Morning Star. By WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C .:

TUESDAY MORNING, Oct. 30, 1877. JUDGE MERRIMON'S BILL.

The STAR said long ago that there was no wisdom in extremes. The latest illustration of the truth of this remark are the comments of certain Washington correspondents and cer tain Radical papers on Judge Merrimon's bill introduced into the United States Senate relative to placing the few surviving veterans of the war of 1812 on the pension list again, who hail from the South. Their names had been thrown out because of their locality and supposed or real sympathy with that awful rebellion. (We stop to remark that we get piping hot whenever we read in a Yankee paper of Southern "rebels," when we know how they kicked up their heels at George the Third in such a vigorous way, and were so hot for secession from 1808 to 1814.) Now, no one but a bull-headed partisan, who would not be just or generous though the very heavens fell, could possibly object to Senator Merrimon's bill. It is wise, just and timely, because it proposes to pay to the real heroes of the war of 1812 the pension now paid to the veterans of that time who happened to live in the North, and were able, at a later day, to speak contemptuously of "Southern rebels,"

The Southern veterans of 1812 are necessarily very old men, and were old men when the war of 1861 began. They were too old to shoulder anything but their crutches, and only then to fight their battles o'er again and not to meet the new invader at our border. To persecute them now by withholding the pay that has been accorded to the men of the North who fought the battles of the country, is malignant and mean, and every way unworthy of any nation but one of idiots and pirates. The men who have been cut off because of Southern birth or residence belonged to the Southern army that won those battles | ment. He says of the father of Charthat gave prestige and glory to the lotte: American name. To refuse to give them the dole that the Government bestows upon less meritorious soldiers, simply because their homes were in the South, is as contemptible as un just. We hope the wrong done will be remedied by the passage of Judge Merrimon's bill. To refuse to do this would show a malicious and vindictive spirit on the part of Northern Senators that would go a good way towards rekindling the smoldering fires of sectional dislike and antagonisms. As a Northern journal pertinently remarks, the Northern man who is haunted by the fear of the payment of pensions to Confederate soldiers shows scarcely more sense than the Southern man, if such lunatic is to be found, who looks forward to such an impossible thing

tains such a preposterous idea, and

Northern press who are warning their section against this fiction of their own imaginations.

The veterans of the Mexican war should also receive their pensions without reference to locality or nationality. A great government cannot afford to be vindictive, niggardly, partial or mean.

Here is the way the great Radical paper, the New York Times, refers to Senator Merrimon's bill:

"Senator Merrimon, of North Carolina, thinks the present a good time to restore rebel soldiers to the pension list. It is season of conciliation, good-will, and sentiment, and so Mr. Merrimon introduces a bill which reads as follows: 'That section 4,715 of the revised statutes, forbidding the payment of the pensions therein named, be and the same is hereby repealed.' That is the whole case, and it is intended to restore to the pension list the persons and their heirs who voluntarily engaged in the late rebellion against the authority of the United States. This is the entering wedge. It is the preparation for a bill to include in the list of pensioners those who fought in 'both armies,' as some of the sentimental-ists put it. Mr. Merrimon does not believe with Andrew Johnson, that 'treason is a crime, and must be punished as such."

VITAL STATISTICS.

We collate from the New York Sanitarian some statistics not without interest as to the death-rate of the various cities. The calculation is based upon the vital statistics for August and September. Out of every 1,000 inhabitants, in one year, so many die. In New York the per cent. is 27.42 in every thousand; Philadelphia, 16.93; Brooklyn, 23.26; Chicago, 17.88; Boston, 24.46; Cincinnati, 14.96; San Francisco, 15.76 Pittsburgh, 26.00; Milwaukie, 15.08; Rochester, 20.82; New Haven, 17.06; Dayton, 11.66; Buffalo, 16.87; Sacramento, 23.48.

The statistics in many Southern cities show an excessive mortality. Baltimore, 24.46; New Orleans, 27.98: Washington, 33.52; Richmond, 25.65; Charleston, 33.92; Memphis, 41.06; Mobile, 21.02; Nashville, 24.44.

It is noticeable that the health of the Southern cities does not compare favorably with the Northern. For instance, Philadelphia shows a mortality of 16.93 and Memphis of 41.06. or nearly three persons have died in Memphis during September to one that has died in Philadelphia. The mortality in London from all causes was, per 1,000 inhabitants, for five weeks ending Sept. 15th, 18.4, Edinburg 16.2, Glasgow 21.4, Dublin 22, Birmingham 24.8, Bristol 19.4. Liverpool 27, Paris 21, Rome 26 Vienna 20, Brussels 24, Berlin 29. Bombay 54, Magras 134, Amsterdam 25, Alexandria 52, Munich 41, Na

The statistics we published last spring showed that the Northern cities were healthier in the winter than the Southern cities.

Col. R. A. Richardson, the inde pendent candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Virginia, has retired from the field. He was the advocate of what is known in the political parlance of that State as a "forcible readjusting." After meeting the people at various points, and being met by the regular Democratic nominee, Gen. Jas. A. Walker, he saw that the people of the "Old Dominion" were not yet ready to take steps to bring eternal reproach upon themselves and their children, but were for maintaining the credit of the State at every cost. Hence he "steps down and out" of the canvass. We regard the position of the people of Virginia at this financial crisis as being highly honorable and becoming. There are true manliness and honor in the old land

Mr. Jennings Reid some time ago, in a critical paper, stated that the original name of the ancestors of Charlotte and Emily Bronte, two of the greatest women of genius that this world has seen, was Prunty John Bronte, of Dromore, Ireland cousin of Charlotte, denies the state

"Patrick Bronte was an Irishman by birth, but descended from a Hugueno family, as his father was of French extraction, but that the name was other than what is to to-day I unhesitatingly deny. Mrs. Gaskell wrote while Mr. Bronte was alive. but she, in entire independence, gave the world the worst form of Mr. Bronte's peculiarity-that of a strict disciplinarian at times, perhaps almost Puritanical, yet a dutiful husband and kind parent. It is not likely that Mr. Reid could know more about thirty miles west from here. about the deceased than his own brothers The latest news from Fort Stockton and sisters did, one of whom is still rlive two of his brothers having fived up till within two years."

Some of the Democratic papers that have been doing what they could to destroy Mr. Haves's influence, and to make his course towards the South of no importance, now that the radical Radicals are about to get a victory over him, and to enter again upon a campaign of terrorizing and bulldozing in the South, endeavor to to encourage the President to stand his ground. They cry unto him in the midst of their dismay-"Mr. no one in the North knows this better Hayes hold the Fort!" "We told dinary furnace heat. - New York Trithan the vindictive defamers in the you so !"

We see it stated that quite a number of sculptors will compete for the equestrian statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee. They will send models to Richmond, Va., where they will be exhibited in the Senate chamber during the first ten days in November. Among those who will compete are Miss Vinnie Ream, of Washington Valentine, of Richmond; Ezekiel, of Rome; D. B. Schehan, of New York; Robert Reid, of Montreal, Canada; Bubert, of New York; A. D'Amore, of New York; Joseph E. Burke, of Philadelphia; J. A. Bailey, of Philadelphia; Clarke Mills, of Washington; Gilbert R. Frith, of Staunton.

Prof. J. M. Lafflin, now in New York, is considered a perfect model of physical manhood. He thas been, for years, the pride and study of the greatest artists in Europe and America, and is rightly looked to as an expert of the first magnitude concerning athletic culture. He is 6 feet 24 inches in his stockings, and weighs 220 pounds. He has never been sick since he left the nursery. His training has been founded on a system of his own. -Augusta

His system appears to be to eat no rare meats, but meats moderately done. Avoid all mustards, spices and sauces. Do not exercise before breakfast. Eat a light breakfast then work or exercise with a will.

Among the papers in the Novem ber number of the Southern Histori cal Society Papers is one by ex-Pres ident Davis upon the historic "Peace Commission." He replies to certain statements made by Hon. R. M. T Hunter in his paper on the "Hampton Roads Conference," and produces a recent letter from Hon. J. P. Ben jamin and the original draft of instructions to the Peace Commission.

Referring to the retiring independent candidates in Virginia, Richard son and Miller, as "two still-born infants," the Richmond Dispatch quotes the well known lines on an infant buried in an English graveyard, but altered to suit the occasion:

"If thus so soon we are done for,

The King of Italy, Victor Emmanuel, has determined to bestow a gold medal upon Henry M. Stanley, the great American explorer. It is to be sent to London, and the Italian Ambassador will present it to the African traveller and discoverer when he ar-

CURRENT COMMENT.

-- To the South will come labor and capital, seeking the most ample rewards. Cities will grow in power and influence, new mines be opened, new sources of agricultural wealth developed. But such a work cannot be done under a destructive tariff. Railroads must be built, mills erected, thousands of agricultural implements bought, but the task is too gigantic, and our burdens already far too heavy, for us to submit to anything so unjust and injurious as the present tariff .- Courier Journal, Dem.

- Now, the point upon which all Republicans seem to be agreed at present is, that Gen. Grant is the man of all others through whom to frustrate the rising hopes of the Democracy in 1880. Grant was not a model President, by any means. In the early days of the party, when the organization was stronger than any man, he would not, in the light of his two terms, have been the choice of any considerable portion of the people or the leaders. But circumstances over which the party, as an organization, had no control, have rendered it necessary to forget much of the past eight years, to bear with patience the coming three, and to see what can be done at the end of that period, not so much to retain the Republican organzation, as to keep the Democratic organization out of power. The universal feeling is that Grant is the man to do this thing, and hence the universal favor with which his name is received. Whether Gen. Grant would accept the nomination is a different question. There are those who pretend to discover the aspiring third-termer in the European traveller.— Wash. Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Rad.

Mexican-Border War-Another Raid in Progress.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, Oct. 25. A large band of Mexican raiders are depredating near Castroville, is that the stage between there and El Paso had been captured and the driver killed. Preparations are going on quietly to reinforce the rangers with at least one thousand men as soon as the word is given. The com-panies being raised and composed are for the most part of young men.

How Rollers may Burst. A very simple experiment was ex-hibited yesterday to the members of the National Academy of Sciences that throws light on some of the possibilities of steam boiler explosions. It showed that water, or rather steam, might be decomposed into its component (and explosive) gases at an orbune, 26th.

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

The crying sin of the age is, disrespect to parents, disrespect to teachers, disrespect to elders, disrespect to superiors, disrespect to all authority, human and divine. It has been a time of uprooting all that was once held sacred, venerable, and of good report. The old order of things has disappeared, and with it has gone the reverence held for past usages and past tradi-tions. - Eouthern Home.

We believe that President Hayes has by this time learned what many Democrats mean by conservatism and conciliation. They gladly accept and keep all the favors which e bestows, and eagerly and constantly ask for more. They fawn, flatter and beg, and are wonderfully conciliated as long as he yields to their wishes, but when he refuses their requests, or in any degree thwarts their purposes, they denounce him as a simpleton, a hypocrite or a fraud.—New North State, Rep.
