The South Under Surveillance.

WASHINGTON, May 27. The pious Radical politicians of the North are just now exercising a very strict surveillance over the condition of society in the South. The most hideous crimes may be committed in the North, and the only comment is upon the depravity of the individuals who commit them. But a crime of whatever degree committed in the South is immediately pointed to as an evidence of the character of the whole people of that section, their hatred of the Union and their incapacity for self-government.

The murder of one man in Mississippi is made the pretext for a demand that the Federal government shall interfere. So much outcry has been raised over this matter that it is said Mr. Evarts will, in the name of the President, write a protest to the Governor of Mississippi because he has not brought the murderers to justice. No decent man will attempt to excuse the murder of Chisolm, desperate character though he was. But the murder of Chisolm was innocence vernor of Illinois has taken no steps in the matter, and there is no talk of remind him of his duty.

A BUTLER COLONY IN COLORADO. Gen. Benjamin Butler is about to buy a large tract of grazing lands in Colorado, comprising some 70,000 acres. He is going to put his worthy son-in-law, Aimes, on it, and also proposes to take out and settle on it whites from New England and blacks from the South. The next thing he will be running Aimes for Governor of Colorado and himself for the Senate.

SENATOR SPENCER IN THE BLACK HILLS.

Senator Spencer, of Alabama, is also looking out for a home in the West, as he realizes that the good days of the carpet-baggers are over. He is now in the Black Hills country, and his friends say he intends to settle there.

He says the only persons dissatisfied with it in Ohio are the Democrats and Republicans who have failed to get appointments they desired.

Morton's Letter-What the Press Says

N. Y. Herald, Ind. | He thinks it prudent, and perhaps secessary as well, to raise, so early as this, the warning cry of a "solid South" and of "Southern domination." His fierce and almost ferocious denunciation of the Southern whites, and his dolorous and, we must add, absurd prophecies that unless there is a "solid North" the Southern leaders will come day repeal the Constitutheir slaves, and pay the rebel war debt, are really a confession that Mr. Morton sees his own party going to pieces and seeks to hold them together by a danger signal. There is something of the unreasonable and unreasoning haste of a panic in all this tirade of his.

Philadelphia Times, Ind. [ His letter on the Southern question ust given to the public is one of the most studied and subtle assaults upon the policy of the President that has yet been made since Ben Wade's rude attack upon him. It is unworthy of a statesman, inasmuch as it is uncandid and cowardly, and hurls the deadliest blows while professing sympa-Mukta Pasha, and it is believed he must thy and even passive assent to what either fight an overwhelming force or the President has done.

[New York World, Dem.] Senator Morton has written a very long letter about the administration. He might have written a very short one and conveyed the same information, namely: that the arrangements for the distribution of patronage and the reform of the civil service in Indiana met his personal views.

A Novel Case. We gave a brief statement yesterday of the killing of Nathan C. Clayland, at Charlotte, by James P. Wilson, in August, 1854, and how the latter had just voluntarily surrendered himself. He has just been tried at Charlotte, found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced to five years in the county jail. The Charlotte Observer contains a report of the trial. We copy a part:

He was arraigned according to the usual form of law. The bill of indictment set forth that James P. Wilson had, on the 14th day of August, wilfully killed Nathan Clayland by shooting him with a pistol. During the reading of this the utmost silence pervaded the whole room, notwithstanding that it was filled to its utmost capacity.

Mr. Wilson to surrender himself for trial, he went to the friends of Nathan Clayland and of his family, and itself as compared to the fiendish at- stated the fact to them, and further is figuring out a little less than any heretotempt to murder by poison sixty mi- informed them that if they would aid ners at Streator, Illinois, yet the Go- him in procuring the witnesses, he would prosecute the case to the best of his ability, as required by law. He Mr. Evarts writing a letter to him to found no one disposed to prosecute the defendant. It was a rather remarkable fact that all the eye-witnesses to the killing were now dead. He, however, had two witnesses who knew something of the occurrence. James Fox, colored, and James Alexander were then sworn. The former was put upon the stand and testified that he saw the deceased and the prisoner enter the room of Wm. Quinn, (the store on Trade street now occupied by Nisbet & Bro.), and in a short time thereafter heard the report of a pistol. He next saw the prisoner come out, get on his horse and ride off. James Alexander testified that he was with the deceased during his last illness. He had heard him say that the prisoner shot him, and that he did not wish him prosecuted for it. He was defended by Col. H. C.

Jones and Gen. Rufus Barringer. Mr. Wilson returns to his home shattered in mind and body, but with the sympathy of the entire community. He has led a temperate and of a possible 225, beating anything industrious life. He fought through the whole war in a Texas regiment, and distinguished himself on many fields of battle. For deeds of bravery he was raised from a private to the captaincy of a company, and received other marks of favor from his commanders. He is now forty years of

About 11 o'clock, as far as can be ascertained, four colored men entered the house and made the assault upon Howe, beating him severely about the head, making two deep and ugly gashes in the forehim in almost a dying condition, though he was subsequently assisted to his home. A woman by the name of Frank Hargrove. who was in the house at the time, was unable, or professed herself unable, to give any satisfactory account of the affair, and the injured man himself is incapable, from the severity of the wounds received, of furnishing any information on the subject. Upon the strength of certain threats made, however, three colored men, W. P. Cromady, John Toomer and Adam Chavers, were arrested yesterday on suspicion and put under bonds for their appearance before Justice W. H. Meore on Friday next, to answer to the charge of committing the assault, while a warrant is out for the arrest of another who is suspicioned of being implicated in the affair. On Saturday last a colored prisoner was taken from Burgaw to South Washington, Pender county, and locked up in a room in the second story of the Court House, the further precaution being taken to place hand-cuffs upon him and chain him to a desk, in order to leave, as it was thought, no opportunity for him to escape. He remained thus confined during Saturday night and Sunday, it being the intention to send him to this city on Monday morning's train. - That morning, however, when the officer went to look for his prisoner he had disappeared, having broken the chain and wrenched one of the handcuffs lose, and then let himself out of the upper window and escaped, with the other handcuff still attached to his wrist. Up to last accounts the slippery darkey had not been recaptured.

Religious. The sermon of Rev. E. F. Marable, at the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, was a forceful, logically arranged and force, was the victim of a deadly assault impressive discourse, based on the words of our Saviour, "My yoke is easy and my burknown. It seems that he had been re- den is light." The leading idea of the sermon was that the propagation of Christipersonal effects of Edward Joyner, in jail anity had been retarded more by the false teachings and impure lives of Christian teachers and professors than by infidel assaults and pantheistic and materialistic philosophy. The sermon was decidedly thoughful, and evinced careful preparation. In the discussion of his second proposition we thought he would ran counter to the wise teachings of Bunyan's immortal allehead, apparently with a bottle, and leaving | gory, but he avoided the collision to a great extent as he approached the close. New Equipments. Capt. Gordon, of the Whiting Rifles, received from the Adjutant General, yesterday, a new stand of arms for his company, and a complete set of accoutrements. The new arms, which are sent in exchange for the ones previously forwarded, are of the Springfield pattern, much lighter than the others and consequently better adapted to the use of the young men composing the company, while the barrels, bayonets, &c., are bronzed, thus doing away with the necessity of keeping them "brightened up." The company were to meet at their armory last night to receive their new arms and accoutrements. And now for the uniforms! The arms previously forwarded are, we understand, to be sent to the Washington Light Infantry.

There was no bell in the immediate vicinity, and no alarm was sounded, but the gry of fire was raised, and a number of railroad hands rushed to the rescue, and finally succeeded, by the use of buckets and plenty of water, in extinguishing the flames, but not until a good portion of the roof had been consumed. WILMINGTON, N. C., May 29. Mr. Editor: I am truly glad to see your "Local" of to-day, relative to the above organization. It is a move in the right di rection, and I had been intending to write a similar notice of this company for some time past, and urge the good people of Wilmington to come up nobly to the aid of this company, and help to uniform them. They have fine material in this company, and with a membership now on their roll of about fifty; but they want solid, substantial aid from our citizens. Do not let it be said of Wilmington that she is behindhand in the matter of uniforming this company. I would suggest that the ladies interest themselves in behalf of the Whiting Rifles, and start the ball by taking a list to the citizens, and asking the aid needed to equip the company. I do hope that steps will at once be taken by our married ladies as well as the single ones, to accomplish this most desirable purpose. The Whiting Rifles will undoubtedly prove themselves worthy of the illustrious name they bear, and an ornament to our city.
