A Poor Chance for Turkey. NEW YORK, June 3.

The Times' special cable from Constantinople says that the corruption and bribery which are rife everywhere destroy all chances of Turkish success. There are no horses, no money, and no order in the management of affairs. All the carriage horses in the country have been seized by the government for war purposes. Another body of the Softas were excited to-day. They were accompanied to the vessel on which they took their departure by a large number of sympathizers. The Sultan is a nonentity with 300 women and 5,000 persons of all classes to feed daily. The strain on the treasury is intense. There is not a particle of patriotism among the officials to give ground for the slightest hope. Contracts for any stores and equipments are awarded by means of bribery of the officials having the matter in charge. The advertisements in the newspapers of contracts open to general competition are mere shams, and are connived at by the Minister of War and those who surround him.

The constitution of the country is also a sham, and is disregarded in every possible manner. The Parliamentary deputies are retiring to their homes in disgust, and the laws which have been passed will never be put in force. The Minister of War, however, says that Turkey will fight to the last. The Sultan has given up all hope of aid from the English go-

Berlin Stirred. NEW YORK, June 3.

A dispatch from Berlin says that in diplomatic circles in that city great political importance is attached to the present visit of Lord Odo Russell, the British ambassador to England. Many rumors have been in circulation of late relative to the part which England is likely to take in the present Eastern complications, and a feeling is gaining ground that an Anglo-Austria alliance against Russia, with the co-operation under certain conditions of France, is one of the possibilities of the near future. In any event, Lord Odo Russell's visit at the present juncture is looked upon as being of more than usual significance. Another diplomatic event, which is much spoken of, is the probable visit of Count Schouvaloff, the Russian Minister to England, to Prince Bismarck, at Kissen his return from St. Petersburg to > Gladstone's Influence. LONDON, June 2.

There is considerable political excitement over Gladstone's speech Thursday at Buckingham, and his declaration that Russia had no intention of intertering with the British pos-sessions in the East. Gladstone is supported by the working classes, and it is believed he will, with Bright and other opponents of the present Conservative Government, form the nu-cleus of a ring of Liberalism. The political situation is actively discussed in all circles. Great Britain is now mobilizing her troops with the probable object of aking precautionary measures to pro- | very backward.

A Fatal Rencontre in Northampton [Special dispatch to Index-Appeal.]

WELDON, N. C., June 2. John M. Moody, a citizen of Northampton county, and well known in Petersburg, was shot and instantly killed by Jesse D. Brantly near the residence of the latter this evening. The act, I learn, was done in selfdefence. Mr. Brantly is a gentleman of very quiet and peaceable disposition. The difficulty arose from his being witness in a suit against Mr. Moody. SENEX.

[Special telegram to the dispatch.]

WELDON, N. C., June 2. An altercation took place near here to-day between John M. Moody and Jesse D. Brantly, both citizens of Northampton county, in which Moody was fatally wounded. The cause of the difficulty was that Moody had said Brantly perjured himself in a recent law-suit against Moody. Today Moody, passing Brantley's residence; was accosted, and an explanation asked; whereupon Moody replied by firing five shots in quick succession at Brantly, who drew a pistol and fired twice, killing Moody instantly.

Brantly is said to be very quiet and inoffensive, and the other quite the Suicide at Statesville.

[Raleigh Observer.] This morning Mr. L. L. Howell, while out fishing, about two miles from this place, discovered the dead body of a woman. She had taken a seat on the bank of a small stream, and by the use of three-fourths of an ounce of opium forgot this world and its cares, and sought another. The following unfinished note was found by her side, and it leaves the cause of her unhappy fate enveloped in mystery and the coroner's jury in dark-

"I have a secret to tell, and I want everybody to know it. I want down to uncle Joe Barkley's to live, and I stayed there one year lacking five days, and I took chills and fever and was down and up two months, and when I got well on or about the time the snow was on the ground, and-"

Her secret is with her in another world. The effect of the opium which she had purchased that day was speedier than she expected, and the world can never know of the act that produced such desperation. Her death in this usually quiet town, and "I wonder what the secret was," is about all you can hear. W. A. P.

North Carolina Iron Being put to Sharp Use. | Asheville Citizen. ]

Gen. Robert B. Vance has had sent him by Messrs. Rees & Wilder, of Chattanooga, Tenn., a beautiful razor and a most excellent knife, made in Sheffield, England, by Messrs. Brookes & Crookes. A circular accompanying this cutlery says: "The blades of this cutlery are only two removes from the ore, the ore being worked in a 'Catalan' fire and hammered directly into a bar of wrought iron. The wrought bar is then melted in a crube collected to resist the Russian adcible and the steel is thus produced. The ore from which the cutlery is made is taken from the Magnetic Ore Belt of Iron Mountain, on the line between Carter county, Tennessee, and Mitchell county, North Carolina, and is locally known as the Cranberry Another Successful Raid-Recovery of More Stolen Property.

Officer Carr made another raid upon the house of Lucy Nixon, corner of Ann and Eleventh streets, yesterday morning, and brought to light a number of stolen articles in addition to those recovered on Saturday, among which may be mentioned hen belonging to David Johnson, colored; three goslings, identified as the property of Israel Martin, living at the Hamilton place, five of which were stolen from him on the same night of the attempted assassination of Mr. Oscar Grant, Martin having heard the firing at his place, which is but a short distance below the Johnson or Lippitt place, where the assault occurred: a coat stolen from Mr. Thomas Monk, on the Market street road, before referred to; s monkey wrench, identified as the property of Capt. F. M. Wooton, in the same vicinity; a monkey wrench, identified as the property of Mr. John Oldenbuttel: a lot of spool cotton, the property of Mr. Mc-Earchin, being among the articles taken from his store when it was broken open; a carpenter's plane, of small size, with the initials P. J. on one side and C. H. R. on the reverse; two pair of shoemakers' pincres, not identified; a fore-plane with the initials J. R. on one side; one small monkey wrench, not identified; a lot of young chickens, not identified; a hand saw, not identified; a pair of scales and weights not identified; a lock removed from the stable door of Mr. John Meyer on the night of the 10th inst., to which Officer Carr had the key, there not being another lock like it, perhaps, in town; a lady's small gold neck chain; a gold handkerchief slide; a bunch of keys; three hens and a rooster, identified as the property of Capt. May, residing near the corner of Market and Thirteenth streets, whose fowl house was robbed recently; and a silver fork, with the name "Veranda" engraved on the handle. Enough has already been discovered in this nest of thieves and housebreakers to crime have long been carrying on a systematic war upon the property of citizens of this place, and that they are without doubt the most inveterate set of thieves ever unearthed in Wilmington.

Since the above was written Special Deputy C. H. Strode, accompanied by Mr. George Bates, clerk at Mr. T. H. Smith's grocery store, made a search at the Nixon house for a clock which was among the articles stolen when Mr. Smith's store was broken open some twelve or eighteen months ago, but not finding it there, they acted upon another clue, which led them to a house on Eleventh, between Ann and Nun streets, but a short distance from the Nixon house. Here they met a colored woman, when Officer Strode said: "I want that clock that Robert Ellerby left here:" upon which the woman, without the least hesitation, pointed out the spot where she said the clock was buried, and started to dig it up, but as she went to work as if with the intention of shattering it to fragments, so it could not be identified, using an axe for the purpose, she was ordered to desist and Officer Strode unearthed it himself. The clock, which was buried about 18 inches beneath the surface of the ground, was subsequently fully identified as being the clock stolen from Mr. Smith at the time referred Prince Kelley and his wife, Rebecca Kelley, were arrested yesterday and lodged in jail, under a warrant issued by Justice Gardner, charged with being implicated in the various robberies now being developed and investigated.

A number of documents have been captured by Officer Carr and his assistants which tend to show the extent and plans of the organization for robbing and plundering the people of this city, of which Richard T. Nixon and Robert Ellerby were among the leading spirits. Among them are two or three letters written by Wellington Boyd, while in the Albany penitentiary, and addressed to Richard Nixon, in which he stated that he was "faring like a fighting cock:" that he liked his quarters in the penitentiary "most delicious," went to preaching every Sunday, &c. In another letter, dated February 18th, 1877, addressed to Nixon. Boyd takes him to task for not writing to him, and says: "It seems as you boys are not executing your business as you should; if you was it would interest you so you would not fail in informing me of your services," &c. Boyd, it will be remembered, was sentenced to the penitentiary for robbing the mail.

Merious Annoyance. Complaint is made that a parcel of boys, both white and colored, are in the habit of going in bathing in a pond of water near Third and beyond Marsteller street, known as Mt. Olive pond, in the extreme southern section of the city. They not only go in bathing there, but indulge frequently in the habit of chasing each other outside of the pond, thus rendering themselves a great annoyance to people residing in that vicinity. It is hoped that the matter will receive the attention of the authorities.

Olling the Fire Bose.

In accordance with directions from th Chief of the fire department, the hose belonging to the different steam engines in the city, consisting of about five thousand feet, was yesterday put through a process of oiling by means of a force pump. A barrel of oil was used for the purpose, and it was forced into the hose with sufficient pressure to make it penetrate entirely through, thus making them pliant and much more substantial and better calculated to stand the pressure which they have at times to undergo. Bridging the Railroad Track.

The city authorities are having a bridge constructed over the railroad track on Sixth street for the convenience of people residing north of the road. This is a very desirable improvement, and will be a great accommodation. The bridge, work upon which has been going on for the past week, will be something like the main bridge over the track on Fourth street.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEA WRED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS,-These medicines have undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American public. They are compounded of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution. Other remedies advertised as cures for Consumption, probably contain opium, which is a somewhat dangerous drug in all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients it must do great injury; for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter in the system, which, of course, must make a cure impossible. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted to contain ot a particle of opium: it is co out harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions, and expel all the diseased matter from the body. They are the only means by which Consumption can be cured, and as Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way, it is obvious they are the only genuine cure for Pulmonary Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine s accompanied by full directions. Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday where all letters for advice must be addressed.
