No intelligence of an armistice has yet been received. It is probable that Russia will have modify its terms. England and Austria have sent a note to Russia stating that they will sanction no measure that, directly or indirectly, will result in the ruin of the Ottoman Empire. Austria is disappointed and dissatisfied with the peace conditions. It expected that they would be submitted for approval to a European Congress. In England the government will be sustained in Parliament. A strong anti-Russian feeling is springing up, and some of the provincial papers have assumed a decided anti-Russian tone. A large open-air meeting was held at Sheffield, when the name of Earl Beaconsfield was cheered, and the name of Lord Carnarvon was hissed. Turkey is ready to accept any terms that will keep the Bear out of Constantinople. That city is literally filled with refugees, numbering, it is reported, 150,000. There is great suffering, and the humane society, known as the Red Crescent, appeals to the kind hearted men of all countries to aid them.

The Senate committee to investigate the Treasury accounts is hard at work, and some important discoveries have been made enough to show that the charges made by Senator Davis were well taken. The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says:

"In one of his speeches Mr. Davis made the statement that in 1870 there had been a forced balance of over $200,000,000. This statement has been most abundantly verified, and it is further discovered that this immense false entry was made by the written instructions of Mr. Boutwell, who was at the time Secretary of the Treasury, and who afterwards, when a Senator, denied from his seat with great vehemence the existence of any irregularities in the treasury accounts. It is understood that this letter of Mr. Bontwell is in possession of a high officer of the treasury, and the committee will of course call for it before their investigation is concluded."

The well informed Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun confirms the reports from New Orleans relative to the plan to seat Conkling as President of the Senate, and have a new election for the Presidency in 1877. He says the carpetbag Senators kicked at making Conkding President, and demanded Morton as the condition of their support. The Sun says:

"This sudden diversion was only disclosed on Sunday, and the next day the vote of Louisiana was to be decided. It led to a grave conference at the Arlington Hotel, where Mr. Conkling was then lodged, which ran into the small hours of the morning. Monday came and there was intense anxiety at the Capitol, for these rumors had spread through the air. Mr. Conkling did not appear in the Senate Chamber at all. not appear in the Senate Chamber at all, but was known to be for a time in his committee room, to which only a favored few were admitted.

"Before the Senate was called to order Mr. Con Aing was on his way to Baltimore, where he passed the day, and returned in the affernoon trais. Consequently he made no speech. The Returning Board vote of Louislaha was counted without any record of his name, and Mr. Hayes was thus virtually made President. And new this same Senator is behind the scenes pulling the wires to reopen the count and

PROM OUR COUNTRY'S CAPITAL News Notes and Gosetp from the Washington Post, January 29th. A SENATOR'S FUNERAL DISCOURSE.

The Silver bill came up in the Senate just after morning business, and Mr. Morrill made it the opportunity for preaching a funeral sermon over three hours long. He had no corpse to preach over, but he made the occasion just as solemn as if he were officiating over a dozen. His speech was said to have been made in opposition to the bill, but if he called every person in the Senate Chamber as witnesses, not one could swear which side he spoke on.

WHAT BEN BUTLER SAYS.

General Butler said vesterday that the vote on these resolutions in the Senate and House proves conclusively that the silver bill can be passed over a veto, and that the future financial policy of the government is in the ands of those who want to legislate for the people. Said he: "Some resoutions against remonetization have been sent to me by some persons of my town, in the hope of embarrassing me a little. But I'm going to ask consent, to-morrow, to present them, and say that the authors of the resolutions and myself differ very widely in our views as to what is for the good of the country; but that I'll agree to leave it to the future to see who is right, and I also mean to say that no matter how I vote I can't possibly make matters worse, while there is a chance for improvement."

COX ON SUBSIDIES. On the matter of subsidies, Mr. Cox, of New York, says he never voted for any such measure; that they are "running sores," and that to connect the Government with business hurt both.

THE DIPLOMATIC BILL.

The sub-committee of the House committee on Appropriations, to whom were referred the Consular and Diplomatic bill, have come to an greement, and will report to the committee to-day. The bill, as agreed upon, reduces the pay of the four first-class missions-England, France, Germany and Russia-from $17,500 to $15,000. Five general consulates-Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium and Greece-are abolished; the pay of all second-class dipomatic positions has been reduced from $12,000 to $10,000 each. All Consuls getting $6,000, except London, are reduced to $5,000, and the lower grade of Consulates are reduced in pay in the same proportion, until those getting $2,000 and under are reached, and their pay is not disturbed. Several Consular positions are abolished, and in case some emergency not foreseen should arise, $20,000 is placed at the disposal of the President, to be used for the efficiency of the diplomatic service.

KRILOGG'S DILEMMA.

Kellogg, the doubtful Senator from Louisiana, is very much annoyed at the published statement that the Senate Committee on Commerce have agreed to reject the nomination of Williamson to be Collector at New Orleans. Kellogg says the committee have taken no action on the nomination except to lay it over at his request. He promised Hayes that he would not oppose Williamson on condition that Packard flatly refuses to sanction the bargain, and says he will not take anything but the Collector-

THE SILVER LEAGUE. The Silver League, or Association of the House held its second meeting vesterday afternoon, Mr. Buckner, of Missouri, presiding. Among the first to enter the room was Ben Butler. and from present appearances he is likely to prove a useful member. The attendance was not nearly so large as before, but the chairman announced that there were 117 members on the roll. Butler subscribed fifty dollars to distribute documents. A fund is to be raised.

Mr. Yeates (N. C.) sent up and had read certain resolutions adopted by izens of North Carolins, denyin the truth of the report of inhumanity at the time of the wreck of the U. S steamer Huron.

Mr. Yeates said he knew those people, and they had never in any case failed to respond to the cry of distress; on the contrary, they were always vigilant and spent their money to rescue distressed vessels. The report charging upon them inhumanity did great injustice. The resolutions were ordered print-

Unmallable Letters. The following are the unmailable letters remaining in the city postoffice, January

Mrs. Francis Stearns, Brooklyn, New York; Miss Annie M. Tennent, care Dr. C. Tennent, Asheville, N. C.; Annie Norcum, Newbern, N. C.

At a meeting of the Stockholders of the Wilmigton & Weldon Railroad Company, resident in this city, held at the Produce Exchange, yesterday afternoon, to consult together, and take action in reference to the recent rapid decline in stock, the failure of the Wilmington, Columbia & Augusta Railroad Company to pay the semi-annual dividend of 81 per cent. on the capital stock of the former Company, according to the terms of the lease, &c., Mr. Z. Latimer was called to the Chair and Capt. A. L. DeRos-

set requested to act as Secretary. The Chairman explained the object of the meeting, after which, on motion a statement in regard to the matter under consideration was read by Mr. Donald MacRae, which, after some discussion, was unapimously adopted by the meeting, representing about three thousand shares of the stock, as the sense of those present. On motion a committee of five was appointed by the Chair, consisting of Messrs Donald MacRae, D. R. Murchison, Wm. Calder, L. B. Grainger and W. H. McRary. to take such action in the premises as may seem to them most advisable in the interest of the Stockholders resident in Wilmington. On motion, the Chairman was added to the committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

Deadly Assault-One Colored Mai Cute the Threat of Another With a Rasor.

On Friday night last, during a gathering at the house of one Harvey Highsmith near Burgaw, Pender county, a disturbance arose between some of the parties present. when Highsmith interfered to preserve the peace, requesting the belligerents to be quiet and not have any fighting in his house. Daniel Hayes, colored, one of the parties referred to, taking umbrage at the well meant suggestion and efforts of Highsmith. immediately drew a razor which he had secreted about his person, made a furious assault upon his host and succeeded in cutting his throat, inflicting a dangerous wound, from which, we understand, Dr. anders, the physician who was sun says he will probably die. Hayes had not been arrested at last accounts, though a warrant had been issued for that purpose and placed in the hands of an officer.

The Fire Yesterday Morning. The alarm of fire yesterday morning, about half past 1 o'clock, was caused by the burning of a small unoccupied building on Castle, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, the property of Messrs. Northrop & Cumming. The fire was no doubt the work of an incendiary. There had been two unsuccessful attempts to burn the building earlier in the night, once between and 10 o'clock, and again shortly after 10 o'clock, on both of which occasions the flames were extinguished by persons in the neighborhood. The adjoining building also the property of Messrs. Northrop & Cumming, was slightly damaged.

The house destroyed, which was valued at about $350, was insured in the Petersburg Savings and Insurance Company, represented by Messrs. DeRosset & Northrop, for $250.

Puneral of the Late Major Byrae. The remains of the late Maj. J. A. Byrne, who died on Tuesday morning from a wound received Monday afternoon, by accidentally shooting himself, were conveyed to their last resting place in Oakdale Cemetery yesterday morning. The funeral services, which took place at St. James Church, were very solemn and impressive and were largely attended by our citizens, and at their conclusion the choir sang the old familiar hymn, "Rock of Ages, Cleft for Me," &c. The Board of Underwriters, of which Major Byrne was a member, attended the funeral in a body. Clerk of the Superior Court of Pender

County. We learn that Judge Moore, who is now presiding in our Superior Court, has appointed Mr. A. V. Horrell as Clerk of the Superior Court and Judge of Probate for Pender county. As Judge McKoy, the regularly elected Judge for this judicial disrict, but who is now, in accordance with the rotating plan, holding court in another district, had previously appointed Mr. Robert K. Brysh, there will doubtless be a conflict as to which Judge is vested with the proper authority to make the appointment and consequently that "the man with the longest pole will get the persimmon."

The date of St. Paul's Concert having been fixed for Friday evening, Feb. 8th, Mr. VanLaer desires us to state to the ladies ing, which contributed $3 to the city treaand gentlemen who have voluteered to assist, that the success of the concert will depend on the prompt attendance of the repearsals. Despite extremely inclement weather ne audience, composed of much of the beauty and intelligence of Wilmington. assembled at the Opera. House last night to witness the personation of "Evadne" by Miss Mary Anderson, the charming actress. Since she appeared here about a year since, she has grown in fame, in technical skill, in ease and grace of motion, in confidence and power. Still in some sense a novice, she acts with the art and perfection of those dramatic "stars" who have won a peoples' acclaim, and will doubtless continue to develop and advance in her profession, to which she bears the true devotion and love of an enthusiast, until she has made a name worthy to rank among the greatest. She has genius, and when years of patient study and endeavor shall have ripened that genius to its full flower we may expect her to secure a name that shall live with the foremost, and that shall defy adverse criticism. Her natural gifts are indeed remarkable, but she requires histrionic training to enable her to give variety to the tones of an exquisite voice, and breadth and versatility to her personations. She has intense emotions, and is wonderfully magnetic, but the range of passion is not yet wide, however deep and consuming, or however remarkable her capacity of expression.

lithe, willowy, graceful form she wins the beholder at the first glance. Her face is unusually sweet and engaging. Her voice is rich, powerful and yet musical. At times there is a marvellous pathos in its tones. From the first she holds the audience by her attractive person, her unsurpassed vocalization, her lovely face so often racked with pain or kindled by passion, and by her utter absorption in the character she represents. Only now and then did she approach the ranting of the stage. Her naturalness, her freedem, her grace, her beauty and simplicity were very pleasing.

We do not admire the play. It is full of bombast and is a weak imitation of Shakespeare, particularly of Macbeth. Miss Anderson, it must be admitted, did a great deal with it. It is not the play to evoke her finest points and to test her highest capabilities.

She was better supported than we were led to expect. Mr. Norton played Colonna with decided spirit. The Villain was rendered with considerable effect and judgment. The play was much enjoyed by the audience and frequent applause interrupted the performance. By some strange oversight there were no programmes. To-night "Ingomar," a much more artistic and attractive play, we understand, will be presented, when Miss Anderson will appear as Parthenia, which is said to be one of her most exquisite personations.
