The Parlor Concert To-Morrow Night The parlor concert to take place at the Opera House to-morrow night, under the management of Mr. A. B. Chase, promises to be a musical treat of more than ordinary excellence. The best amateur talent of Wilmington and Smithville has been engaged to assist in the entertainment, and the programme of favorite and familiar Scotch, German, English and Irish ballads. duets, glees, &c., will be sufficiently attractive to disarm the most fastidious musical critic, to say nothing of the pleasure it will afford to the ordinary run of musicloving mortals. No effort, we are assured, will be spared by the management to make the entertainment a complete success, while the object to be benefited in a pecuniary point of view is one that should enlist the sympathy and cordial approval of the entire community. We hope to see a well-filled house Monday night, and feel that we can confidently assure the public that they will have no cause to regret being

Among the selections to be rendered we notice the following familiar songs: Kathleen Mavourneen, Mary of Argyle, I Cannot Sing the Old Songs, The Fine Ould Irish Gentlemen, Speed Away, Pirate's Glee, Essie Dear, Flee as a Bird, Larboard Watch, Man the Life Boat, Good Night,

A Handsome Cratt. There was a somewhat remarkable and distinguished arrival in our waters vesterday afteruoon, in the shape of the handsome schooner yacht Little Ida, of Baltimore, commanded by Capt. Chas. Haffcke. In dimensions the little craft is eighteen feet in length, six and a half feet in width of beam, four and a half feet in depth of hold, and draws three feet of water. She is of galvanized iron build, with an aire tight compartment at each end, the remainder of the space being taken up by the cabin, which is handsomely constructed and tastefully furnished. The Little Ida is bound for Florida, on a pleasure trip, and will probably leave to-day. She left Baltimore about the first of June, having made frequent stoppages on the route. She is now at the wharf of Messrs. Kerchner & Calder Bros., North Water street.
