The Famine in the East, [By Cable to Charleston Journal of Commerce.] LONDON, August 17.

1.921.

A dispatch from the Viceroy of India, dated August 15th, says that the general improvement in the crop prospects in Madras, Mysera, Bombay and the Northwest was maintained during the past week.

The condition of Mysera continues critical. The Governor of Bengal telegraphs, concerning the condition of Bombay, that the prices of grain are slightly easier, but are still very high. An improvement of the situation is retarded by the want of a general rain.

The people are feeling still more the continued pressure of high prices. The difficulty in Bombay is aggravated by the state of Madras and Nizeane, and the mability of the railroad to bring forward grain sufficient for the great demand. There has been a further increase in Madras of the numbers relieved of 189,000, making 385,000 increase in the last fortnight.

In Mysera the laborers on works are decreasing, and the charitably relieved increasing. In Bombay the reverse is occurring, but there is a slight general increase in the total relieved. In Madras there are 983,000 laborers on the works, and 1,001,600 charitably relieved. In Mysera 45,000 on the works, and 164,000 charitably relieved, and in Bombay 205,000 on the works, and 119,000 charitably relieved.

Senator Morton-Effect of his Speech on the Senate. Special to the Cincinnati Times.] WASHINGTON, August 15.

Senator Morton's absence from the Senate Chamber in October would be a great blow to the Administration, and President Hayes remarked before he left last night that the balance wheel would be wanting if Senator Morton could not take part in the Senate's deliberation. Politically, the Senate is now nearly evenly divided, and the absence of Senator Morton, with the contest between Blaine and Conkling, will be favorable to the Democrats.

Governor Hampton's Speech at the White Salphur Springs, on August 16th. Special dispatch to the Richmond Enquirer from a Staff Correspondent.] Governor Hampton received an enthusiastic greeting. After expressing thanks for the compliment, he touched upon the struggle in South Carolina. It was the result of harmonious union of | black and white. Governor Matthews has told us that in the regiment before us are men who wore the gray and others who wore the blue. I am glad to see them. A Well that is not Well. A well on Harnett, between Third and Fourth streets, was reported to the health department yesterday as being in a very bad condition, emitting a smell that was not only exceedingly offensive to people in that neighborhood, but calculated, if it remained in that state, to breed a pestilence. Shaw, approached the stall of one Henry McRae, colored, a butcher in the market house, probably with the intention of getting his breakfast, when McRae seized a sharp-pointed instrument, known as a chuck-pin, and hurled it at the dog, which struck him in the side, inflicting a fearful wound, which rendered it necessary to dispatch the animal in order to put him out of his misery, which was done by or at the suggestion of Officer B. R. King, of the police force. It was contended by Mcman body at the bottom of the well, but Rae that the dog had on a previous occasion appropriated some pieces of beef lying from Nagaubo for this port, was in port at loose about the stall. .

HORRIBLE AFFAIR.

A Man Murders his Own Brother-in-Law-The Murderer Makes his Escape-Officers on his Track-Terrible Appearance of the Murdered Man,

&c., &c. Our usually quiet city was the scene last night, about 10 o'clock, of one of the most horrible murders it has ever been our illfortune to chronicle. It seems that Elijah Keeter, a well known fisherman of this city, and Peter Robinson, a painter by trade, the latter having married the sister of the former, were residing in the same house, together with their respective families, on Fourth, between Nun and Church streets. Mr. W. W. Register, who was present, states that Keeter came in about 10 o'clock, and went into the room occupied by Robinson, who had retired to his bed. Mr. Register, who was seated on the piazza at the time, heard some words passing between the two, the matter in dispute being about house rent, and heard Keeter remark to Robinson, "You d-n s-n of a b-h, you want to fight me," to which Robinson replied, "If I am a s-n of a b-b, you are a gentleman!" Mr. Register says that, thinking it was a family quarrel, and that he had no business there, he concluded to leave, and got up for that purpose, when he heard Mrs. Robinson, who was in. an adjoining room, call for help. He thereupon rushed into the room where the two men were and found them clenched. Seizing Keeter, he drew him away from Robinson and out of the room, taking him to the front piazza, Keeter in the meantime insisting that he (Register) should let him go. As Register bore Keeter from the room Mrs. Robinson entered it, and found her husband lying upon his face on the floor, apparently lifeless. She took hold of har husband and turned him about. when she discovered his condition, upon which she cried out, "O, my God, he is cut all to pieces!" Hearing this, Mr. Register, who was still on the piazza, rushed back into the room where Robinson was, and Keeter departed in the direction of the front gate. Upon re-entering the room Mr. Register found that Mr. Robinson had been mortally wounded, Keeter having cut him twice in the abdomen, making a deep and ghastly wound, which extended entirely across the fore part of the body, and from which the entrails of the unfortunate man were protruding. He was still breathing, but never uttered a word after his wife and Mr. Register entered the room, expiring after a few gasps and moans. Up to this time there had been no outcry or disturbance to attract a crowd, but in formation of the horrible affair soon go upon the streets and members of the polic force and others made their appearance. Keeter, the murderer, had, however, made good his escape, and at last accounts no trace of him had been discovered, though officers were in search of him.

The murdered man leaves a wife and four children to mourn the sad fate of the unfortunate husband and father.

We learn that both Keeter and Robinson had been drinking to some extent, though neither of them were intoxicated. Previous to this, it appears, the two men had been on good terms, suffering only a slight interruption to their friendship some months ago, which had apparently been forgotten. Coroner Hewlett was notified of the circumstance of the homicide last night, and will hold an inquest over the body of the deceased this morning.

Deceased is said to have been about thirty-six years of age, though he looked somewhat older.

Gone to His Rest.

In the New York papers we find the announcement of the death of Mr. Benjamin Blossom, which occurred in Brooklyn on Monday, the 13th inst., in the 88th year of his age. Deceased was the father of Mr. Josiah R. Blossom, formerly of this city, and one of the firm of J. R. Blossom & Evans, the junior member of which (Mr. Thos. Evans) resides in Wilmington and the senior in Brooklyn. At a meeting of the Brooklyn Naval Stores Trade, held on Tuesday, it was resolved "that we, the members of the Naval Stores Trade, who have known him for many years, testify our high appreciation of his character in every relation in life, and whilst deploring his loss, hope that his example will be long held as a precious heirloom for us to emulate and Monster Snake. Intelligence was received here yesterday, from a reliable source, to the effect that a monster snake was killed near a place called Beasly Hole, a short distance from Burgaw, Pender county, on Thursday last. His snakeship is supposed to be a species of the anaconda, being about thirty feet in length and larger around the middle than a man's body. When discovered and killed he was in the act of swallowing a yearling deer, about one-half of which had disappeared in his capacious mouth. This, we acknowledge, is a prodigious snake story for these parts, but stranger things have happened, and Mr. I. H. Brown, Register of Deeds in Pender, who brings the news. though he did not see the snake, seems to have no doubt of its correctness.

AMERICAN BRANCH LIVERPOOL AND LONDON AND GLOBE INSURANCE COMPANY,

45 WILLIAM STREET, NEW YORK, Aug. 6, 1877 TO OUR AGENTS :

To our agents:

The recent disastrous fire at St. John, N. B., has furnished another illustration of the strength of this Company and of the ample security it affords. The fire occurred on the 20-21 of June, and all the claims—123 in number, amounting to $465,151.23—were all adjusted and paid in fall on or before the 30th of July.

This large sum was paid, in addition to all the ordinary losses and expenses, out of the surplus premiums of the first half of the present year.

The Company's Assets, as reported on the 1st of January last, so far from being reduced, have been increased by our whole interest income, and by the surplus premiums remaining after the payment of all ordinary and extraordinary losses and expenses; thus affording striking evidence of the important advantage en loyed by a company whose operations are not restricted to one country, but extend all over the world—disaster and loss in one branch or district being more than met and compensated by success and gain in others.

I am greatly pleased on being able to congratulate you on our contribution to this highly satisfactory result, the Fire Premiums of this Branch for the first half of the present year having yielded a net surplus over all losses and expenses of $316,135.62.

fashion and innocent galety. We are just from a ball room ablaze with beauty, and gorgeous with artistic female decoration, and our head is ablaze with excitement, while our heart beats time to the symphony of strange yearnings. Borne upon the perfumed wings of imagination we quaff the nectar of delicious thought. Oh woman i this was probably only the effect of imagi-
