[Special to Richmond Dispatch.] The Politicians Puzzled. WASHINGTON, May 26.

The Morton letter puzzles the poli ticians. Some of them interpret it as a sort of warning to Mr. Hayes to "let up" on his Southern policy, and they prophesy that he will "let up' before the summer is over. Others understand it as an endorsement of the policy as the best thing that could be done under the circumstances, and that he seeks to encourage Republicans to hold together. whatever minor differences of opinion may exist between them and the President. Southern men are not sorry that Morton has shown his hand so soon, for they say our people will now know that the gloved hand extended to them by the Administration is not what it seems. The false hoods he utters in relation to the Southern people will tend to revive bitter feelings against the Republican party and consolidate the Democracy.

NORTH CAROLINIANS IN WASHINGTON. Col. J. N. Staples and ex-Congressman Leach, both of North Carolina, have been in this city a week or ten days looking after the interests of certain clients-tobacco manufacturers, who have gotten into trouble with the Government. These gentlemen complain that they are wrongfully represented in a Northern newspaper as heading a movement for the organization of a new political party in North Carolina. They say they did call on the President recently, but it was only to pay their respects. They approve of the President's course towards the South, but do not advise nor desire to lead a movement for a new party organization.

What Gen, Leach Said to Hayes.

WASHINGTON, May 27. Mr. Leach has no idea of leaving the Democratic party. He told the President that he approved his Southern policy, but expected to oppose him on other issues. These gentlemen say there is no division or break in the Democratic party in North Carolina.

What MacMahon Says.

He had gone to DeKalb as soon as he heard of the riot, but when he arrived the rioters had dispersed, and nothing was left for him to do except to go and see Judge Hanom and ask the judicial officers to take steps to bring them to trial. The Governor thought it exceedingly doubtful if a jury in Kemper county would convict the rioters, all of whom were well known and reside there.

A Wedding that Didn't Come Off. [Raleigh Observer.]

Time-Wednesday, 23d inst.; place -Goldsboro. But in this as in many other cases, there was a "slip between the cup and the lip."

It seems that one John G. Godfrey wooed and won the hand and heart of young maiden, sixteen years of age, of the above named town. The engagement lasted for some time, and ast Wednesday night was the time when two hearts were to beat as one. The family with whom the young lady resided prepared a handsome supper, the friends of the bride had arrived to witness the ceremony, the minister was on hand, the bride had adorned herself with her wedding garments, "all things were ready" for the consummation of the nuptials, except the bridegroom, he didn't come worth a cent; an hour passes, the excitement is intense; the spell is broken; the announcement, the bridegroom cometh, brings the expectant crowd to the front, but the Lothair hath not on his wedding duds, which increases the excitement; he seeks the bride, and with tears in his eyes, informed her that he is a married man already, and cannot marry her; he had not lived with her for seven years and was under the impression that that length of time constituted a divorce, but on consulting a lawyer was informed that it did not. The indignant young lady took off the engagement ring which he had given her, threw it in his face, told him to git, and, seizing a broomstick, by a few well directed blows caused the scamp

Underground Discoveries on Middle

Sound. We learn that A. R. Black, Esq., has recently made some rather remarkable discoveries at his place on Middle Sound. Just east of his residence there is what was once an old field, but which, perhaps, has not been under cultivation for the last century or two. Some of his men had been digging in this field, when a few human bones were unearthed. This fact aroused Mr. Black's curiosity and caused him to prosecute his investigations, which finally resulted in his discovering two trenches about one hundred and fifty or two hundred yards apart, literally filled with human bones, their position and appearance suggesting the idea that a battle had once been fought there and that these trenches contained the dead which had fallen on both sides. As there is no mention in history of any battle ever having been fought in that locality, it is difficult to come to any satisfactory conclusion in regard to the matter, and in fact the bones, though undoubtedly human, do not present the appearance of having belonged to the Anglo-Saxon race. The fact of the remains being found mingled together within such narrow confines forbids the supposition that they are the contents of any ordinary grave-yard. In this connection we would mention the fact, which has come to our knowledge through one of the old settlers in that neighborhood, that many years ago the skeletons of a man and horse, apparently just as they had fallen upon the field, were dug up in this same locality.

Keeping Her Hand In. The "irrepressible" Annie J. Speight, after several weeks of rest and silence in the county jail, has come to the surface again, and evinced her determination to keep up her notoriety even in defiance of prison bars. Her husband got a special permit from Sheriff Manning, yesterday, to have a few minutes conversation with Annie, in relation to their children, through the iron grating of the door at the entrance to the prison. They had concluded their interview, and the husband was about to retire, when Annie asked him to lend her fifty cents. He took out his pocket book, with the view of letting her have the amount, when the "irrepressible," watching her opportunity, slipped one of her hands suddenly between the bars and snatched the entire sum her husband had in his hand. amounting, he says, to about forty dollars. He could not get to her and consequently had to content himself with making complaint to the Sheriff, who informed him that the case could not be made one of larceny as the woman was his wife. If search should now be made for the money there would likely be much difficulty in discover-is fertile in inventions and resources to meet all such emergencies. The Meat Robbery. We find that there was a slight error in our statement of the evidence of Officer Sterling in the case of Edward Joyner, as published in our last. Sterling says it was Tom King, the watchman, who approached him the morning after the robbery, and, after inquiring where Joyner lived, remarked to him (Sterling) that if he could get word to Joyner that if he would swear he got the meat from a colored man he (King) bad left in his place as watchman while he was gone to a meeting on Friday night, it would be all right. Sterling immediately reported this conversation to Merrick, the butcher, who had lost the meat, which led to King's arrest for complicity in the robbery.

Committed for Trial. He brought forward no defence and was ordered to give a justified bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance at the Criminal Court next week, in default of which he was committed to jail.

Moonlight Excursion.

The steamer North State took a party of ladies and gentlemen down the river last evening, starting about a quarter to 6 o'clock, with the view of giving them an excursion by moonlight. The Cornet Con. cert Club was along to furnish the music for the occasion. It was doubtless a delightful trip.

The Crime of Perjury. Nathan Davis, colored, was before Jus tice Gardner, yesterday, on the charge of perjury, a crime that is becoming much too frequent here of late in our magistrates' courts. It seems that one Peter Pickett was arraigned before Justice Gardner some months since for appropriating an ox that had been placed in the possession of Nathan Davis by Mr. John C. Borneman. Davis was put on the stand, and swore that he had seen nothing of the ox from the Friday night previous up to the day of the trial or preliminary examination, which was on Tuesday, the animal having disappeared in the meantime. Subsequently, when the matter was brought to the attention of the grand jury, he stated that he had himself placed the ox in Pickett's possession. Defendant was ordered to give bond in the sum of $200, justified, for his appearance at the Criminal Court.

The Private Watchman Takes Berth with the Policeman. The case of Tom King, the private watchman at the market house, implicated in the robbery of meat from Samuel Merrick, the colored butcher, alluded to in our last, came up before Justice Gardner yesterday and he was ordered to give a justified bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court, in default of which he was remanded to fail. King was tried at a late term of the Superior Court on the charge of stealing corn from Mr. Nobles, near this city, but was acquitted, though an alleged confederate in the transaction was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary.

The Whiting Rifles. The absence of the Whiting Rifles from participation in the anniversary celebration on the 21st was generally regretted. and as it was then understood that their not being uniformed was due to the want of the necessary funds to fully uniform and equip the members, it has been suggested that the ladies of Wilmington follow the example of those in Newbern, Tarboro and other places, who, by festivals, sociables, and other like entertainments, have succeeded in raising the amount requisite for the complete equipment of their citizen

The yacht Annie Brewer, belonging to Mr. Robert Taylor, while out sailing on the Cane Fear yesterday afternoon, and when about opposite Mr. C. W. She put in ashore and was subsequently towed to Messrs. Cassidey & Ross' shipyard, where the damage will be repaired.

Mayor's Court. This Court was in session yesterday for the first time in several days. The cases, however, were of minor importance, consisting of five "disorderlys" and one "drunk," all of which were appropriately disposed of. Evening Edition.

The running of the trains on the Carolina Central Railway will be so changed next week that we shall be compelled to give an evening edition for the accommo dation of our subscribers on the line of that road and at Fayetteville. The present day train is to be run only three times per week, and will carry no regular mail, while the evening train will carry the mail, and will leave here every day, except Sunday at 6 P. M. TO ALL, PARTICULARLY INVALIDS, spring s a trying season. Indications of sickness should at once be attended to. Fatal diseases muy be caused by allowing the bowels to become constipated and the system to remain in a disordered condition, until the disorder has time to develop itself. An ounce of prevention is werth a pound of cure, is an old and truthful saying. Therefore, we advise all who are troubled with the complaints now very prevalent-headache, indigestion, disordered liver, want of appetite, nauses, or feverish skin, to take, without delay, Schenck's Mandrake, Pills. We know of no remedy so harmless and decisive in its action It at once strikes at the root of the disease and produces a healthy tone to the system. People never need suffer from any disease arising from a disordered condition of the liver if they would take this excellent medicine when they feel the first indications of the malady. Families leaving home for the summer months should take three or four boxes of these pills with them. They have an almost instantaneous effect. They will relieve the patient of headache in one or two hours, and will rapidly cleanse the liver of surrounding bile, and will effectually prevent a billions attack. They are sold by all druggists.
