wisely extend him a support, he will be able to deal his patronage to them liberally and revolutionize the system of Federal patronage which has existed in the South since the war. Southern Democrats now have the power to redeem the South, if they see proper to use it. The President is firm and determined in his Southern policy, if the South will give him the support necessary to carry it In this language, Judge Key says in effect, that if the Democrats do not form a coalition with the Republican party-do not abandon their life-long principles-do not by some magical art, some political hocus-pocus, transform themselves into Republicansdo not slough their old Democratic skins and come out shining and radiant in the lovely and unspotted (?) cuticle of Republicanism-then what? Why, that the President will change his policy to suit the demands of Southern enemies, and bestow his pap and patronage upon the fanatical, fierce, unprincipled incendiaries-the Blaines, the Butlers, the Wades, the Wendell Phillipses, and others of the same kidney, including the carpetbaggers. And all this is to be done that the President may fuse into one mighty mass the discordant elements, and make himself a party.

We do not believe Judge Key epeaks by authority. We think that in all this he but betrays his own ignorance of true statesmanship and of political sagacity. It is really very ridiculous, viewed from any stand-point. The Postmaster General expects a political millenium; and by the wonderful power of patronage to cause a whole party to sell out, bag and baggage, and starting for the enemie's camp to sing in gladness, "And now we are going home at last;" which was the refreshing song that delighted some of our natives in the years immediately succeeding the war.

If the Democrats will ground arms, roll up the old flag, tear down their platform, wipe out all traces of principles, and accept office as a reward for so doing, it will be all very well ; but if not, then Mr. Hayes will give up his peace policy, return to the old and abandon the South to its fate. Can the President mean There is no good reason why every this? We are unwilling to be-Democrat in Congress should not lieve it. It is Mr. Key's own twaddle. Mr. Key's plan is reform with a vengeance. He talks about the President being willing to "deal his patronage to the Southern Democrats liberally, and revolutionize the system of federal patronage which has existed in the South since the war." Surely, Mr. Key has a poor opinion of the Southern people. Does he really believe that office can buy up the people of the South, and bind them captive to the Republican chariot wheels? Does he really think for a moment that the distribution of official patronage throughout the South can cause our true people to abandon their political principles which they have cherished always, and adopt such a "reform movement" as he promises? The very idea is insulting. The proposition is a disgrace to the Administration if it emanates from it. It is fairly feculent with corruption, and smells of the

Surely, Mr. Key did not weigh his own words-did not see how utterly damaging they are to the President, if he has any right to speak for him. It is simply a shameful proposition to barter the offices of the govern-Democratic and Republican parties | alent to saying that the patronage of | quarrel just."

the President is up to the highest bidder. Mr. Hayes, if we are not very much mistaken, will repudiate

Whatever may come, the miquities of Grant can never be repeated. The policy adopted by Mr. Hayes has already begun to bring forth its legitimate fruit. Peace and content prevail in the South, and any subse quent failure of the President cannot saddle any responsibility upon our people. The South can never be held responsible for the fanaticism, tolly, and wickedness of Blaine and his incendiary set.

The South will stand by the President's Southern policy as developed, but it will not sell out for office, nor abandon the contest for the Presidency at the next election.

The New York Herald is nothing f not sensational. It has discovered an old fashioned "mare's nest" in North Carolina, and proclaims to the world that there is a split in the Democratic party here, and there must be new combinations. We think we can speak for the Cape Fear section. As far as we know or ean hear there is not one Democrat who is in favor of disintegrating his party, making new combinations, or selling out to the President or the Republicans. We do not believe there are twenty men in the State of in telligence who would favor any such project, and those who would probably are either disappointed poli ticians or overweeningly ambitious, and who would take office under Grant to-morrow if he were still the "Man on horseback." The Herald can find none of its recalcitrants in this section.

The STAR is the friend of good government, honest government, just government. It is the friend of the Southern people, and of South Carolina and Louisiana. It has sustained It was so marked. the President in his kindly course towards those States. It has advocated at the same time the preservation of the organization of the Democratic party. It is honest and consistent in both positions. The STAR does not wish to be classed with a radical paper in any sense. It proposes to be just, courteous, frank in its utterances, true to principle and moderate and conciliatory. It wishes to avoid extremes, in which there is neither statesmanship nor wisdom.

Now is an excellent time to cut down the army. Money is scarce, breadstuffs are high, patriotism is cheap, humbuggery abounds, so why not "rejuce, rejuce" the army. The Secretary of War has ordered 2,500 enlisted men of the army to be discharged between this and July 1, on account of the postponement of the extra session. Now, if the Secretary will only discharge 5,000 every month thereafter, until Congress meets, the army will then be about 8,000 strong, which is more than enough. Carry on the good work, Mr. Secretrry. This is the era of reform and of promises.

We are slightly sceptical about that "chill" Grant had at Philadelphia The Inquirer had him wrapped in blankets and taking quinine, whilst his former faithful organ, the North American, had him at the same hour in the Transcontinental Hotel, smoking his everlasting eigar, attentively gazed at by a large crowd of the curious, and evidently satisfied with himself. It adds this bit of

"After getting into the hotel the General very coolly drew a cigar from his pocket and lighted it, and then passed to a room in the rear, and for a half-hour was gazed at; but he smoked on unconcernedly, standing in the meanwhile under a huge sign containing the words, 'To the Bar.' It was evident he was lost." It is very evident from Attorney General Key's impredent letter that the safety of the country rests in the firm and unbroken front the Democrats present. The ranks must be kept solid, the organization must be preserved intact. Let the Republicans at the North feel strong enough to venture upon a bull-dozing course, and, in 1880, we will have repeated, if it be allowed, the rascalities of 1876. The safety of the country, of free institutions, of pure government lies in the fidelity of the Democrats to principle, and in their unselfish devotion to patriotism.

Report comes to Washington that Ohio Republicans will not pass a resolution indersing the President's Southern policy when the State Convention meets. So it seems conciliation does not suit the Ohioans. The upholding of the Constitution does not please extremists anywhere. Hayes is having a hard time of it. "Thrice is he armed who hath his

The Savannah News says:

"But if Maj. Reno, who, if the testimony in his favor is reliable, was as much sinned against as sinning, deserves suspension from rank for two years, Beast Butler deserves suspension by the neck for an indefinite time."

The press is much divided in its views concerning the scandal. Reno deserved punishment, but the U.S. Government should not allow fast women like Mrs. Bell to stay about garrisons to allure men into courts-

It strikes us it is time the President were relieving the decent people of the District of Columbia of their defamer, Fred Douglass, the Marshal. He has shown himself unworthy of the confidence of the President or the respect of the maligned people of the District. Let him step down and out. He should not be kept in office to insult the people with the epithets of "thieves," "poor white trash," &c., which he hurls at them so glibly.

That word now so much in use is very perplexing. We see it every day written Mahometan, Mahommedan, Mahomedan, Mohammedan, and possibly other ways. A recent remarkable article in the British Quarterly Review on "Islam" says the only correct spelling is that last given -Mohammedan.

Because a paper sustains the Pres dent when he does right, and every paper should do this, it is no evidence that the paper has abandoned any principle it advocated, if it has been advocating the right.

Some papers cannot see how you can do justice to a political opponent and be true to yourself, whereas we cannot see how you can be true to yourself and not be just to a political

At the beginning of the next fiscal year -on the 1st of July -the Department of Justice will again be in funds to provide for the expenses of the Court, but as the lustices of the Supreme Court abstain from official labor in the summer, this will have no effect to remedy the excessive inconvenience caused by the want of funds at this time. - Washington telegram.

The Louisiana Militia. The New Orleans Democrat publishes a full roster of the officers and men who constitute the militia of that State, "who, day and night, during the eventful period of the one hundred and twenty days which intervened the 9th of January and the final recognition of the legitimate government of the State, stood guard over the court-rooms and other public places, ready, at the tap of the bell or the blast of a trumpet, to grasp their rifles and shotguns and stake their lives in the defense of constitutional government in Louisi-

- It is lawful to learn from an enemy. Politically the South is powerful in her solidarity. Industrially she will be-come unrivalled and wealthy by diversification. Never was there a time when this principle should be more urgently put into practice, and we trust that "cotton mad" will not be written against us, on the wrong side of the balance sheet, next year. - Augnsta Chronicle and Constitutionalist. - There was no warmth or enthusiasm in the reception given to Mr. Hayes in Philadelphia. The personality of Mr. Hayes is not dear to the American people, and his political career is not such as to rally any party to his support. The reception was icy. We hold this to be a very happy state of affairs for the country. Mr. Hayes cannot carry through any measure upon his personal popularity or influence. Every measure of his administration must tand upon its own merits. - Ballo. Gazette.

Breech - Loading Guns

We have for many years, with great success, made a specialty of building Fine Breech-Loading Guns to the special instructions of individual sportsmen Making for a large and select trade enables us to give greater care and attention to the fitting, shooting and general finish of our Guns than can be given to those Guns bought by the retail trade from manufacturers who produce for a general market. We solicit the patronage of those sportsmen who are judges of Fine Gans and who know the importance of having their Guns made to fit them.

We are prepared to accept orders to build Guns

We are prepared to accept orders to build Guns of any weight, gauge, proportion or style.
