English guard boats are watching out for the Russian torpedo expedition in the Sea. of Marmora. -- It seems that the Russian and English Cabinets are willing to accept the proposition of each, withdrawing simultaneously from the neighborhood of Constantinople, but they are afraid of each other and of the Turks. - The prevailing feeling in the English press is one of great uneasiness. - All the Berlin dispatches to the London papers are despondent. -New Orleans mint is to be put in operation.

President-Wm. Orton, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, is dead. -A shoe factory at East Weymouth, Mass. burnt, loss $22,000, incendiary. --- Blaine introduced resolutions against the repeal or change of the tariff. - Butler's bill for the issue of fractional currency and notes of small denominations was defeated in the House. - River and harbor bill passed; yens 166, nays 66. - New York markets: Money easy at 5 per cent; gold firm at 1004; cotton dull at 104@104c; flour quiet and steady; wheat quiet and 1c higher; corn easier at 50@57c; spirits turpentine steady at 30@301 cents; rosin firm at $1 50@1 55.

The casualties of war are simply horrible. Since Erzeroum was evacnated 13,000 sick and wounded Turks have died, and 21,000 Russians have died from sickness since they entered the plain of Erzeroum. And this is a small part of the loss of either army.

Already 6,000 applications have been made for pensions of the war of 1812, under the recent act. It will require $556,000 to pay these. was stated in the Senate, when the bill was pending, that there were not more than a few hundred pensioners.

There is a feeling of great uneasiness in England. The press is depressed, and all the Berlin correspondents write despondingly. Whilst the Cabinets of England and Russia have intimated their willingness to withdraw from the neighborhood of Constantinople, new and great difficulties have arisen to retard or prevent such a consummation. Distrust of each other and of the Turks' purposes appear to be the groundwork of the difficulty. Each is afraid the other will get the advantage.

> From Washington. [Special to Richmond Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, April 20. THE TEXAS PACIFIC.

Colonel Tom Scott is here, and I hear that he is confident of carrying through the Texas Pacific bill this session. The fight will be first made in the Senate, and Messrs. Ransom and Lamar are now among its most active friends in that body from the South. A petition, signed by two hundred of the railroad men of Alabama, was received to-day by Mr. Herbert, of that State.

RESUMPTION AND THE BANKING AND CURRENCY COMMITTEE.

Mr. Richard D. Pullan, of Cincinnati, was to-day before Judge Buckner's committee, and gave his views in regard to the resumption question. He said a forced resumption cannot be maintained with the present volume of currency, but that if the Government would issue directly a currency that would preserve its equivalency with commerce it would inspire confidence, and everything would be right. He would take in and cancel all the national bank notes as they become mutilated. Then he would issue Government legal tenders to the amount of bank notes so destroyed, and would make greenbacks received for customs dues. This would enable the Government to accumulate in its vaults a dollar in coin for every dollar in greenbacks in circulation. He would have the Government go into the market and buy gold and silver to pay interest on its bonds. He is for the repeal of the resumption act.

What Tilton Says About His Wife's

ST. PAUL, MINN., April 18. Theodore Tilton lectured at New Hampton, Iowa, last night. After the lecture he made a statement to reporter of the Globe of this city, in which he says that Mrs. Tilton's card was a surprise to him, and that he had no agency in the matter. He added: Mrs. Tilton has made no overtures to me for a family reunion, nor have I made any to her, nor have our two daughters ever made such overtures to either of their parents. What Mrs. Tilton's future plans are I do not know. Whether she is to live in Brooklyn I do not know. The story that Mrs. Tilton is to accompany me to Europe, or that there is to be a reunion of the family on my return, is a fabrication.

A Child's Miraculous Escape. NEW YORK, April 19.
While the Erie lightning express train was sweeping down the Valley of the Delaware, a mile below Cochecton, on Wednesday afternoon. the engineer saw a little girl walking the track. He was just rounding a curve. The locomotive shricked, but within two seconds the child was overtaken and the train passed the spot where she had stood. The engineer looked behind the rear car, expecting to see her mangled body. But the track was clear. He stepped upon the guards of the locomotive, and saw the child plastered against the cowcatcher. She was senseless. He approached her with great care, and succeeded in rescuing her as she was about to roll to the ground. The train was stopped and backed up to the residence of the girl's parents. They were poor people, living in a shanty on the line of the road. girl was about eleven years old. was slightly cut about the face, but escaped without further injury.

Buchan did all in his power to entertain his visitors during the time spent on his fine ship, and they testified their appreciation of his efforts, by hearty cheers on taking their departure, Easter Decorations. We learn that the Episcopal churches, St. Paul's Lutheran and St. Thomas' Catholic churches were all handsomely decoorated for Easter Sunday. At St. Paul's Lutheran the decorations were almost entirely of a floral character; instead of wreaths and garlands of evergreens, as formerly, two vases of beautiful flowers being placed in each window and a cross and crown composed of flowers in the rear of the altar.

P. McGimsey, the soap man, a white hood on his head, powdered his face with flower, and went out on Surry street, between Church and Castle, to enact the part of a ghost. It happened that there were two members of the police force in that neighborhood, one of whom had gone to investigate some disturbance opposite what is known as the "Long House," when suddenly a scream was heard issuing from the vicinity of the latter building, followed by the appearance of the "apparition" referred to, walking briskly from the direction from which the cry proceeded. As his ghostship stepped into the street he was confronted by Officer G. W. W. Davis, who took in the character and penetrated the disguise of the supposed apparition at glance, and he was seized and taken to the guard house. When court assembled yesterday morning he was brought into the room arrayed in all the ghastly pharaphernalia which he had worn on the previous evening, including his powdered visage and of course attracted much attention. On the 20th of March last the Commissioners of the Freedmen's Savings and Trust Company, at Washington, D. C., commenced paying a dividend of ten per cent of the funds now in hand, and Jos. E. Sampson, Register of Deeds for this ecunty, has received a number of passbooks, with accompaning checks, which the depositors interested can get by calling upon him. Many of the depositors, as we learn from a letter received from one of the Commissioners by Col. Brink, Postmaster here, have not sent their pass-books, which should be forwarded at once to the office of the Commissioners of the Freedmen's Savings and Trust Company, Washington, D. C. John Locklear, the Outlnwed scuffletonian-Attempts to Capture Him-He is Shot at and Desperately Wounddd.

By a special telegram to the STAR from Lumberton, Robeson county, we learn that Sheriff McMillan came upon John Locklear, the outlawed Scuffletonian, on Sunday night, about 1 o'clock, in Cumberland county, and ordered him to surrender. He refused to do so, whereupon the Sheriff shot him with a pistol four times, wounding him, it is thought, fatally, but it being dark at the time he managed to crawl under a house and finally made his escape. He was tracked for half a mile or more yesterday morning by the blood from his wounds, but was not overtaken. The Sheriff left a posse in pursuit of him, and thinks he will be captured soon. Locklear had been working on a farm for about six weeks, where he was shot, taking an active part in Sunday schools and other religious exercises, but was not known by his right name.

A Narrow Escape from Drowning.

A very distressing accident happened a the residence of Mr. C. H. Schulken, residing on Walnut, between Third and Fourth streets, on Sunday afternoon, and one which culminated in one of the narrowest escapes from death we have ever heard of. It seems that Mrs. S. was absent, and Mr. S. was sitting on the steps of his back plazza, while his little baby boy, aged about seventeen months, was playing about in the yard. The little fellow finally got beyond the range of his vision, and remained so perhaps about three or four minutes, when he missed him and commenced looking around for him, but still anticipating nothing wrong, until suddenly he was horrified beyond description by seeing the feet of the little fellow protruding from a duck trough on the premises, consisting of the half of a lard rel sunk into the ground and nearly filled with water, his head and body submerged in the dirty, filthy pool. Quickly lifting him from this perilous position, he found him to be apparently cold and lifeless, and was sure at the time that the vital spark had entirely left the body. The neighvesterday morning almost to its utmost ca- ing him upon the floor and using other means of resuscitation for some time, the ing drawn thither by the report, which had little fellow finally commenced showing signs of returning life and consciousness, and at last accounts, we are glad to learn, he had so far improved that all danger was considered to be past. Mr. Schulken says, and we can readily believe it, that his sensations upon beholding the little feet of his child protruding from the trough were almost enough to freeze his soul with horror, and that the impression then made upon his mind will never be entirely erased as long as his life shall last. If he had been one minute later in discovering his whereabouts, his death would have been certain.

Accident to a Colored Boy. A small colored boy by the name of Wm. Michael Spearman, living with his mother, Cora Spearman, on Market, between Eighth and Ninth streets, was accidentally run over by a dray at the intersection of Market and Front streets, yesterday morning. The boy had started to cross the street, and at the same moment the horse belonging to the Hook and Ladder Company and used to convey their truck in cases of fire, but at the time being attached to a dray, came thundering up the street from the direction of the wharf, just as the alarm of fire had sounded, and before the boy, who was probably bewildered, could heed the warning of the driver, the horse came in contact with him and knocked him down, the dray passing over his body and inflicting serious injury upon him. He was taken up by Officer B. R. King and carried to the office of Dr. W. J. Love, where his wounds were dressed, and he was then sent to his home. It is said to be almost impossible to stop the horse when the alarm of fire is sounded, but the driver managed to swerve him somewhat from his course or the accident would doubtless have been more serious. We learn that the animal's mouth was cut considerably in the effort to hold him in.

The Fire Yesterday Morning. Yesterday morning, about 111 o'clock, the slarm of fire was sounded for the Third Fire District, and was found to proceed or be confined in the city prison for five | ner of Third and Princess streets, owned by Dr. A. J. DeRosset and used as a blacksmith shop, &c., by Capt. T. J. Southerland. The fire department was promptly S. Hill, colored, charged with being drunk on hand, and the Hook and Ladder boys and disorderly, was ordered to be confined some of whom mounted the roof with their axes, managed to keep the flames in check to some extent until streams of water from the engines were gotten upon the fire when, it quickly succumbed. Almost the entire southern portion of the roof was in flames when the engines commenced playing upon it. The fire originated from a spark. There was no insurance upon the

The Bucket Company. The Fifth Ward Bucket Company met last evening, and removed their truck from its location on Ninth, between Castle and Queen streets, to the old truck house, corner of Fifth and Nun streets, upon which occasion it was resolved by the company io date their anniversary from yesterday, the 22nd of April.
