[Special to Richmond Dispatch.] THE DEPUTY MARSHALS OF NORTH CAROLINA.

WASHINGTON, June 13. Investigations of the transactions of the Deputy Marshals of Western North Carolina show that not one third of the immense sums charged against the Government within the last three years has been for actual service nor honestly expended. These fraudulent operations have lind extensive ramifications and increased with fearful rapidity during the period when the Presidency was in doubt. It was generally believed down there that Tilden would succeed Grant; and as he would have made a clean sweep of the Federal officers in power, they determined to make hay while the sun yet shone, but they ruined themselves by overdoing the job.

OVERCHARGES AND FALSE CHARGES, The favorite mode, as previously detailed in these dispatches, was to make overcharges for mileage, and false charges for guarding and feeding prisoners. The loose notions among many people of that part of North Carolina about evailing or violating the revenue laws in relation to the manufacture of whiskey furnished a rich field to be cultivated by nimble deputies not oppressed with too much conscience, and stimulated to activity by small pay. In one case a half-dozen men were arrested and put in irons and carried from house to house among their friends in the same neighborhood for nearly a week before they were taken to the court house, only seven miles distant. And for this the Government was charged as if the prisoners had been transported seventy miles and boarded and guarded for five days. The soldiers who acted as guards were put down as civil guards, and the accounts

FRAUDULENTLY RAISED TO TEN TIMES More lately a sharp officer arrested a druggist for violation of the revenue laws, baving found an unstamped bottle of a taxable liquid on sale in his store. The summons, arrest and examination took place on the spot, but mileage, guards, board, &c., were charged against the government. Western North Carolina is flooded with these bogus warrants, technically called "pay rolls," which are certified by United States commissioners, the signatures generally being forged. and they pass as currency among the mountain people. Frequently they are given as "boot" in horse trades, and some parties do a thrifty business discounting them. A man named Sluder is particularly mentioned in this connection.

BE ASKED FOR. When Hester went to North Carolina to work up the frauds committed in Marshal Douglas' office, he found that a package of documents which had been forwarded from the Attorney General's office had been opened in the post-office at Asheville before his arrival, and the suspected parties fully informed of the object of his visit. This caused only temporary

That Problem.

By request we re state the problem as i appeared in our paper of the 16th inst: "Two men having $100 each buy a tract of land containing 200 acres; one pays 75 cents per acre, and the other $1,25; what number of acres did each one get?"

The following in reference to the same have been handed to us-One man buys 80 acres at $1.25 The other buys 20 " " 100 " "

75-100 Thus the two buy 200 acres at an average price of $1 per acre. To preserve the average of $1 per acre, one-half the quantity must be sold at each price named.

Rosum.

Let us represent one unknown quantity y x; then x will denote one man's acres of land. If he paid 75c an acre, then 48 x $100 - x = 100 ÷ 3 = 75 acres, hence the other party will get 125 acres for his share, but this will not fill the requirement of the proposition, hence it is evident it cannot be demonstrated.

DEAR SIE: The conditions of your land problem are such as to make a solution impossible. It is simply a "catch," To make this evident we have only to make one party pay 50c an acre and the other $1 50. This will make $2 for every 2. acres. Yet when you have supplied the party who buys at 50c per acre with the amount of land his $100 will buy you have used up all the land for sale, and the party who huys at $1 50 per acre can't invest his funds. It's a fraud. B. A. H. Wilmington, June 16, '77.

DEAR SIR-The problem contained in our paper, which has been such a "knotty puzzle to unravel," simply because it is not susceptible of being solved, may still further puzzle the curious by changing it as

A and B buy 200 acres of land for $200, each paying $100; but for choice of location A agrees to pay 25 cents per acre more than B. Now, Low much land does each one get, and what do they pay per acre for Wilmington, N. C. June 16, 1877.

We want it distinctly understood that we are in no wise responsible for the sleepless hours, the wasting of midnight oil, the fearful inroads upon stationery, and the trouble and worry of mind and body, experienced in the effort to solve this problem. We did not publish it with the view by advertisement hereafter. of evoking any such sacrifice. "Shake not thy gory locks at me," &c.

Remarkable Instinct as Displayed in the Case of a Bog. We are reliably informed of a remarkble incident connected with the death of a lady of this city during the past week. She owned a valuable dog, and the animal had never been in the habit of going inside of the house and had never been known, from a puppy, to leave the lot. On the night succeeding the death of the lady, and while a number of friends were sitting in the room with the corpse, the dog came to the door, which was shut, and scratched and pawed at it until it was opened, when he deliberately walked to the place where the body was lying, sniffed at it once or twice, and then walked out. The next morning the dog was missing, a fact which was so mysterious and unaccountable, owing to the known domestic qualities of the animal, that a member of the family sent to see if he had not been taken up and placed in the city pound. Nothing more was seen or heard of the dog until that afternoon, when, as the funeral reached the entrance to Bellevue Cemetery, he ran out and met it, and then followed with the mourners to the grave, where he kept up a most dismal howling and whining while the last sad rites to his departed mistress were being performed. The sexton of the cemetery said he found the dog there early that morning, that he was present when he dug the grave, and remained there during the entire day until the funeral procession ar-
