Morning

By WILLIAM H. BERNARD. WILMINGTON, N. C .: WEDNESDAY MORNING, Oct. 17, 1877.

It is doubtless fortunate for the country and for the Congress that the distinguished Representative from Philadelphia, Hon. Samuel J. Randall, was elected Speaker, and that, too, by such an easy, such a large majority. He richly merited the honor of being again chosen to preside over a body upon whose deliberations depend so much of the prosperity and quietude of the country. Mr. Randall is not only one of the ablest men of his party now in Congress, but he is beyond question the best presiding officer among the entire members not even excepting Blaine, who was very good in spite of a manifest want of principle on his part. Firmness, fairness, dignity, a retentive memory, quick perception, very rapid intellections, patience, courtesy-these are the chief traits necessary in a first-

The brief address of Mr. Randall contains two noticeable points. following paragraph presents one of them in language that is well chosen. Said the able and eloquent gentleman:

class parliamentary officer, and they are possessed by Mr. Randall in much

"We meet under circumstances imperiously demanding that all considerations of class, section and party shall be subordinated to the loftier and more patriotic object of doing what is best for the whole country and all its people. Since the adjournment an Administration has been inducted into office which is obeyed as the actual govern-ment, regardless of the grave events which marked its birth, and this House, animated by a spirit of due patriotism, desiring first the public tranquility under the law, will frankly approve any sincere and permanent policy looking to the complete pacification and the advancement of all constitutional methods of the general public welfare, and it should be your sacked duty to provide legislation which will render impossible a repetition of the wrongs which have occurred and of the dangers which

These be wise words, according to the best judgment of the STAR. For more than six months we have urged precisely what the newly elected Speaker of the new House of Representatives here urges upon the body over which he is to preside. We have insisted that such legislation should be provided as to "render impossible repetition of the wrongs which have We have insisted that a a demanded that paors should "frankly nd permanent

PUBLISHER'S ANNOUNCEMENT. | just been chosen by an overwhelming majority over his party wals to the high office of Speaker of the great House of Commons,

The other point we referred to in Speaker Randall's address is contained in this paragraph.

"I assure you I will take no step backward in the work of retrenchment and reform so auspiciously begun by the last House! Under a mature and definite plan of reduc-tion of the expenses of the government, to have an honest administration it should be frugal. Never before was it more argent than now. With general financial distress and labor depressed, when the iron rule of hard nocessity darkens every house in the land, extravagance on the part of the people's servants would be an unpardonable crime. It is partly because this wholesome policy was faithfully carried out, that I am permitted to speak from this place." The country at large will echo this sentiment. The Democratic party is solemnly pledged before the country to a policy of "retrenchment and reform." It has insisted through the public prints; it has insisted in platforms of conventions; it has insisted through its speakers upon the hustings; it has insisted in the speeches of representatives in both Houses of Congress, that retrenchment and reform were necessities, and it has pledged itself to an honest frugal administration of the government whenever in office. It is compelled to stand by these pledges and deliverances. Northern Democrats as well as Southern Democrats are compelled to stand by their records. Any departure from an honest and economical government-all unnecessary and unwise expenditures and appropriations, wil be violative of their pledges to the country, and in contravention of the will of the people. So there cannot be an increase of the army by Democratic votes, North or South, without bad faith; and there cannot be subsidies voted without a violation of the spirit and letter of Democratic principles, traditions and pledges.

Gen. Clingman has published in the Asheville Citizen a rejoinder to Hon. Jacob Thompson's letter, denying certain statements made by Gen. U. in his book. General Clingman reiterates his statements, and then enters upon a criticism to show that Mr. Thompson's own account of the matter "sustains the material allegation made by me," i. e. Gen. C. It strikes us he makes some good points apon Mr. Thompson, and puts him in a somewhat awkward predicament ecording to the explanations given by the latter. The letter of Gen. C is too long for our columns. | We have room for but one paragraph:

"He declares that there was then in progress in his State a movement to secede from the Union. In fact, in a few weeks after our interview his State did secede. He says that he received from the Governor of the State a 'letter requesting me to act as a Commissioner of that State to the State of North Carolina, and urge her to co-operate with Mississippi in measures for the protection of Southern rights, and that he accepted this commission. Could he have accepted it unless he intended to carry out the views of those he was to represent? To have accepted the trust with purpose to defeat the intent of those giving he authority, would have been inconsisten with his personal honor. Remembering, too, that the commission came from the Governor only, and that also before his State had, by seceding, released him from obligations to the Federal Government. No secessionist has eyer, as far as I am advised, asserted that the Governor of a State had power by his mere act, to absolve one from his obligation to the United States."

We may mention that Gen. Clingman states that he had no purpose to injure Mr. Thompson's feelings. He says:

"On the contrary, I supposed that like myself he was entirely satisfied with his own former action, and would not take exception to my references to it. When we met at Sewance, in the summer of 1875. spoke to him of these conversations, and I thought he remembered them as I did. My main purpose was, to make public events, important in themselves, to show the sin-gular condition of affairs then prevailing, and also to make manifest what an extraor dinary Chief Magistrate the country then

Mr. Delane, after guiding the ablest newspaper of the world for thirty-seven years, has retired from the chief editorship of the London Times. What a vast influence it has exerted during these eventful years, and what a power his great paper has been in shaping public sentiment and the legislation of the country. The retirement of such an editor is an interesting occasion, and one well calculated to elicit warm expressions of praise from the press of England. He will be succeeded by Mr. Cheney, one of the leading writers connected with the Times, and who is well acof all quainted with its general policy, trad worded every case in which an insane person takes his life is open litigation ditions and principles. The Oxford Free Lance is still vigstacking the frauds and cou ruptions of the Radical officials Granville Its war is ceaseless, and it is doing a good service for the people of that oppressed and misruled county For ten years robberies, corruption, extravagance and incapacity have marked every step of the Republican party in that county, It has been a long, agonizing saturnalia of debauchery and peculation, The Free Lance is doing much to uncover and make odious the acts of certain officeholders. We quote paragraph or two in regard to a large sum in which the people of that count ty are deeply interested:

"Two suits have been brought against R. G. Sneed, late Sheriff and his official bond—one by the Board of County Commission ers for general county taxes of last year, which has not been paid in, and one by the same body, acting as a Board of Education, for the school fund of the same year—the whole aggregating about thirteen thousand

"It is understood that Mr. Speed claims -and such will be his defence-that he has settled in full with J. G. Jones, claiming to be Treasurer at the time, and that he (Jones) is responsible for the amount. How that may be we do not pretend to say. The Supreme Court has decided against Jones, and the Court has decided against Jones, and the County Commissioners do not recognize him as Treasurer, and, therefore, they seek the remedy from Mr. Sneed."

No one who reads books or papers is ignorant of Tennyson's stirring lines on the charge of the famous English Light Brigade at Balaklava, one of the battles fought with the Russians in the Crimean war. They were led by Lord Cardigan. It was magnificent dash-one of the grandest in history, but was rash beyond comparison. It grew out of a mistake of orders. Lady Cardigan, the widow of the brave leader, recently gave a banquet to about one hundred of the survivors. Here are the figure of the loss sustained by British valor in that fearful charge: The Fourth Light Dragoons lost 79 out of 118 men; the Eighth Hussars, 66 out o 104; Eleventh Hussars, 85 out of 110 Thirteenth Dragoons, 69 out of 130 Seventh Lancers, 110 out of 145. Total loss, 400 out of 607 men.

One by one the South Carolina thieves are being fastened in the meshes of the law, and band after band of Indians are surrendering. The example recently set by that brave warrior, Chief Joseph, has just been followed by three chiefs and one hundred and eighty-seven Apaches who have surrendered to the United States forces. It may turn out that Mr. Hayes's administration will be as distinguished for the curing of the Indian ills and the closing up of all Indian wars as it has thus far been memorable for rectifying the wrongs of Grant and the evil extremists, and of securing to the country the blessings of peace and fraternity, avail should

In Washington, on the 11th just., there was a Democratic jubilation over the Ohio election. Some of the speakers were very offensive in their remarks to the President, referring to him quite in the vulgar style of the New York Sun. Hon. Ben Hill called upon the President at the White House, and repudiated the sentiments attered. He said no Southern Democrat took part in the proceedings but Blackburn, and the speeches in no way reflected their feelings.

Life Insurance Policies-The Suicide Clause.

From the Baltimore Sun.

A decision of the Supreme Court of the United States has just been promulgated which is of great importonce to holders of life insurance policies, as well as to any one who contemplates taking out such a policy. The case was that of Bigelow vs. the Berkshire Life Insurance Company. It seems it has been the custom of ate of many, if not all the life insurance companies, to insert in each policy a declaration that suicide vitiates the policy, whether the person who commits self-murder were "sane or insane" at the time of the act. The decision of the Supreme Court in the case referred to, having this clause before it for interpretation, is in the following words: "If the assured be conscious of the physical nature of the act he is committing, and intended by it to cause his death, the policy is voided, although at the time he was incapable of judging between right and wrong, and did not understand the moral consequences of what he was doing." This decision gives to the insurance companies an important advantage. Under a contract so from time to time to time the thoroughly eduglishmen who have distinction at the who have shown translism.

The Times with the expenses attendant upon a contest of the kind before the courts, where the wealth of a corporation is opposed to the poverty in many instances of the family for whose benefit the insurance was taken out. The only remedy in dealing with companies in whose policies the words "sane or insane" are inserted is for those who intended to insare their lives. who intended to insure their lives with one or the other of them either to abandon the idea or to insist on a medification of the conditions.

The extreme Radical press

and leaders at the North join in the attempt to whip the President back into the traces of the party and bring him into co-ordination if not subordination, and the sweeping Democratic victory in Ohio is the latest text tion at all hazards, and the President must declare under which banner he proposes to take his stand. They will not allow him to carry out the policy of the Democracy and act as the President of the Republican party also. He must either be for them or against them. The integrity of the party in their eyes is a greater political necessity than the restoration of the South and the re-establishment of the Union. They prefer to fight the solid South, and are prepared to do it by a last effort to unite the North on sectional issues. In carrying out this party policy it is not to their interest that this section should be quieted and pacified. That does not enter into their plans. Their very existence as a party depends upon the perpetuation of domestic or sectional strife, and if they can but succeed in uniting the North against the South they will be secure of the Presidency and may hold on to the Senate. This is their forlorn hope, and the signs indicate that they are reforming their lines for this last desperate struggle. It is easily seen the President is only supported in the North by the most respectable of his party, Mr. Cullen Bryant, and that sort of liberals, who supported Mr. Johnson, but were powerless against the Radical mob and their revengeful and unscrupulous leaders. Mr. Hayes is almost as lone and deserted now by his party as was Andrew Johnson, and he is only better off in not having a Congress hopelessly to contend against as well as a party. Richmond State, Dem.

cation, and we think it is fully as important to utilize all the means at hand to the hest interest of those to be educated as it is to have a large fund and many schools, with teachers simply to hear boys and girls repent what they learn by rote, without understanding what they repeat-without being taught in the branches they pretend to study. - Raleigh News.

Take from us the Democratic votes of the North, and we find ourselves in a hopeless minority, and the victims of aggressive sectionalism possibly less baleful and better than Bourbonism would make it if in control here. So we say to the Southern press, the great educator of our people, that interest, patriotism and natural prosperity demand that we shall face the future and our destiny. Fortune sends the breeze, the rest is for the pilot. If he sleep the crime of the shipwreck is upon his own head. This is the true relation of press and people. And Providence forbid we should prove recreant to the trust reposed in us .-
