cial relations had been made the object of criticism by Hon. John Morrissey. He had known Morrissey about twenty-four years, and heard of him much longer. When he (witness) was made the subject of criticism by Morrissey it was but fair that the public should know where he was. Witness then went on to say that Morrissey was indicted in December, 1848, at Troy, for assault with intent to kill. In April, 1849, he was indicted for burglary, and at the same term convicted and sentenced to jail for sixty days, having been tried on two indictments for assault and burglary. In June, 1849, he was indicted for burglary. In Albany, on the 15th of July, 1861, he was convicted of breach of the peace, ad judged to be fined fifty dollars, and sentenced to a term of three months in the Albany penitentiary at hard labor in case of non-payment. In 1857 he was indicted for assault with intent to kill Thomas H. Bulmer, and the same day was indicted for the same crime upon William P. Conway; also same day for the same crime upon John F. H. Duget. During the whole of that time and up to a few years past he has been a professional prize-fighter and public gambler; the proprietor and owner of the worst places in this city-the resort of thieves and persons of the lowest character. A Musical Prodigy.

(From the Staunton (Va.) Vindicator. | There is a most remarkable musical genius in Staunton, in the person of little Virgie Hoge, a daughter of Mr. Chas. E. Hoge, a child not yet eight years of age. Besides being a performer of merit, she has extraordinary talent as a composer, and is never happier than when engaged at that work. She will come into a room, without any preparation, and going to the piano will play beautiful airs of her own composition. Some of the airs have been caught and written by older persons who

Fearful Tragedy in Columbus County -A Runaway Match and What Came of it.

[Robesonian.]

We learn that a young lady named Bullard, of Columbus county, was recently killed under circumstances such as we are seldom called upon to chronicle in real life, but which are mainly reserved to intensify fiction. The lady in question had a suitor named Bullard. with whom the brother of the damsel was not favorably impressed sufficiently to warrant his endorsement of prospective union, notwithstanding Juliet was willing to take her Romeo for better or for 30th. worse, so they had either to resort to stratagem or abandon the suit. Of course they chose the former, but were pursued by the irate brother, who, coming in reach of them, fired upon them, wounding his sister. Nothing daunted, although the girl was mortally wounded, they proceeded to the house of the nearest magistrate, where the train were made one flesh, when the lady died. The young man has been arrested, and is now in Whiteville jail. We have no partic-

Trade Notes. The Louisville Courier Journal says: "In all branches of trade inquiries elicit the fact that merchants are hopeful. The jobbing branches are making a very auspicious beginning in the fall trade. In some, such as heavy hardware, boots and shoes, building materials, and perhaps others, our reports are to the effect that business is as active as in the most prosperous years of our commercial

The demand for boots and shoes is taxing the capacity of the New England manufactories to the utmost. Some of the large buyers are already in the market replenishing their stocks, and advices from all points at the South and West indicate a very considerable increase of business.

The indications of a brisk fall trade in the commercial centres of the State, says the Savannah News, are very cheering, and the Augusta Chronicle announces, after an interview with prominent merchants, that "trade in all branches will be more satisfactory than it has been any season since the war."

A Saintly Scandal.

John W. Young, first counsellor to and third son of the late Prophet, started for St. George this morning for the purpose of taking as a polyg-amous wife Miss Tuella Cobb, a stepdaughter of the defunct Brigham. This girl is the granddaughter of Mrs.

Augusta Cobb, the deceased prophet's Ark., Democrat of a recent date contains an concubine, who is known in Mormon history as the woman who desired to be sealed to Jesus Christ. Mary Vancott, Brigham's last wife except Ann Eliza, is another Miss Cobb, and is the mother also of one child by the Prophet. That John W. Young was engaged to the Cobb girl only became known to his wife Libby the day following the Prophet's funeral. A big row in young Young's family immediately ensued. John W.'s mother took his part and reprimanded his wife for opposing a servant of the Lord in his bigamous desires. A division of the children was made, and on Thursday last Mrs. Young deserted her husband and returned to the home of her father, Mr. Canfield, an old railroad engineer, living in Philadelphia. Stagnant Water. We have been requested to call attention to the fact that water has been standing in considerable quantities in vacant lots and under a number of houses in the neighborhood of Church and Castle streets ever since the late heavy rains, and has become stagnant. It is feared that much sickness may result, and in fact several cases are already reported which are supposed to have originated from this cause.

A Fight on the River-An Exciting Struggio-Knives Drawn, &c. Considerable of a skirmish occurred yesterday afternoon between the second mate of the British brigantine G. P. Sherwood and a colored stevedore named Benjamin Williams. The vessel was lying in the stream nearly opposite Market dock, and Williams was in a boat alongside, in which there was some scantling which was to be put on board the brig. The mate ordered Williams to pass up the scantling, and the latter replied that he had nothing to do with it. The mate then said that if he was not there to work, he had no business to be there at all. One word brought on another, and finally the mate jumped into the boat and inflicted a blow upon Williams, upon which the two clenched and a struggle ensued, during which the mate fell across the gunwale of the boat, with Williams on top of him. The mate had a sheath knife in his hand, but was unable to use it, and Williams held him down, with his head touching the water. At this juscture the steward of the vessel, seeing that Williams was getting the best of the scuffle, seized a sheath knife, and was in the act of springing over the side of the vessel into the boat to take the part of the mate, but was seized and held by a man from the shore, who happened to be on the vessel at the time; and it is said to have been very fortunate for Williams that the steward was prevented from having a "finger in the pie." The parties were finally separated, and Williams went up the street to get a warrant from some magistrate for the arrest of the mate, while in the meantime the G. P. Sherwood moved off down the
