WILMINGTON, N. C .:

THURSDAY MORNING, Nov. 8, 1877.

OUR CONGRESSMEN AT WORK.

It is gratifying to see our best State papers so constantly urging the wants of the people upon Congress. That is right. Unless our Representatives are instant in season and out of season, and keep pressing upon the members the needs of North Carolina, we may be sure our share of governmental aid will be the hundredth part of the lion's share. Our members have gone to work in earnest in behalf of slighted North Carolina. Some of the bills thus far introduced by our members may be summarized thus: Col. Waddell, a bill to abolish the Western Judicial District of North Carolina, upon which we have already commented. Mr. Davis, several bills, among them two to refund to North Carolina certain moneys collected from the State. Maj. Yeates, a bill to repeal the tax on spirituous liquors distilled from fruit. Gen. Scales, several bills, as follows: A bill to refund direct taxes on land collected from citthe late insurrectionary States under the act of 1868. Also a bill to refund to distillers of brandy from apples, peaches or grapes all of the special tax paid by them under the act of 1868, which is in excess of $50. Also a bill to pay for the Court House at Lexington, which was destroyed by fire while occupied by Federal soldiers in the fall of 1865. Also a bill granting pensions to soldiers of the Mexican war.

Maj. Robbins the following bill a bill to prevent interference with the administration of justice in criminal cases in the courts of the several States. Also, a bill to reduce the tax on tobacco and distilled spirits. Also, a bill to authorize producers of tobacco to dispose of one hundred dollars worth thereof to consumers free of tax.

Gen. Vance a bill to repeal the law by which persons and State Banking Associations are required to pay a tax of 10 per cent. of the circulating issue of any State bank, and to enforce a uniform rate of interest in the United States, and to punish ional Banks for accepting a usuriof interest.

errimon has introduced do all he can to further the interests of his immediate constituents and of the State at large in securing such mail arrangements as may be possible. We do not undertake to say that all the bills which have been introduced in Congress by even our own Representatives should become laws. There are one or two possibly of doubtful wisdom or utility.

We trust that the improvements in this part of the State will not be forgotten. All that concerns Wilmington concerns the State. Our town is not only the largest in the State, but commercially it is the most important. It is already the largest naval stores market in the world, and is destined to become a very large cotton market. Any moneys that may be used in increasing its commercial facilities by deepening its rivers, or opening up new ways of water communication will be wisely expended. On Monday last its cotton receipts footed up 2,338 bales, whilst some thirty-four foreign vessels were lying at its wharves. On Tuesday the cotton receipts footed 1,193 bales. Elsewhere we publish the bill introduced by Representative Brogden relative to amending the evenue laws.

The Charlotte Observer, in discus. ing "business for our Congressmen,"

"If, however, demand is made, accompanied by petition and a statement of the mail line desired, together with the points at which it is desirable to have postoffices established, our Congressmen will have something tangible before them and can go to work to have bills passed in accordance with the needs of the people. But i does not always follow that even after the bill passes the route can be established at once, for it sometimes occurs that the Post office Department is lacking in funds and cannot bear additional expenses. This, however, is something for Congress to look to. It is the first duty of the people to tell their Representatives of what they want, then the duty of the Representatives to get a bill passed supplying their needs, and then have the intents of the measure carried into execution if possible."

The Observer is anxious to have the U. S. Branch Mint at Charlotte made "a mint of coinage." It thinks this is necessary, as the yield from the mines is increasing and it would be a convenience to the people. We second the desire as expressed by our contemporary, and trust Congress will give the people of that section what they reasonably ask for.

If we can finally secure the amplest mail facilities, get our eighty or more rivers stocked with fish, open up all streams to navigation that are capable of being made so, have a new and mighty impulse given to cotton manufacturing; get two or three aditional railroads built that are much needed, have our State debt satisfactorily and honorably adjusted, elect a Legislature not afraid to do what is right and wise and just-one that will protect sheep, game and the good name of North Carolina, and will never rest contented nor have a quiet conscience until it shall have passed a new school law which shall revolutionize the whole system and create an educational furore in North Carolina-when these things are done, (and there is really no good reason why they should not be done,) then we will indeed have entered upon the high road of enterprise, development, prosperity and wealth, and then will North Carolina begin to be what she is so capable of becoming-a great and thriving Commonwealth.

There is a flood in the affairs of every people—an epochal period—a turning point. When wise men comprehend the situation, and good and safe men hold the helm, then the ship of State will go bounding on its grand career, and will sail on and on until it has made its voyage of advancement and development. Whenever the people of North Carolina shall have fully awakened to a full conception of their duty and interests; and whenever wise and far-seeing legislators-men of brains and nerve and comprehensive views-shall occupy the chairs in the Halls of our Capitol, then we will enter upon a bright and inviting career, the like of which has never found a place in the wildest dreams of those dozing legislators who spent their days in trying not to get ahead of the dear facilities. We have no doubt he will | are better judges of oratory than the Virginians. For three generations they have been accustomed to hearing exceeding fine specimens of human eloquence. From the days of Patrick Henry and John Randolph to the times of Roger A. Pryor and Ran Tucker, that have known what good speaking is. Well, the Virginia papers have all spoken in terms of praise of the President's late speeches when he was the guest of Virginia. So we take it, that Mr. Hayes can make a good speech.

> The appointment of Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Senator Morton will be gratifying to the Democratic party at large. In states manship, we dare say, he might still sit at the feet of the Gamaliel of Indiana, that pure and able gentleman, ex-Governor Hendricks. But Mr. Voorhees is a much younger man, and has had far less experience as legislator. That he is a very eloquent speaker there are not two opinions. He has been known throughout the country for his brilliant and warm rhetorical displays ever since he stood forth in defence of Cooke in the John Brown days, when that crazy old fanatic and fool rushed on the bosses of Virginia's buckler and was crush ed. Mr. Voorhees will no doubt sus tain his reputation when he enters upon the new arena.

Whilst the Muscovite is putting forth unwonted power and making headway under the new commander, Gen. Todleben, who has evidently worked some important changes within the last few weeks, the Ottoman power is in trouble at the centre. A conspiracy in the interest of the deposed Sultan, Murad, has been discovered, and many prominent dignitaries are reported arrested. It looks now as if the overwhelming numbers of Russia will triumph over all physical difficulties, and that sooner or later the Czar will dictate his own terms, unless the Great Powers shall interfere to prevent it. England has been quiet as long as the Turk appeared to an advantage, but now that the game has changed in favor of the Bear, the British lion (Beaconsfield) begins to roar.

Gen. Chalmers, the new member from Mississippi, promises to be useful, possibly, an able, member of Congress. He has already exhibited signs of practical statesmanship by his bill to create a separate committee to consider the commerce and necessary improvements of the Mississippi river and its tributaries. It is believed that the effect of the adoption of his bill will be very great upon the commercial prosperity of the country, and especially upon the commercial independence of the great West and Southwest. Broad and generous legislation will recognize every section of our great coun try, and will vote such moneys as may be necessary to increase the wealth of the whole by developing the resources of particular sections.

The Grand Jury in Richland coun ty, South Carolina, have returned a true bill against that representative carpet-bagger of reconstruction days, the Hon. John J. Patterson, who at this time holds the once distinguish ed seat of United States Senator from the Palmetto State. There are no less than twenty-four witnesses who swear that each one of them were bribed to vote for Patterson whilst a member of the Legislature. We trust sincerely that the corrupt rascal will be convicted, and then we will see how the Republican Senators will vote upon a motion for his expulsion from the Senate. We think the chances for a Democratic Senator in his place are very encour-

"The dollar of our daddies" is victorious. Bland's silver-dollar bill passed the House of Representatives by an overwhelming vote-163 to 34. This bill proposes to remonetize the old silver dollar of 1837, which weighed 4121 grains. It is thought it will pass the Senate, and that President Hayes will not veto it.

It is announced in the Parisian papers that the President will appoint another cabinet of Monarchists, and the names are given. M. Ponyer-Quertier is to be Prime Minister. It is regarded generally as a temporary expedient to postpone the inevitable.

If you wish to get yourself into print, and have no other way, try the following which appeared in the Bal-or Ransom, of North Car-John A. Logan's cousin,

Brogden's Bill to Modify and Amend the Internal Revenue Laws. From the Congressional Record, Oct. 29.] Mr. Brogden, on leave, introduced the following bill: A bill to modify and amend the internal revenue laws:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the internal revenue tax now imposed on spirituous liquors, wines, and cordials manufactured from apples, peaches, and grapes, and also the internal revenue tax on leaf and manufactured tohacco of the growth and production of the United States and Territories, be and the same is hereby repealed.

Sec. 2. That the internal revenue tax on spirituous liquors manufactured from corn, wheat and rye shall be fifty cents per gallon.

Sec. 3. That this act shall take effect and be in force from and after the 30th day of June, 1878.

Extra Session not to be Adjourned

Until the Regular Session Begins. All idea of adjourning the extra session much, if any, before the beginning of the regular session seems to have been abandoned. Indeed, it is hardly possible now to effect an adjournment before the last of the month. To-day's action prolongs debate on Ewing's bill until Tuesday, the 13th. The army bill will probably be passed before that, but as soon as these two bills are out of the way Chairman Atkins will have some more appropriation bills ready. The navy oill will be presented next after the army bill. It will make appropriation for the deficiency which exists of nearly two million dollars, because this money is owed for the pay of officers and men and of the United States marines. It should be borne in mind, however, that the failure to pay these men is not the fault of the House. The House appropriated the usual amount for the pay of the navy, but Robeson diverted the money to other uses and left the deficiency where it is, doubtless because he knew that Congress would not allow the officers and men to go unpaid. - Wash. Cor. Richmond Dis-

The United States Senate. Since 1871 the Republicans have lost sixteen Senators and gained one -not considering the seats now in dispute. The gain is in California and the losses are in the following States: Connecticut (2), New York New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana (2), Illinois, West Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, Mississippi, Arkansas, Missouri and Texas (2). Unless a breaking up of parties should sooner occur, the Democrats will be certain, during the next two years, to make further gains of one Senator in each of the following States: Ohio, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama and Arkansas. In no State have the Republicans any prospect of gaining a seat, unless it be Connecticut. It would, therefore, seem as well assured as anything can be in politics, that the control of the Senate will pass into the hands of the Democrats in 1879.-N. Y. Tribune.

CURRENT COMMENT.

- The President's visit to the Virginia State Fair at Richmond gives prominence to the fact of the unprecedented success of these fairs this fall all ever the South. Not only have the harvests been bountiful as seldom before, but all classes are uniting in the advancement of dead. There was a big skeleton in that their various industries. With the cessation of political strife, the growing fraternization of both races, the establishment of manufactures, and the rapidly increasing immigration to the untilled fields of some of the best blood and sinew of the North, the South seems at last entering the high road to prosperity. The beneficent policy of President Hayes is already pearing rich fruit.-Springfield Re publican, Ind. Rep. - No one now loiters in the Senate chamber to take up and flaunt the red standard which has faded into white upon Morton's coffin. He will receive his meed of praise for furnishing soldiers to the National Government faster than they were needed; for taking care of the men of his State in the camp and on the field, bringing home the wounded, sending nurses and nourishment to the sick; for the intrepidity with which he overcame the opponents of his administration; and when, in course of time, a sixteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States shall have been adopted abolishing the present absurd method of electing a President and Vice President, it will be remembered that the credit of arousing the national mind into an intelligent consideration of the necessary change belonged to Morton. - Chicago Times, Ind Rep.

POLITICAL POINTS.

- Washington Capital: Johnny is a Welch man, Johnny is a thief; Johnny came to Washington And stole old Simon's beef.

- Rev. Dr. Schenck, in his adthe Ediscopal Congress, in New York, held up to contempt the true in wardness of the Radicals, by his pointed allusions to the great esteem in which they held Robert Ingersoll, the self-avowed in-fidel, and John Morrisey, the self-acknowledged gambler.

- "A little more of Andy Johnson's spirit," says the Baltimore Gazette, "would improve Mr. Hayes." No; not a bit of it. What good did Andy Johnson's spirit do either for himself or the South? With a little more of Mr. Hayes's savoir faire in Mr. Johnson the South would never have needed Mr. Hayes. "No, more of that an' thou lovs't me, Hal."-Richmond State, Dem.

With the State debt finally and amicably settled, and a Bureau of Immigration estab-lished in New York city, with a vigorous and capable State agent at its head, people from the old world would soon seek this State as a place of permanent residence:-Raleigh Register, Rep.

That antagonism between the two races means the ruin of the weaker. Impress this lesson upon him, and that crime will always be overtaken and punished, and we shall then have removed the opportunity and the rewards of following victous counsel. This can only be done by fighting resistlessly and equally at all, whether low or high, native or foreigner, who have danced at these unhallowed wakes. - Weldon News.
