A False Humor Corrected. NEW ORLEANS, July 3

The Picayune, referring to the of that able editor and admirable writer, statement made by a contemporary Rev. J. D. Hufham. that the grand jury had indicted Wells and Anderson, of the Returning Board, says: "This was incorrect, and unfortunately so owing to the number of people who were deluded by it; but it is a fact that the question was before the grand jury. Governor Nicholls is opposed to the movement, considering that it may be construed into a violation of the terms by which the present Administration came into power."

The Enthusiasm in Russia. [London Examiner.]

One thing that strikes us forcibly in reading the Russian newspapers of various shades of opinion is the evident unanimity and enthusiasm which exist among all classes of the people. There can be no doubt that, for the present at least, the war is entirely popular. Town councils, provincial and district zemstvos, rural communes, private associations, and numerous private individuals, subscribe liberally for the sick and wounded.

The Pan-Presbyterian Council. EDINBURGH, July 4.

The Pan-Presbyterian Council opened to-day. In the morning session the Rev. Dr. Schaff, of New York, introduced the discussion on the harmony of the confessions of the Reformed Churches. The matter was submitted to a committee. In the afternoon the principles of Presbyterianism were discussed. Rev. Drs. Hodge, of Alleghany, and Stuart Robinson, of Louisville, took a prominent part.

Rev. Dr. Prime, of New York, reported that there were 12,000 Presbyterian congregations in the United States, who subscribed over £1,000,000.

POURTH OF JULY EXCURSIONS. Trip of the Steamer Waccamaw to Smithville-The Douglass Party-The Underhill and the Colored Excursionists-Scenes and Incidents.

The excursion to Smithville on the Fourth, on the Steamer Waccamaw, was a very successful one to the Daughters of Rebekah, under whose auspices it was given, and was greatly enjoyed by a large portion of those participating. The boat left the wharf, foot of Princess street, shortly after 9 o'clock, with its precious freight many ladies and children helping to swell the aggregate of the great crowd on board The Italian string band was along, and finally arrangements were made whereby one set at a time were enabled to engage it dancing, which was kept up by those fond of such recreation until the boat reached Smithville, where the crowd landed, a large pertion of them going to the Academy, where the dancing was continued, and others visiting the garrison, strolling about the town, calling upon friends and ac quaintances, &c. Some of the excursion ists wanted to go outside a short distance, and a still larger number desired visit Fort Caswell and Bald Head the committee being also anxious to do so, in order to carry out their promises, as well as for their own gratification, but Captain Latham deemed it imprudent to venture outside on account of the roughness of the water, and inexpedient to go to the Fort or to Bald Head, owing to the inauspicious condition of the tides, consequently when the boat left Smithville, about half-past 4 o'clock, her bow was turned in a homeward direction, and the wharf was reached about

The flags of the various shipping lying in the harbor in the vicinity of Smithville, awaiting a favorable wind to go to sea, dipped their flags to the excursionists as they passed, and Capt. Burmeister, of the German barque Wilhelm Kisker, which was in the offing opposite Smithyille, fired a sa-The stay-at-homes on the 4th say that lute upon the arrival of the boat and kept Wilmington was remarkably quiet during it up at intervals during the time the party remained.

dressed out gayly with flags and the shipping in the harbor, the pilot boats, &c., displayed their bunting.

In and about the garrison they were having a lively time, the progra mme of sports including foot racing, boat racing, swiming races, &c.

The Steamer Douglass, which had taken down a party to the Blackfish grounds, finding it rather rough outside, had steamed up to Smithville, where a portion of the excursionists remained, while others took bor, meeting with very flattering success. The Douglass party pronounced old ocean in a terrible commotion, and some of them were seized with an outward conviction of an inward uprising which would not down at their bidding, the blackfish in consequence getting more bait (such as tripe, &c.) than they could have reasonably expected, even on the 4th of July.

Coming up the river the Waccaman passed the revenue cutter Colfax going down, with her rigging literally flashing with bright colors from the almost innumerable flags with which she was bedecked, and which gave her a very attractive appearance.

The committee in charge of the arrangements on the Waccamaw labored faithfully for the accommodation of the excursionists, and if there was anything lacking it must be remembered that it is difficult to make calculations to a nicety beforehand, when the number to be accommodated cannot be foreseen with any degree of cer-

The Regatta at Wrightsville-An Exciting Race and a Victory for the Ripple.

Reported for the Star.]

WRIGHTSVILLE SOUND, July 4, 1877. Another reconstructed Independence holiday has dawned upon the land. In the exuberance of hard times, good health and migratory inclinations, a fractional portion of the pleasure-loving citizens of antique Newtown, aristocratically now known as Wilmington, desert the turbid waters of the Cape Fear, and embark, in variously assorted land crafts, propelled by the "Genus Eguus," upon the "Appian Way," more commonly termed by the "great unwashed" the Wrightsville Turnpike.

A pleasant journey, in spite of occasional sand drifts, soon refreshes our jubiant emigrants with Atlantic breezes and a agnificent panoramic view of the grand expansive Ocean.

'Ah! how happy they Who from toil and tumult of their lives, Steal to look down, where nought but Ocean strives ! This exordium is supposed to welcome t the sound and banks (minus greenbacks) a happy throng of interested spectators, who, with commendable patience, await the preliminary arrangements of the "Jolly Jim Tars," who are about to "mast head" their snowy canvass and court the moderate southwest breeze for a yacht contention, of unusual interest.

During the past winter a lethargy, or Rip Van Winkle somnolency, seemed to have enveloped the Carolina Yacht Club giving the general impression that its incipient enthusiasm had been consigned to the "Archibes of gravity!" A genial spring soon thawed the trozen fetters of the club. Enthusiaim reinaugurated, and, mirabile dictu. "Grand Sachem" of the Bank of New Hanover was seized with an aquatic mania that induced him to capture the constructive genius of Messrs. Cassidev & Ross for the conception and birth of a nautical gem, which was recently launched, and gallantly christened the "Foam." "The imperious Mogul" of the "National" viewed jealous impulsiveness the ambitious demonstration of his fellow "discounter," and promptly issued a royal ukase to his Sound ratainers to immediately revive the ancient beauty and speed of the famous "Carolina."

The infection was by no means sporadic, but spread among the yachtmen with wondrous avidity, exciting the dormant proclivities of the gallant "Water Witch" captain, who stipulates for the "Berry" best craft that an expert in construction could produce.

The Viking of the "Ripple" sarcastically smiles as, with his fingers, he cogitates: "It is even so; vaulting ambition runs riot in our Club, and it now behooves me to obtain a 'Life Insurance Policy' on the reputation of the 'Ripple.' To accomplish this desirable end, brother Smith informs me that a mast, six feet longer than the original, must be obtained for the Fourth of July. By my halidom! it will have to be done. Now, for the material! Pitch pine, I scorn; Nor-wood is too expensive and pole. Eureka 1 I have it! Philadelphia, that 'City of Brotherly Love,' must come to the rescue and furnish a spruce mast, of ingly."

At 1 o'clock P. M., hubbub and confusion, natural to a heterogeneous gathering, instantly ceased upon the advent of the gallant old admiral, Sir Wm. A. Wright, K. C. B., who promptly inaugurated discipline and directed that the programme of the day should be considered in order. Accordingly Judges were appointed and an energetic "Starter" selected.

The Secretary announced the following yachts, as contestants in the coming race. Bessie Lee, commanded by O. A. Wig-

Qui Vive, commanded by Wm. Wright, Jr. Carolina, commanded by Oscar Grant.

Ripple, commanded by Norwood Giles, Foam, commanded by H. C. Cassidey. Judges-E. S. Martin, J. L. Holmes, Capt. J. N. Maffitt.

Starter-Capt. Smith. The yachts were arranged in order, as by the above list, and started in accordance with the deduction of time for the difference of tonnage. In three minutes and fifty seconds, the little fleet were bowing to the breeze and heading in open order for the upper buoy.

The only case that came before the Court | the sinusity of the channel deflected them vesterday morning, was that of Handy from a direct course in their rounding point, the upper buoy. her awkward predicament, the perseve, William Augustus followed the fleet with a avidity that elicited applause, as, Benton like, he continued the Regatta "solitary and alone." As the fleet elongated their line, with a victorious space between them and the "Ripple," the living picture of the Regatta was perfectly exquisite. Soon the white clouds were lost to sight, as they strove for the "ultima thule" of their course. Brief was this disappearance, as they again, in the same order, hove in sight, with an annoying reduction of the power of the wind, that moderated their speed, though for the boys of the dashing little "Spray" it was most fortunate.

In this order of sailing, the judges' stand was four times passed, resulting in a brilliant victory for the "Ripple," the "Rosa" and "Frolic," with a prize for the "Carolina" had the awards numbered four. 'Amid the cheers of the spectators and congratulations of friends this magnificent "joust" of the yachts agreeably concluded.

The victors in this beautiful race were duly announced by the delighted Admiral, who called all hands to close quarters under the audience stand. Much to the astonishment and disappointment of the ladies, the felicitous chief, complaining of slight indisposition, impressed the modest and reluctant Capt. Maffitt into service for the distribution of the prizes.

We regret to inform the readers of the STAR that our stenographic notes of the amusing nautical emanations of the Captain were purloined by some adroit gentleman of the pave, who fancied that my exceeding great care was indicative of values beyond price. The oratorical inflictions having ceased, the Admiral rose to a point of order, and quaintly remarked that talking and listening on the Fourth of July invariably excited an excess of great dryness, and as an honest, philanthropist and Christian gentleman he deemed it his duty to order the boatswain to "pipe to grog." After which (he continued) the peckishness of the multitude can be assuaged by vigorous assaults upon the multitudinous baskets.

These considerate remarks were received with general approbation, and the Admiral was escorted to the Club House. Our last glimpse of the genial chief was espying him, encircled by the fair six, a spring chicken in one hand and a goblet in the other. Before him stood a graceful young lady, controlling some "Nectar," and deliciously performing the classical role of

A cow was noticed yesterday gazing longingly and wistfully at the green pastures on the western side of the river, and finally she went down to the shore, sought out a convenient spot, plunged into the river and swam across. Arriving on the other side, she vainly tried to find a place suitable for landing, and despairing of doing so, finally gave up the effort and started back. By the time she had reached the middle of the river, on her return trip, exnot sufficiently supple for a genuine dandy haustion completely overcame her and she turned over on her side, apparently resigned to her fate. That Match.

It will be observed that the rifle match Wednesday was managed with consummate skill by the winners. Our rifle editor "tied" Capt. Cutlar and held him, while Col. DeRosset beat Cant. Lilly all to smash, the Col. being a larger and more powerful man than the Captain, and being the layindownest man in the club. It is a fortunate thing that Col. DeRosset had our r. e. on his side, for if Capt. Cutlar hadn't been "tied" there's no telling what amount of deviltry he might have perpetrated. And it takes a powerful good man to "tie" Capt. Cutlar, too-that is, when he gets to skinnin' the cat, jumpin' over small houses, and cavortin' and perusin' around gen-

SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC .- In the atmonths, the lethargy produced by the heat takes away the desire for wholesome food, and frequent perspirations reduce bodily energy, particularly those suffering from the effects of debilitating diseases. In order to keep a natural healthful activity of the system we must resort to artificial means. For this purpose Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is very effectual. A few doses will create an appetite and give fresh vigor to the enervated body. For dyapepsia it is invaluable. Many eminent physicians have doubted whether dyspepsis can be permanently cured by the drugs which are generally employed for that purpose. The Sea Weed Tonic in its nature is totally different from such drugs. It contains no corresive minerals or acids; in fact it assists the ciencies. The tonic in its nature so much resembles the gastric juice that it is almost identical with that flaid. The gastric juice is the natural solvent which, in a healthy condition of the body causes the food to be digested, and when this juice is not excreted-in sufficient quantities, indigestion, with all its distressing symptoms follow. The Sea Weed Tonic performs the duty of the gastric juice when the latter is deficient. Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic sold by all Druggists.
