OUTLINES.

Gen. Grant spoke at Sheffield, and said the American tariff was necessary to pay off the war debt. The Turks at Plevna have been reinforced by 10,000 infantry, who forced their way through the Russian cavalry.

The greatest astronomer of his time, Jean Joseph Le Verrier, died on Saturday last in the city of Paris. He was born on March 11, 1811, and was therefore in his 68th year.

McCallough, the eminent actor, is to captivate Richmond, Va., next week with a half dozen of his famous characters, including Macbeth, Hamlet, Richard III. and Richelieu.

The fearful scourge at Fernandina appears to have spent no little of its force. The last accounts are more favorable, although a suburban village is sorely afflicted, one-half of the citizens reported sick from the fever.

In the death of the late Rev. Dr. James A. Duncan, of Virginia, the South lost one of its greatest, possibly its greatest, orator. His elocution was superb, and he could tell what he knew better than any man we have ever heard.

The editor of the Bangtown Bird of Freedom will shed many "tears of pearly dew" over the intelligence of the destruction of Prang's chromo establishment at Boston.

Mr. Lyman Tremaine made a Tremaineous speech in the New York Republican State Convention yesterday. He is afraid that, with a solid South, the Democrats will capture a few Northern States, and thus get control of the national administration for another twenty-five years.

Yellow Fever at Vera Cruz. NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26.

Mexican advices state that yellow fever prevails at Vera Cruz in its most violent symptoms, and very fatally.

Missing Masons. By Cable to Charleston Jour. of Commerce.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

The German masons who were brought to London to replace the strikers have abandoned their work and disappeared.

A Prominent Citizen of Surry accidentally Killed.

A correspondent of the Index Appeal, writing from Waverly, under date of 25th, says:

"At a horse race at Spring Grove, in Surry county, on Saturday, one of the horses flew the track, running against Mr. John Underwood, a citizen of prominence and highly esteemed, inflicting injuries from which he died on Saturday night.

Duel Between Strangers. A duel was recently fought south of the line between Louisiana and Mississippi, on the New Orleans, St. Louis & Chicago Railroad, between Dr. Albert Lower, of Hot Springs, Arkansas, and Ed. R. McLellan, of New Orleans. McLellan was severely but not fatally wounded.

Horrible Death of an Excursionist. [Fredericksburg Star, 26th.] A colored man named Randall Bentley, one of a large party of excursionists which left Richmond for Washington on Monday morning, met with a sudden and horrible death while on the way.

The Intruder at Work. [Tribune Correspondence from Lynchburg.] A fraction of irreconcilables, led by Gen. Jubal Early, ex-Congressman Whitehead, editor of the News, and Mr. Daniel, the defeated candidate for Governor, endeavored a few days ago to break down the reception and get the city to turn a cold shoulder to the President.

An Old Tar Heel Reb on the Virginia Verdon. [Statesville Landmark.] However, all doubt had been removed from our minds by the not so polished but quite as forcible words of an old "Reb" who lost his right arm, a part of his left ear, and one of his eyes in that charge of carnage and death. He said in reply to Col. Taylor: "You tell that 'ar mag—mag—yuns call it—Virginian that I belonged to Seales's brigade, and that I was in that charge, and went as far and fought as hard as any 'd—n, no mag—what ever yuns call 'em, Virginians." We described exactly the controverted ground on our mutilated hero, and asked him, as he evidently thought, doubtfully: "Are you certain that you were there?" "Certain, h—l," he replied, "don't you see that empty sleeve—don't you see that left eye is gone, and, turning partially around, 'don't you see that crap in my left ear? Perhaps I am certain.' Yes, and so we are certain that 'Pet-tigrew's division and the brigades supporting it' did not 'falter and retire,' but are eminently entitled to share with the magnificent Virginians the glory of the defeat.

Spirits Turpentine. — Alexander county pays $7,182.40 tax. — Frost at Oxford on the 22nd inst. — Thus far some twenty-five barns of tobacco have been burned in Granville county.

The Raleigh News has seen a pear grown in Johnston county that weighed 17½ pounds. — Mrs. Hettie Williams, wife of Capt. John A. Williams, of Oxford, died on the 28th inst., aged 28. — Raleigh Register: We regret to learn that Hon. W. A. Smith is still suffering with rheumatism at his residence in Johnston county. — Newbern Nut Shell: We were shown last night, in the drug store of the Messrs. Hancock, a stalk of tobacco measuring eight feet in height and containing forty leaves, which was raised on Mr. J. Doughty's farm, near Newport.

Hillsboro Recorder: The Wilmington Star had the misfortune to give its leading pages Saturday's issue. Nevertheless the pie did not disagree with it, and that energetic journal, always equal to emergencies, was out next morning with its usual bright face.

Alamance Gleaner: We are sorry to learn that diphtheria is still prevailing to an alarming extent in the country around Union station. Six or eight have died recently, and others are at the point of death. — In our last issue we hear that Judge Saxton, governing the District, has appointed John T. Vincent, but he has not yet filed his bond and qualified.

Statesville Landmark: Eleven car loads of fat, plump yearlings, consisting of two hundred and fifty-five head, from Jackson, Cherokee counties, passed down the Western North Carolina Railroad on Saturday. They were way-billed to Baltimore. — Large quantities of cane, for manufacturing sorghum, was raised in south Irwell this season. Many farmers have found it more remunerative to raise this cane and manufacture sorghum than to raise cotton at 13 cents per pound.

Salem Press: The body of the negro killed as drowned in the Yadkin river last week was found in his boat a short distance above B. Butner's plantation on Tuesday last. — Wm. Ebert raised from 23 bushels sowing, 295 bushels of wheat. Weight, 69 lbs to the bushel. — Post office discontinued at Martin's Line Kill, Stokes county of North Carolina, evening our attention was drawn to a light resembling a candle, moving above the tree tops in the northeastern portion of the heavens. It moved slowly in a circular direction till it reached the western horizon, when it disappeared.

Oxford Torchlight: Mr. W. J. Champion, of Brassfield township, found, some few days ago, a mine of pure tar on his plantation. Any one doubting it can go and see it, some two and a half miles south of Wilton. — The merchants of Walnut Grove have set the price at one dollar and a half per bushel on new corn, and those of Oak Hill at one dollar. That doesn't look like the corn crop was a failure in this county.

Lumberton Robinsonian: We are reliably informed that there is on the premises of Archibald Buie, Esq., a goose which is known to be more than forty years old. — It is our sad duty to chronicle the sudden death of Miss Ella, daughter of Rev. T. W. Weber, which occurred at the Neck last Saturday morning. — Mr. Thomas E. Phillips, a merchant doing business on Trade street, was knocked down and robbed on his way home, last Sunday night, of about $30 in money, and a store of Messrs. Meike & Jones, of this town, was entered last Monday night and a quantity of goods stolen. Some of the goods were found in a shed, over the river, near Mr. Rankin's, still. The thieves have not been captured.

Winston Sentinel: R. C. Ponder, Esq., of East Bend, Yadkin county, has probably one of the largest togs in the State. It is now three years old, and weighs 650 pounds. Mr. P. thinks by Christmas it will 800 pounds. It is a gross between the Potomac and the Chesapeake. — Rev. W. R. Gwaltney, of the Baptist Church, of this place, preached his farewell sermon to that congregation, on last Sunday evening. He leaves to-day, with his family, for his new field in Italy.

Magnolia Record: Wells Boney, Esq., an aged and estimable citizen of Ieland Creek Township, suddenly fell dead on the 21st inst. Mr. Boney was in his 80th year. The orphans from the Oxford school are exhibiting in the city on the night of the 15th inst. they gave an entertainment in Jones county, at Christian Chapel, and made most favorable impressions on the minds of the people. — We have at Mr. O'Neil's, in a bakery, buggy shops, 1 jewelry store, 1 shoe shop, 1 factory, 1 drug store, 1 steam gin, 1 turpentine distillery, 1 hotel, 3 churches and 2 schools. — Uncle Jack Kornegay claims to be the first man in the world to cross adjoining counties that picked 100 pounds of seed cotton in one day. It was done in 1821, and was an extraordinary day's work.

Charlotte Observer: Mr. Cyrus Stinson, who lives nine miles from the city in Crab Orchard township, was in our office yesterday with the finest specimen of gold he has yet seen. — Some more darkening have been in the office of the register of deeds, trying to bull-doze the authorities into a reduction in the price of marriage licenses. — Albert Cherry, the deaf and dumb man who was struck on the head of the Carolina Central Railroad near Woodlawn about two weeks ago, is able to be up again. — It is asserted by those interested in such matters, that more children have been born in this city in the last few weeks than within the same period at any time in the history of the place. — The treasury department warns all business people against a new counterfeit five dollar bill that has been thrown upon the market. — Raleigh Observer: There was registered yesterday in the Department of Agriculture, 29,000 acres of land in the county of Burke, and 2,000 in the county of McDowell. The Burke lands are offered at sixty cents per acre. — A little boy, eight years of age, and son of Virgil Barbee, who lives four miles west of Morrisville, had his arm caught in a saw on Tuesday, the 18th, and so badly crushed as to necessitate amputation. — During the past year six associations of the Baptist Church in the State have reported over 1,000 baptisms, 618 in number are reported by the Chowan. — On Monday last N. H. Rice attempted to arrest W. Y. Davis, who was convicted of the murder of Benjamin Imman, in Madison county, and afterwards made his escape. Rice shot Davis twice, from the effects of which he died in a few hours. Davis shot Rice in the shoulder and inflicted a very dangerous, if not mortal wound.

Weldon News: We understand that four weddings will take place in one house near Gary's this week. — Twenty-six thousand eight hundred and nineteen crates of peaches were shipped north from stations on the line of the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad during the past season. Nine thousand four hundred and thirty-seven of them came from Littleton and Gaston. — In the neighborhood of the Panacea Springs a woman by the name of Rebecca Patten, the wife of a deformed bench-legged negro, gave birth a few days ago to triplets—two boys and a girl. — A young man in this vicinity while passing inside of a barn not long since found a partridge nest containing some twenty odd eggs. His boyish propensity for bird's eggs overcame the man and he consequently took them home for a nice breakfast the next morning. He carefully laid them away in a safe place. When the time came to lay them served he went for his eggs, and to his surprise found a brood of young partridges corresponding in numbers to that of the eggs he had left there.

Raleigh News: Governor Vance yesterday received a telegram from the War Department at Washington, informing him that the State Guard could have temporary use of the barracks here during the Fair. — The Governor accepted the offer on the express condition that in doing so the status of the claim of the State to these barracks was not to be affected at all, and that in accepting it he makes no concession of the claims of the State to this property, or to the U. S. Government to control it. — The Attorney General has written to the North Carolina Agricultural Society to the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry. The ceremony will take place on the fair grounds on Wednesday of fair week. Robert S. Eubank, Esq., of Fayetteville, will receive the flag in behalf of the company. — W. H. Beattie, Chief Justice of Nevada, wife and child, are registered at the Yarrowhook House. — Jos. Brittain, sheriff of Burke county, delivered to the authorities of the Western North Carolina Railroad, at Henry's, eight convicts, sentenced to hard labor for terms varying from one to five years, the fruits of the fall term of the Superior Court. — Wadesboro Herald: One firm in Wadesboro subscribes for 80 copies of the Pe De Herald to send to their friends and customers. They are live men and believe in working for their town paper. — We hear but little said of the matter in Anson. As a matter of fact, the few whom we have here mention it, are in favor of letting things remain as they are, though others strongly favor the court. — Our subscribers who pay in wood are now respectfully requested to bring along. Coal, mending and combing and printers' fingers must be kept warm and supple. — Dr. Battle beats L. P. Crump (both of Lileville) one in the matter of ears of corn to the stalk. Like the Electoral Commission, it is eight to seven in favor of B's stall, has eight, and C's seven good, well-developed ears. — The Raleigh Observer and the Wilmington Star deserve the lasting gratitude of every true North Carolinian—of every true citizen of the South—who loves the truth of history vindicated—of their fearless and eminently successful refutation of the unjust and invidious attack upon the North Carolina troops made by the late Mr. W. W. Holden in a recently published account of the battle of Gettysburg.

Travelling Under Difficulties. A few days since a young man from another State went to Statesville for the purpose of taking a situation, which, however, he found upon arriving at that place had already been filled. Not finding anything to do there, he decided to go to Charlotte, but meeting with no better success in the "future London," he made up his mind to try his luck in Wilmington. Unfortunately, upon examining his exchequer he discovered that his funds were well-nigh exhausted; and, being among strangers, he could not raise the wherewithal to pay his way to our "city by the sea." As the train was preparing to leave on Wednesday morning the almost penniless and friendless young man stood upon the platform bewailing his unfortunate lot, when a gentleman at his side, who had overheard his expression of disappointment, suggested that he jump into a box car and close the door, which he did, and shortly afterwards the conductor passed that way and locked it. The young man remained in his close quarters in the box car until the train arrived at station seventeen miles from this city, when, overcome with hunger and the effects of his confinement, he beat upon the door and clamored lustily to be let out. The door was thereupon opened and the young man, almost suffocated, with the perspiration streaming from every pore, stepped out, and as soon as he had recovered himself slightly, candidly confessed to the conductor that he had been reduced to the necessity of stealing a ride, expressing his regrets that it was so, &c. He then asked the conductor to take him to Wilmington, saying that he had money enough left to pay his way for that short distance, which request was acceded to, and the stranger soon found himself where he was able to get the first square meal he had had for two or three days.

The Virginians and Carolinians. In his speech last Wednesday welcoming the members of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union to Richmond, Va., Bishop Gibbons used this language: "Nearly the last decade of years I have spent in Virginia and North Carolina. During that time I have daily commingled and conversed with his people without distinction of creed. And, unless I have been very much mistaken in the character and disposition of these people, I can say to you with confidence that you here seek in vain for social ostracism or religious animosity. Prejudices, indeed, there may be and are among us, but they are relegated to the private family and to the churches. You will find in the public walks of life a broad religious toleration and a social, fraternal spirit."

The Weather Yesterday. Rain commenced falling here early in the morning yesterday and continued at short intervals during the day, much of the time coming down in torrents, accompanied by occasional peals of thunder. This was probably a touch of the storm alluded to a few days since as having its origin in the neighborhood of the Island of Jamaica, and which elicited a warning from "Old Indications" to be on the lookout for it along the South Atlantic and East Gulf coasts. Up to this writing, however, the wind has not been heavy, and the storm flag has not been hoisted over the signal station at this port.

Thermometer Record. The following will show the state of the thermometer, at the stations mentioned, at 4.35 yesterday evening, Washington mean time, as ascertained from the daily bulletin issued from the Signal Office in this city:

Table with 2 columns: Station and Temperature. Includes Augusta, Mobile, Charleston, New Orleans, Galveston, St. Marks, Jacksonville, Key West, and Wilmington.

The German picnic, advertised to take place at the Wilmington Gardens yesterday afternoon and night, was postponed on account of the rain.

Lieut. Col. Taylor has ordered battalion drills for Saturday and Monday evenings, preparatory to the parade for inspection and review Tuesday afternoon.

Early risers report a beautiful rainbow yesterday morning, which reminds of the old saying among seamen: "A rainbow in the morning is the sailor's warning."

The Regatta Committee of the Carolina Yacht Club have had the matter under consideration and have come to the conclusion not to have another regular regatta this season.

The striking longshoremen are still holding off for better terms, and in the meantime the two or three vessels now loading are getting along the best they can with their crews.

The heavy rain which commenced yesterday continued without abatement up to the hour of going to press this morning. We fear that much damage will be done by the flood.

A runaway cart, without horse attached, halted in front of our office yesterday and still retains its status quo. The owner is hereby requested to take it away, or it will be dealt with as the law directs.

Stationary temperature, winds mostly from the northeast, partly cloudy weather and rain areas, with stationary or lower pressure, are the indications for this section to-day, suggesting but little improvement on yesterday.

The tax books for the State and county will be turned over to the Sheriff in the course of three or four days, and then there will be a rush, as the tax-payers only have the month of October in which to settle up.
