that there were 234 votes against Mr. Knott, and only 13 with him, he needs all the consolation that the Sun can shed upon him.

We are sincerely glad that Congress has done something for that brave and gifted Irishman, Gen. Jas Shields. A bill increasing his pension from $30 to $100 a month has passed both Houses. We cannot doubt that the President will approve continue; three columns of troops are of it. It is a tardy and inadequate recognition of his services, but it is none the less to be indorsed.

> A man who had been to Europe thirty years ago was a sort of lion on his return, and the story of his travels was listened to with peculiar interest. He was the hero of the town for a while at least, and unless he drew a very long bow his adventures by flood and field were received with much more of credibility than were those of Mungo Park and other early travellers. But now it has become so common to cross the ocean and spend a few months abroad, that no one pays much heed to those who have returned from foreign travels unless they be singularly gifted as narrators. We are reminded of the commonness of European travel now by the following paragraph which we clip from the New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger:

"With some six hundred passengers taking their departure for Europe, and among them not a few eminent men and women, members of the bar, churchmen, artists and artistes, bankers, merchants, politicians and literateurs, the farewells were numerous and touching. The Episcopal clergy turned out in large numbers to bid good-bye to Bishops Littlejohn, Scarborough, Clarkson and Howe, who are going to the Lambeth conference; the acoffice for Miss Kellogg, Mme. Modjeska, Max Strakosch, Mrs. Jarrett and Mrs. Lester Wallack, and the members of the bar for Recorder Hackett. A steam tug, with many friends of the latter, glided about the bay an hour or so prior to the departure of the steamer. [It is perhaps superfluous to say that the fifteen aldermen whom the Recorder has caused to be indicted, were not among the invited guests. | Miss Kellogg and Mme. Modjeska are going to Paris, as likewise is Mr. Strakosch. Among the Donan's cabin list is ex-Governor Chamberlain, of South Carolina."

[Augusta Evening News, June 15.] Yesterday afternoon the triends of Mr. W. E. Bryan were shocked to hear that he had committed suicide at his home at Edgefield court house. A relative of Mr. Bryan's (Mr. Sullivan) received a dispatch yesterday afternoon, at about 6 o'clock, stating that he was dying, and by his own hand, but gave no particulars or cause. From passengers who came in on the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad this morning, we learn that Mr. Bryan shot himself yesterday after-noon and died last night. The cause of his doing so is supposed to be trouble in business. Mr. Bryan was unmarried, and was about 23 years of age. He was highly esteemed, both in this city and in Edgefield, and his sad end is much regretted.

Found After Many Days. Mr. A. H. Paddison, Sheriff of Pender county, had his room entered at his boarding house in this city in the month of November or December, 1876, and his pocket book, containing money and valuable papers, an overcoat, a pair of boots, a pistol, &c., stolen, and never subsequently ascertained anything as to the whereabouts of the articles or the identity of the thief. few days ago, however, Capt. R. P. Paddison, who had some papers of his own in the pocket book stolen from his brother, received a note from a colored man in the upper part of Brunswick county, stating that he had found a pocket book containing some papers belonging to him, and he sent a messenger after it. It was forwarded by the party who had found;it, and upon examination proved to be the identical pocket book stolen from Sheriff Paddison about eighteen months ago, the papers not having been disturbed and the pocket book itself being in almost as good condition as when it disappeared, but the money, of course, was gone. The colored individual of whom it was obtained says he found i in a hole in a rock under a log, while engaged in getting shingles.

The Blackfish Party.

Those who participated in the excursion to the Blackfish Grounds yesterday say they had a good time, but they admit that sharks and other monsters of the deep must also have enjoyed it, as it must be seldom they are treated to such a feast. Others confess that, taken altogether, it was a rather bilious crowd. They went about fifteen miles outside, and, though it was not rough, all but four or five of the excursionists were seasick. Under these circumstances it was natural to suppose that there would not be very many fish caught, but we understand that they took in enough to make up to each of the sick ones for what they had lost.

Commencement Exercises of the Cape Fear Military Academy.

The First Annual Commencement of the Cape Fear Military Academy since its reopening was celebrated at the Opera House last evening.

Mr. John D. Bellamy, Jr., delivered the annual address, which was attentively listened to by both the Cadets and the large crowd of friends and patrons of the school present. The audience frequently interrupted the speaker with hearty applause, and the universal verdict as to his effort was extremely favorable.

The address, well written and delivered in an engaging manner, embodied much good advice and sound instruction arranged in an attractive manner, which rendered the occasion both pleasant and profitable. Upon the conclusion of Mr. Bellamy's speech, Lieut. Catlett read a brief report of the school since its opening last fall, wherein he stated that the Principal, desiring to establish a military school in some Southern city, had, after mature deliberation, se lected Wilmington; that he came here, was encouraged by some and discouraged by others, but decided to adhere to his intention. The school was opened, thirty-three students entered, which number gradually increased during the year to fifty eight that the progress made by the students had been highly satisfactory. The compliments paid the school had been numerous, and those having it in charge were determined to make every effort to always deserve the patronage of the people. By next year the building would be altered in several respects and arrangements made to accommodate a number of boarders, several having already applied for admission. That an additional teacher had been engaged, the son of a North Carolinian, who had obtained more than a State reputation as an instructor, and who had himself been very successful in the profession. In conclusion, Lieut. Catlett, on behalf of the Principal, thanked the citizens of this place for the liberal patronage they had bestowed upon the institution.

· Cadet J. B. Hawes, of the second class, delivered a beautiful extract from a speech of Judge Edward Cantwell, on the imprisonment of Jefferson Davis, in a charming manner. Cadet Hawes declaims excellently, the intonations of his voice and his gestures being extremely pleasing. He was loudly applauded and deservedly so.

Cadet W. R. Morrison recited a piece, the name of which we did not learn, in a very satisfactory manner.

Capt. J. H. Meares delivered a short and excellent speech in an impressive manner. We did not ascertain whether the piece was original or an extract. To explain our seeming neglect, it is proper to state that there was no regular programme, the speeches of the Cadets being voluntary. Cadet H. D. Thompson read a composition on "The Beautiful" in a very creditable style, at the conclusion of which Major

Burgess arose and delivered a brief, but feeling and well conceived farewell address to the Cadets. Cadet J. B. Hawes then offered three cheers for Major B. J. Burgess, and the Commencement exercises were concluded. Maj. Burgess has displayed indomitable energy and perseverance in the conduct of the Cape Fear Military Academy, and certainly deserves the success he has obtained. The school is now a fixed institution of Wilmington, and we trust will succeed beyoud the most sanguine expectations of its Principal and his assistants.
